

LOCAL BRIEFS

May cherries are now on the market. There is a full crop this year. Sanford is now being supplied with cabbage and other early vegetables raised in this section.

Prof. R. W. Allen will conduct a teachers' institute in Rockingham county this summer. A Seaboard Air Line south-bound freight train pulled through Sanford last Saturday with 125 cars.

Mr. D. M. Garley is preparing to make ice cream in the basement of his drug store this season. He will not only make it for sale in his own store, but will be prepared to supply the demand from other towns in this section.

Mr. J. A. Roberts, of Carthage, spent a few hours here Monday while on his way to Duke where he is now holding a series of meetings. We are informed that Miss Nora Riddle, who lives on upper Hawkins Avenue, has a head of hair, which, by actual measurement is four feet and eight inches in length.

Work has been finished on the highway that was built through the Osgood section and the force of hands and teams have been moved to the Sanford-Carolton road. They are now at work a mile or so west of town.

Messrs. John D. Gunter, Sr., and Leo G. Molver returned the latter part of last week from Hendersonville where they attended the annual meeting of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of North Carolina as delegates from the Sanford Lodge.

Six members of a newly organized fishing club went to Avenet's Ferry, on the Cape Fear river, this week to spend a few days fishing. They are Messrs. Kemp Barren, L. E. Bonds, Dan King, John Coulter, Phil Cross and Dr. A. Y. Russell.

Capt. J. A. Thomas, chief of police of Winston-Salem, came down last week to visit his brothers, Messrs. J. M. and A. B. Thomas. Mr. Thomas has been chief of police of Winston-Salem for several years and is considered one of the best officers that city has ever had.

Large crowds attended the unveiling of the monument to M. O. Watson at Cool Springs last Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and of Sheriff C. G. Petty at Buffalo at 3 o'clock in the afternoon by the Sanford Camp, Woodmen of the World. District Deputy O'Brien, of Raleigh, had charge of the ceremonies.

Mr. L. E. Tilly, of Durham, made an address at both unveilings. Mr. B. Cole also took part in the ceremonies. Music was made by a choir composed of Mrs. W. F. Chears, Mrs. J. B. Willis, Mrs. E. E. Murchison, Misses Carrie Glass, Flora Ray, Mary Cole, Messrs. W. C. York, Earl York and A. P. King.

A business man of Sanford says the money spent by the people of the place for tobacco would pay the bread bill of the town. As tobacco is a stimulant and causes the formation of the prohibition laws had something to do with the increased consumption of the weed.

Mrs. O. M. Goodwin went to Littleton this week to see her daughter, Miss Mamie Goodwin, graduate at Littleton-Female College. Miss Goodwin has made high marks in all her studies, taking a four-year course in two years.

Mr. H. M. Williams went to Raleigh Monday to see his son, J. R. Williams, graduate at the Agricultural and Mechanical College. Mr. Williams graduates in civil engineering. He represented his class as one of the commencement speakers. Mr. Williams applied himself and took a high stand in his studies. J. D. Ray, of this place, also received a diploma for completion of the four-year course in agriculture.

For some time food has been missed from the McAuley livery stable. Last Friday Police Officer Turner went to the home of Joe Brown, colored, and upon making search found two sacks of oats and one of corn. The negro was tried before Mayor Howard Saturday upon the charge of having committed the theft and required to give a bond of $200 for his appearance at the next term of court.

Mr. J. M. McCraney, superintendent of the hospital at High Point, and Miss Ruth Wicker, a nurse in the hospital, who went to Wilmington last week to attend the annual meeting of the State Nurses' Association, came up to Sanford Saturday. Mrs. McCraney went from here to Cameron to visit her people. After spending the week-end with her sister, Miss Flora Wicker, Miss Wicker returned Monday to High Point.

THE MOUNTAIN PEOPLE

Manners and Customs of the People Who Live on the Carolina Hills.

(Graduating Essay read by Miss Ida Holmes at the closing exercises of the Sanford Graded Schools last week.) The history of the mountains tells in part the history of the people, and in part answers two questions—what are the "mountain whites" and how did they get here?

Early in the history of the State there was a sparse population on the eastern slopes of the Blue Ridge long before anyone ventured to establish a home in the mountains that lay beyond that barrier, the first permanent settlers west of the Blue Ridge not appearing until after the Revolutionary war.

The early settlers came from almost all the nations of Europe, but by far the greater number of these emigrants came from the British Isles. That the people are, for the most part, of English, Scotch, and Irish descent, their names show. And what good names some of them are, names that are crowned with honor out in the big world.

Why have they remained in the mountains all these generations? The answer may be found, partly, in the fact that the beginning it was too easy for them to make a living, that is, a living as contained them. Game was abundant and their herds supplied their own wants upon the mountain ranges.

Card of Thanks. We want to thank the people of Sanford and our country neighbors far and near, for their kindly assistance in the many useful and valuable things presented to us since our heavy loss resulting from the cyclone. It completely demolished our kitchen and dining room, and their furnishings.

DOING THEIR DUTY. Scores of Sanford readers are Learning the Duty of the Kidneys. To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty.

Eyes Examined. Headaches Relieved Caused From Eyestrain. Dr. Julius Schaffer, of Fayetteville, Specialist in Optometry, Graduate Philadelphia College and registered in the State, will be in Sanford, Colonial Inn, Monday, May 31st, for the purpose of examining the many errors the eyes are subject to and fitting glasses.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA. The slender lady with their gentle manners and friendly eyes become bent old men when man out in the world are in the prime of life. The mountains are a dream of beauty, but the man who looks out has no future. Often he cannot even read. He knows nothing but how to be kind. He laughs and takes life as he finds it, thinking his lot the common lot of man.
