AN EVENING WITH TENNYSON.

A Delightful Entertainment Given by Mrs. A. G. Carr.

An evening with Tennyson was the nature of a charming entertainment given last evening by Mrs. Dr. A. G. Carr at her beautiful home on the corner of Dillard and Main streets. The parlors, hall and dining room were most tastefully decorated with palms, ferns and cut flowers, and mellow lights gleamed through tinted shades enhancing the beauty of the scene.

The following program was rendered in a most excellent manner:

The unveiling of the Picture of Tennyson—Dr. A. G. Carr.

Sketch of Tennyson—Miss Carr.

Lady Clare—Mrs. A. G. Carr.

Tableau, Sleeping Beauty—Miss Ivey Lyon and Will Yates.

Recitation and Tableau, Lady Clare Vere de Vere—Miss Briggs and F. A. Green.

Dora—Miss Morgan.

Charge of the Light Brigade—Eddie Carr.

Tableau, Grandmother.

Reading, Enoch Arden—Mr. Busbee.

After the literary feast was over delicious refreshments were daintily served in a most beautiful manner. Every one present had a most delightful evening.

Shipped 486 Hogsheads of Tobacco.

Mr. T. H. Martin, one of the buyers on this market, was about the busiest man in town yesterday and today. He shipped 486 hogsheads of tobacco to one firm in Canada, and has several other large orders to fill. He has already bought of the last crop three and a quarter million pounds of tobacco. He started in one of the largest prize houses in the State and his business has increased so rapidly that he has been compelled to secure two other prize

A Durham Lady Gets First Honor.

Mrs. E. L. Bryan, of Durham, who has been taking a course in art at the American Art School in Baltimore, carried off first honors. Second honors went to Miss Rose Budd, of Chatham county, who studied art in Durham and spends much of her time here with her aunt, Mrs. E. J. Parrish. The many friends of Mrs. Bryan and Miss Budd will be pleased to hear of their good fortune, but it is nothing more than was expected and nothing more than they deserve.
