

CAUGHT ON THE FLY.

SOME OF THE DOINGS IN DURHAM AS WE GO ALONG.

Just A String of Little Items we Find on the Margin of our Note-Book.

Robert Pool is the possessor of a hen that came off the nest last Monday, and brought out with her a freak in the chicken line. It has two ordinary legs like any other chicken, but in the rear of those there are two more well developed legs, though they are rather too short for walking purposes at present. It is alive and doing well. That chicken is well heeled, as the saying goes. When it gets tired of running on the two front feet it can fall back on the others.

During the Bellins trial this morning Judge Shuford looked over the crowded court house and remarked: "Mr. Sheriff, I see a number of boys in here, both white and colored, whose morals will not be improved in hearing this case. Order them out and keep them out." There were a great many nods of assent, and the boys had to go. The Judge is receiving a great many compliments upon his action.

J. S. Mesley, the Merchant tailor has a beautiful line of the latest Spring goods for gentlemen's wear. He can suit any taste. Be sure to inspect his stock. All fashionable styles.

The University of North Carolina base ball team and the Durham team will play a match game tomorrow afternoon at Trinity Park.

There was much talk on our streets today in regard to the President's message. "Vote for Wilson."

See Mr. and Mrs. Hotelyon, the "Happy Pair," at the Opera House, Saturday night, March 31st.

We have $7,000 to lend on very good real estate security. The amount cannot be divided.

FULLER & FULLER.

A delightful entertainment is in store for our citizens at the Opera House, Saturday, March 31st.

There was a slight fall of snow in Greensboro yesterday afternoon says the Record.

It is announced that another cold wave is coming.

Mr. Henry.

The lecture next Tuesday evening, at Stokes Hall, by Mr. Walter R. Henry, on woman, will be a rare treat. Speaking of his lecture in Henderson last Tuesday night, on the same subject, a correspondent of the Raleigh News-Observer-Chronicle says:

"Not only did he touch upon woman's capacity as a bread winner and her intellectual capabilities, but he also treated of her in her relations to history and religion, clearly demonstrating that 'the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world.' Mr. Henry's lecture was a beautiful tribute to woman, and his eulogy upon the women of the Confederacy brought rounds of applause from the audience. Upon the whole the lecture was one of the most enjoyable ever listened to by a Henderson audience."

Another evangelist has come to grief. "Rev." John Marston, who claimed to be a Campbellite preacher, of Chicago, after converting sinners at Waynesville, was locked up there Monday night on the charge of "drunk and down." He proclaimed that he was able to whip the whole town.

Dissatisfied With Oklahoma.

Chatham Record: About the 1st of last January a colored man of this place, named Webb McCleanahan, went with his wife to Oklahoma Territory to seek his fortune, having heard most flattering accounts of that section. He is an industrious man and saved up about $100 to take with him, and now all of that is spent and he is without employment. He has written home begging his friends to send him enough to bring him home, as he is almost destitute. His hard case should be a warning to all others who may be disposed to seek their fortunes in distant places about which they know nothing.

Remember the Racket Grocery takes care of its customers six days in the week.

Wilfred Clarke Last Night.

Not an overly large audience greeted Wilfred Clarke last evening, in Stokes Hall, and it was regaled with a most humorous entertainment in the play of "Little Butterfly." It was full of amusing scenes and situations throughout and showed the ludicrousness of a fifty-year-old son of a twenty-eight-year-old step father, and the mixed conditions it got them into. The play was well rendered.

Mr. Clarke, who is a splendid comedian, is supported by a good company, and his plays are worthy of full houses.

Railroad Dots.

The east bound train was out of gear again today—over two hours late. The delay was caused by waiting at Greensboro.

It is said the schedule makers of the Richmond & Danville railroad are at work on a new time table which will soon be ready for the public. There will only be slight changes on the North Carolina road, so it is stated.

It Don't Stop Trains.

The cold weather keeps people in doors, and puts a damper on the spring post, but the trains continue to run and we continue to get in new goods. We are safe to say that no business in this State will have a better assortment, handomer styles and a lower price as you will find by calling at D. T. SWINDELL'S.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Rufus House Cuts his Throat and Then Walks About.

Raleigh Visitor of 29th: A white man named Rufus House, who is an employee at the Caraleigh cotton mills and whose home is in the southern part of the city, on what is known as Caswell's lane, cut his throat last night and may die. Last night he was lying on a pallet on the floor and while there took a knife and cut his throat, inserting the blade in the left side under the ear, making a gash five inches long. Just after he had thus cut himself he arose and walked about the house, looking for a razor. His walking awakened his wife and when she asked what was the matter he replied toothache. He sat down in a chair and his wife hearing the blood pour from his throat and fall on the floor ran to him. She gave the alarm and a physician was sent for. The terrible wound was sewed up. The loss of blood was great. Mr. House said this morning while the wound was being attended to that he imagined people had come to kill him and that he had killed five. He was at church last evening. It is the belief that his mind is affected. He has a wife and two daughters and is a faithful workman. Not long ago a man who lived in the same house tried to kill his family and himself, but was arrested by the police and was pronounced insane.

Asleep several days. A letter from Walnut Cove to the Winston Sentinel says that Mr. Ben Angel, a young man who came to that place several months ago from Virginia, is attracting great interest among the citizens of the Cove and surrounding country.

The young man has been working at a saw mill near the Cove. On the morning of March 27th he was found in his room apparently sound asleep. Physicians were called in but up to last evening all physical science had failed to arouse Mr. Angel from his slumbers. He was breathing apparently easy, therefore his case is a strange one. Mr. Angel is esteemed by all who know him.

Will Use Blood-hounds.

Chatham Record: The frequent barn burnings in the western part of this county have caused a number of the citizens in that section to raise enough money to buy two blood-hounds, which arrived from Pennsylvania a few days ago, and will be used in detecting the incendiaries when they burn another barn.

Will Not Unite. RALEIGH, N. C., March 29.—Mr. Charles Price, one of the republican leaders, says that if there is coalition between the republicans and the populists he will canvass the state in opposition to it. He declares that no true republican can affiliate with the populists as they have nothing in common. He will insist on a straight republican ticket if they expect his support.

The strength of the Farmers' Alliance is reported by its state secretary, Barnes, to be 50,000 equally divided between the two sexes. There are 1,650 sub-alliances. He says these are rapidly reorganizing.
