SPECIAL INTEREST — For more than one reason, President Norman A. Wiggins of Campbell College, right, has had a watchful eye on Barry Whitaker of Murfreesboro over the past four years. Young Whitaker entered Campbell for a program that Dr. Wiggins hand-tailored five years ago as the first U.S. undergraduate program of its kind — to train young business administrators for trust banking. To President Wiggins' considerable satisfaction, the young man came through with flying colors, finished his trust-education major, and received his B.S. in business administration May 19. Also gratified was Barry's father — Dr. Bruce Whitaker, who is Dr. Wiggins' colleague, as president of Chowan. Dr. Whitaker "graduated" from Campbell at the same time, receiving the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity during the commencement exercises May 19.

Campbell College Awards Honorary Degree to Chowan's President

Dr. Bruce E. Whitaker, president of Chowan College and Cleveland County native, received the Doctor of Divinity degree from Campbell College during Campbell's graduation exercises May 19.

In presenting the honorary degree, Campbell president, Dr. Norman Wiggins, said: "The Chowan College of today stands as a living monument to the capable leadership, complete dedication, unselfish ambition, marked versatility and patient endurance of Dr. Bruce E. Whitaker. An experienced scholar and educator, he has served on numerous professional committees and headed various organizations. A recognized civic promoter, he has participated in the work of state, local and regional groups involved in problems relating to mental health, family life, area development and cultural heritage."

Dr. Whitaker was not the only member of the Whitaker family to be honored during the graduation services. His son, Barry, received the Bachelor of Business Administration degree.

Dr. Whitaker is the son of Mrs. Oveda E. Whitaker and the late Fay A. Whitaker of Rt. 3, Shelby. He was recently named to Who's Who in America. He has received numerous other honors including "Tar Heel of the Week" by Raleigh News and Observer, Murfreesboro Exchange Club's "Outstanding Citizen for 1961," "Boss of the Year" by Murfreesboro Jaycees, 1971, and "Boss of the Year" by North Carolina Jaycees, 1971-72.

Chowan's president is serving as vice-president of the National Council of Independent Junior Colleges, the latest of numerous leadership roles he has assumed for state, regional and national educational and professional groups. This includes president of the Association of Southern Baptist Colleges and Schools; president of North Carolina Literary and Historical Association; president, Association of Eastern North Carolina Colleges; and member, board of directors, Regional Education Laboratory for the Carolinas and Virginia.

Dr. Whitaker recently began his 18th year as president of Chowan. He was valedictorian at Mooresboro High School and is a graduate of Wake Forest College and Southern Baptist Theological Seminary with the B.D., Th.M., and Th.D. degrees. He did graduate study in college administration and sociology at George Peabody College for Teachers.

He has served as instructor at University of Indiana and professor at Cumberland University, Belmont College, and Shorter College. He came to Chowan in 1957 from the position of state secretary, Student Department of the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina.

Douglas Wade Named To Board of Advisors

D. Douglas Wade, Jr., executive vice president of the Planters National Bank and Trust Co. of Rocky Mount has been named to the Chowan College Board of Advisors according to President Bruce E. Whitaker.

A native of Birmingham, Ala., Wade joined Planters in 1972 as branch administrator and senior vice president. Prior to assuming his present position he served as senior vice president and division head of funds management and personnel.

A member of The Church of the Good Shepherd (Episcopal), Wade is a graduate of Christian Brothers College; School of Banking of the South - Louisiana State University; and Executive Program of the Graduate School of Business Administration, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

He is a U. S. Army veteran and served as an infantry first lieutenant in Korea in 1951.

A Rotarian, his community service includes member of the Board of Directors of the United Community Service and Development Council of North Carolina Wesleyan College. He has served as a member of the American Red Cross, Sertoma Club, and the Management Board of the Y.M.C.A.

He is married to the former Dorothy Paul of Tampa, Fla. They have two children, Lisa and Drayton, III.

Dr. Whitaker said Chowan was fortunate to have a man of Wade's background and experience as a member of the Board of Advisors. "We are looking forward to his active participation as a advisor," stated Dr. Whitaker.

DOUGLAS WADE

The president said among Wade's duties as an advisor would be serving as an interpreter of the college in his community. "The advisors are the eyes and ears of the college. They not only communicate the mission and objectives of the college to the public but also report reactions of the public to the college," Dr. Whitaker explained.

He said that despite a heavy demand on their time from their work and other civic and community service, the advisors find time to devote their interest and energies to the college.

Dr. Whitaker said the college profits from their business and professional experience and insight. "As volunteer consultants, their suggestions and ideas are always welcome and serve to strengthen all phases of the operation of the college."

Tuition Rates Are Lowered For Persons Over 65

Beginning in the fall Chowan College, as a community service, will offer reduced tuition fees for persons 65 years of age and over.

Tuition for Golden Agers enrolled in any college course for credit will be $10 per semester hour, stated Dr. B. Franklin Lowe, Jr., academic dean. They may audit a course for $5 per semester hour. This is one-third the regular rate for special students of $30 and $15 respectively.

Lowe said the college "recognizes there are Golden Ager who for personal satisfaction would like to take college courses. Some may even wish to work toward a degree. We also recognize that most Golden Agers are living on fixed incomes, and consequently may not be able to afford higher tuition rates."

Opportunities offered are in 11 professional fields: business, English, fine arts (music, drama, dance, art, graphic arts, photography, health and physical education, languages, mathematics, religion and philosophy, science, and social science.

The fall semester will open with registration August 27 and close December 19. The spring semester, 1976, is January 14 to May 14.
