Progress Halt Not.

Atlan'a Journal: A new mill in the south was reported for every week of this year's first quarter and of these sixteen new mills for as many weeks three (all large ones) are credited to South Carolina. Alabama shows up with three also, the Greensboro Record. Mississippi leads the list in numbers, but not in capacity, with four, Georgia, Arkansas and Louisiana had one each, Texas and North Carolina

Nor the first quarter of 1902 the total of new spindles in the new and enlarged mils of the ten southern states on the list is 487,132, of ina holds second place, with 123,spindles and 1,210 looms.

A very significent fact in this connection is that about three-forths of the nearly half a million new spindles; representing altogether an investment of about $10,000,000, will be installed in mills which have tried the business and know what is

There is no longer any doubt that the progress of the south in cotton manufacturing has come to stay and to increase.
