Dr Talmage has announced that he will resign as pastor of the Brooklyn Tabernacle next Sunday unless the debt on the church property has been paid, or arranged for.

Near Natchez, Miss., two negroes encountered a strange object in the woods in the shape of a man whose wild actions suggested an escaped lunatic. The man climbed a tree at their approach and frightened them off.

Mr. James James, of Gravel-la, Ala., ninety years old, has never been sick enough in his life to miss a meal of victuals, and has not taken a dose of medicine in thirty years. One day last week the old gentleman walked a distance of ten miles without any material inconvenience. The case of Mr. James is by no means an unusual one for Conecuh county.

Says The New York Advertiser: "The efforts of men to lay out cities generally end in the cities laying out the men. All business enterprises in which the motive of public spirit combines with and confuses the motive of private profit mislead the judgment. Alexander Hamilton's operations were premature in laying out the city of Paterson. General Lewis Cass was ruined in projecting the city of St. Joseph, Mich. Astor succeeded in every other real estate venture save Astoria. No wonder, therefore, that Lawyer Weeks overloaded when he took on Superior City, the West Superior Land and River Company and the West Superior Iron and Steel Company. To manufacture iron and steel alone against the competition of the class of men in that work requires the exclusive and absorbed industry of a man of the highest genius. It must be no byplay."

Stories of Old People.

Washington Dale, a negro, has just died in Kansas City at the age of 109 years.

David McCoy of California, said to be 103 years of age, is the oldest war veteran in the country.

Henderson Smith, a negro, died a few days ago at Quincy, Ill., and at the given age of 119 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Fish of Bucyrus, Ohio, have just celebrated their diamond wedding. Mr. Fish is 93 years old and his wife 96.

George O. Sharp, the oldest postmaster in the United States is dead. He had been postmaster at Kickapoo, Kan., for thirty consecutive years. Mr. Wanamaker exchanged photographs with the old gentleman some time ago.

There lives a man in Webster county, W. Va., by the name of Whorton, aged 89 years, whose hair and beard are turning from white to black. He is said also to be cutting a new set of teeth. His appearance is said to indicate a man of about 40 years instead of one nearly 90.

The Chinese Government is no longer bound by treaty stipulations which this Government has deliberately violated. No doubt it will proceed to drive American residents out of China basing its action upon the precedent we have established. We could have no reason to complain if, having yielded to the cry of fanaticism in this country, the Chinese should retort upon us our own weakness.—Philadelphia Record.

A general financial revulsion is not possible in this country. Such a disaster can come only when the people are overloaded with debt and a sudden depression in values makes bankruptcy erupt in the legitimate channels of industry and trade. That is not the condition of this country. On the contrary, the people of all sections of the Union were never more generally solvent than they are to-day.—Phil. Times.

Churches Hustling For Tenors.

The church choir directors who are filling their quarters are having a great deal of difficulty in finding tenors. The supply of tenors capable of acceptable church work has always been limited, but at the present time it seems to be more limited than ever. It is estimated that there are 15 churches in this city and Brooklyn whose directors or music committees or clergymen or all three are on a wild hunt for tenors. The Grace church people are perfectly willing to pay a good tenor $1,000 a year, which is equal to $20 a Sunday, or perhaps they may do even better. As for St. Bartholomew's church, it is not believed they would refuse $2,000 if they could secure a satisfactory singer. This is believed to be the salary of Franz Remmert, the bass there.—New York World.
