RECORDER'S COURT

RECORDER'S COURT Recorder's Court sat through until 2 o'clock and finished the docket on Tuesday of last week Two cases, both contested strenuously, by both the State and the defendants, occu-pied the greater part of the time. These were charges against L. C. Chenault, Lick Cneek resident, by H. M. Pattishall, growing out of a landlord and tenant contract. Pat-tishall was represented by Attorney Renegar, who ably assisted Solicitor hoyle, and Mr. Chenault was repre-sented by Atterneys Teague and By-eity. Pattishall charged Chenault, from whom he had rented some land and sown several agres of oats. Chen nault cut the oats and refused to ac-toout for any part of the same. they learned how to mix the 12-1 sweet poison mixture, make the mops, and apply the poison to the cotton Most of these farmers have already purchased their poison materials and put on the first application. More than 5500 pounds of calcium arsenate and 4000 gailons of molasses have been purchased by Lee county farmers within the last two weeks. This is enough of these materials to poison three-fourths of all the cotton being grown in the county this year one time, or it is enough for the three applications of 4000 acres, or ome-third of the crop of the county. If every farmer in the county first of July, the over winter weeving would put on three applications of first of July, the over winter weeving tent that it should not be necessary tent that it should not to such an ex-tent that it should not be necessary to dust later in the season, and Lee county would make a full crop of cot-ten in spite of the large number of weevils now on the cotton plants.
