Rotary scholar completes studies

Alumnus Keith Lawson discusses his studies in Australia with Dean of Students Clayton Lewis. Lawson, Chowan's first Rotary Club

Scholar, spoke on campus and to area Rotary Clubs on his year at the University of Tasmania and experiences in Australia.

Alumnus completes Australian year of study as Rotary Scholar

Chowan students enjoyed the visit of alumnus Keith R. Lawson (Class of 1981) during the spring semester.

Lawson, Chowan's first Rotary Club Scholar, studied a year at the University of Tasmania, Australia. Dean of Students Clayton Lewis, a member of the Murfreesboro Rotary Club, extended the invitation to Lawson to speak on campus and in the community of his experiences in Australia.

Lawson carried out a busy schedule speaking at two assembly programs, to the college Rotaract Club, in classes, and to Rotary Clubs in Murfreesboro, Ahoskie, Edenton and Hertford.

After graduating from Chowan in 1981, the Lawsonville native transferred to the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where he spent his junior year. He studied geology, botany, psychology, chemistry and zoology at the University of Tasmania from February to December, 1983. He said his studies in Australia would help advance his career goal of becoming a dentist.

Australia Travels

Lawson explained that the university has an enrollment of some 5,000 students and is located on a mountainous island state with a milder climate than North Carolina's. He said Tasmania is about 150 miles off the Australian continent coast.

While in Australia, he had the opportunity to travel to Melbourne, Sydney and other cities.

Lawson said the emphasis in Australia is on a practical education. He said you receive training and experience in the field you are entering. For example, his geology class gained practical experience through actually working out of the classroom as geologists.

Lawson said he came to love Australia and appreciate its culture, people, and social life. He said the Australians, who are very "friendly and open", are active people who enjoy playing sports. He said they are "healthy people" who generally choose fruit and milk over "junk food" for snacks.

Ms. Reichard to join staff

Mrs. Diane Edwards Reichard has accepted employment effective August 6 with Chowan as Residence Director of Jenkins Hall, a facility which houses approximately 100 women, Director of Student Activities, and advisor to the Student Government Association.

Mrs. Reichard is a graduate of Southampton High School, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, and the College of William and Mary. "Mrs. Reichard has an appreciation of the private liberal arts college and the two-year college concept," said Clayton Lewis, Dean of Students. "Her experiences in residence hall life at Coker College and counseling at Paul D. Camp Community College should permit her to add strengths to our student development program," concluded Lewis.

Missed Chowan

Lawson said one benefit of his stay in Australia was that he "learned to respect other people and nations". In addition, he learned "how much I missed Chowan College".

Of his stay and experiences in Australia, he commented: "I thoroughly enjoyed it. There were so many things I learned". He thanked Dean Lewis, the college and the Murfreesboro Rotary Club for serving as his hosts during his campus visit and Rotarians for sponsoring his studies in Australia.
