There are about a hundred teachers here attending the University Summer School. Most of them come from the graded schools of the State. Some splendid lectures are being given by able specialists, and the session will doubtless result in great good to the teachers in attendance.

Sergeant W. G. Crabtree testified that he heard Hicks say that he had not represented the Italian Swiss Colony since last October.

J. M. NEWTON JAILED.

He Was Driven From Greenville and Arrested in Raleigh. Raleigh Times: James M. Newton, the white man who was run out of Greenville, N. C., for a most infamous crime in his family, was last evening placed in jail here.

The Times previously announced that Newton had come to Raleigh. When he reached here Newton found that public sentiment here approved of the action of the people of Greenville, and he became thoroughly frightened.

While he was talking to the officer he dropped a long rule which he was carrying wrapped up. When the rule fell to the floor a large dirk or dagger was revealed and the officer very promptly arrested him for carrying a concealed weapon.
