IN SOCIAL REALMS.

Mrs. J. Harper Erwin Entertains Handsomely.

Two of the most delightful events in Durham's social circles, was the handsome entertainments of Mrs. J. Harper Erwin, yesterday and today, at her beautiful home on Dillard street.

Yesterday evening she gave a dinner party, complimentary to Gov. C. B. Aycock, who was the guest of Col. J. Harper Erwin, one of the Governor's staff. The decorations were beautiful and effective. In the hall were American Beauty roses and palms; the sitting room was in pink and cream roses; the dining room in pink and pink carnations. A ten course dinner was served, which was a most-delightful affair in its conception and serving. The guests were Gov. Aycock, Gen. J. S. Carr, W. A. Erwin, W. A. Guthrie, A. G. Carr, R. W. Winston and W. J. Griswold.

AFTERNOON LUNCHEON.

This afternoon, at 2 o'clock, Mrs. J. Harper Erwin gave a most charming course luncheon to a number of her friends. The decorations were lovely. Pink was the prevailing color. The center piece was a bunch of pink carnations, tied with pink satin ribbon, laid flat upon the table. Place cards were in the shape of beautiful shells, upon which were the names of the products of the water, arranged in such a way as to be spelled out and form the correct name of different fish, etc. The luncheon consisted of oyster cocktails, spiced bouillon, turkey, quail on toast, frozen punch, chicken salad, pink cream in crepe boxes; coffee in sitting room.

The guests were Madames J. S. Carr, A. G. Carr, G. W. Watts, L. L. Morehead, W. A. Guthrie, Mattie Jones and Miss M. Haines.

Tonight Mrs. Erwin will entertain a number of the younger people, and she will give them a delightful time as she is a charming hostess.

If troubled with a weak digestion, belching, sour stomach, or if you feel dull after eating, try Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Price, 25 cents. Samples free at W. M. Yearby's drug store.

GOV. AYCOCK'S ADDRESS.

A GREAT OCCASION FOR THIS CITY.

The Cause of Education Receives an Impetus—After the Address a Banquet Was Served.

The Durham Opera House was filled to overflowing Monday night on the occasion of Governor C. B. Aycock's speech along educational lines.

The Junior Order United American Mechanics, under whose auspices Governor Aycock appeared here, met at their hall and marched to the home of Col. J. Harper Erwin, whose guest the Governor was, and from there accompanied him to the Opera House.

As Governor Aycock entered shortly after 8 o'clock, he was greeted with earnest and prolonged applause.

Besides the distinguished speaker of the evening, among those upon the stage were Dr. E. F. Dixon, State Auditor; Judge W. H. Neal, of Laurinburg; Dr. J. C. Kilgo, Col. J. S. Carr, Messrs Geo. W. Watts, L. A. Carr, James H. Southgate, Leo D. Heartt, W. A. Erwin, W. H. Rogers, C. B. Green, J. A. Matheson, W. D. Carmichael, E. J. Green, J. Harper Erwin, J. Crawford Biggs, Dr. A. G. Carr, Capt. J. R. Renn, Prof. W. H. Program, Dr. N. P. Boddie, Rev. J. C. Troy, Mayor M. E. McCown, members of the Board of Aldermen and others.

After a fervent prayer by Rev. J. C. Troy, Governor Aycock was introduced to the audience by Mr. C. B. Green, in the latter's able and entertaining manner.

Governor Aycock said that when he saw men organized for universal education, it made his heart glad. He was present on this occasion because he was pledged to do so. In the campaign of 1900 he told the people that if elected he would do what he could for the cause of education in the State. At the election he received more than 60,000 majority. "The women voted for me," said the speaker by way of a bit of pleasantry. "If any of you in this house didn't vote for me, you are ashamed of it."

The average strength of a community is its intelligence. If you have a community with a thousand ignorant men, you will have a weak community. But if the community has a thousand educated men, you have the strongest community. We can increase the power of education in the State by raising the standard.

North Carolina is a great State. It was the first settled by English speaking people; it was the first to draw a declaration of independence; first to draw blood in the Revolution; one of the last to go into the union and the last to go out. She never left until compelled to take sides. She lost the first man in battle; she sent more men into the field than any other. Every mother had told her son not to turn his back to an enemy.

The Governor spoke of how Massachusetts had outstripped us in the matter of education. "We have remained so poor," said the speaker, "that in dollars and cents we are the poorest in the American union."

Why is it? Less crime is committed than in almost any State. It is ignorance. "I am not one of the men who is afraid to educate the negro," although "I did say that sooner low during the campaign."

He was anxious that the influence and intelligence of Durham county be used for the benefit of the entire State. We are going to organize in North Carolina this year an educational campaign. We are going to put 100 speakers in the field. When this State is made great in point of education, then will come a time when she will have men who will stir the world.

Dr. John C. Kilgo, in a well chosen and timely manner, presented the Bibles and flags to the Edgemont and North Durham schools.

Prof. J. A. Matheson, superintendent of the city schools, in behalf of the school children, the teachers and people of Durham, accepted the Bibles and flags. The speech of acceptance was able and to the point.

THE BANQUET.

After the exercises at the Opera House a banquet was given at the Pythian hall. Mr. A. Dughi, of Raleigh, had charge of preparing the banquet, which was served to the two hundred and fifty members and invited guests in courses. A number of Juniors acted in the capacity of waiters and took special pains to see that all were served. Mr. Dughi was at his best.

Mr. James H. Southgate was toast-master, and presided with ease and made many happy hits. As a toast master he hardly has an equal anywhere.

Governor C. B. Aycock responded to the first toast, "North Carolina, Her Past, Present and Future." Then the following were responded to in the order named: "The Confederate Veteran," by Major B. F. Dixon; "Junior Order United American Mechanics," by Mr. C. B. Green; "City of Durham a Suitable Place for an Orphanage of the Junior Order United American Mechanics," by R. v. J. C. Troy; "Trinity College," by Dr. J. C. Kilgo; "Public Schools of Durham," by Mr. Victor S. Bryant; "City Government of Durham," by Mr. Jones Fuller; "Manufacturing Industries of Durham," by Col. J. S. Carr; "The Bar of Durham and the Judiciary of North Carolina," by Judge R. W. Winston; "City of Durham, Her Past, Present and Future," by Major W. A. Guthrie.

The exercises closed with "The Old North State" and "Home Sweet Home," sung in a hearty manner by the large number present.

The exercises both at the Opera House and the hall will long be remembered as the best and most enjoyable that Durham people have had the pleasure of attending. The Junior Order excelled themselves in the undertaking. There were present ministers, lawyers, doctors, manufacturers, educators, merchants, and, in fact, the best and most representative citizens of Durham.

A SPLENDID ADDRESS.

Major B. F. Dixon Before the Daughters of the Confederacy.

The J. S. Carr Chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy made a capital hit when they invited State Auditor, B. F. Dixon, to address them upon Lee's birthday exercises. He spoke upon Lee and the Confederate soldier, and his address was one of the best ever heard in Durham. It was a gem. A large audience heard him and the praises of his address are upon the lips of every one who was fortunate to be present.

Gen J. S. Carr recited, in a most happy and telling manner, a poem, which might be styled "The Parade of the old Veterans." It was enthusiastically received.

The music on this occasion was fine. There was a solo by J. H. Southgate, and several quartettes by Mrs. Mattie Jones, Mrs. J. M. Manning, Leo D. Heartt and J. H. Southgate.

The Daughters are to be congratulated upon their memorial exercises and the splendid manner in which they celebrated the birthday of the Confederate's glorious leader.
