

TOBACCO GROWERS TO MEET AT CITY HALL TUESDAY

They Will be Addressed by a Representative of the Federal Farm Board of Washington—Some of the Mistakes of the Old Tri-State Co-operative Association Will be Pointed Out and the New Methods to be Employed Outlined.

It is expected that many of the tobacco growers of Lee county and this section of the tobacco growers which will be held at the City Hall here next Tuesday, 16th, from 2 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon to discuss the advisability of forming an organization for the protection of the planters who are now facing almost the lowest prices in the history of the industry. A representative from the Federal Farm Board of Washington will be present to discuss the marketing situation with the planters. Every planter who feels that the farmers should organize so as to be able to demand and secure their rights, should attend this conference. The discussion of two things will feature the conference: Production and outlook as relates to marketing of tobacco, and what co-operative marketing can and cannot do.

Whether tobacco growers shall organize a co-operative marketing association that they can receive aid from the Farm Board is the matter that will hold central interest in this meeting, it is said.

The present marketing situation as reflected by the Georgia and South Carolina markets, now virtually over, and the new bright belt in eastern North Carolina, opened last week, is such as to bring a crisis with the growers, it is said. Prices have been quite low on all markets so far this year and the forthcoming market in this belt is expected also to open very weak unless some steps are taken by the farmers.

At Tuesday's meeting some of the mistakes of the old tri-state co-operative association will be pointed out, and the Farm Board representative will outline methods that may be employed to enable the government to furnish aid to the growers in holding their product off the market and then feeding it to the trade in judicious manner. The government is said to have millions available to aid co-operative marketing but none of this can be allotted to farm aid under the prevailing marketing system.

The matter of whether cooperative selling shall be undertaken will be left entirely to the decision of the growers themselves, it is said.

Rev. and Mrs. L. E. Blackman, who spent seven years in China as missionaries, and who returned home on a furlough in July of last year, will leave for San Francisco in a few days and sail on the 13th from the city on the long journey back to the Orient. Before leaving China they were stationed at Yangchow, and experienced the most trying and dangerous work due to the civil war in that country. When they return they will find the war is still going on. Mr. and Mrs. Blackman have spent most of their vacation in pursuing a hard course of study at Columbia University. They expect to be able to take a rest when they reach their adopted country. Their little daughter was in the kindergarten at Columbia University. For the past few weeks they have been the guests of Mrs. Blackman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew T. Yates, of this place. They many friends in this country wish them bon voyage.

POULTRY SALE Wednesday, September 17th.

The September co-operative poultry sale will be held in Sanford next Wednesday, September 17th, at Palmer & Reeves' stable on Endor street. This sale has been closed with G. S. Mills & Co., of Greensboro, and they will have trucks and coops here to receive the poultry from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Heavy hens will sell for 18c a lb. leghorn hens, 15 lb. young chickens 20c lb. and roosters 30c lb. This will be a good time to sell young roosters and old hens that are not laying. No pullets should be sold at this time, it will pay you to keep them for layers. The price of hens next spring when prices should be higher.

SELECT BREEDING STOCK FROM LATE MOLTERS.

Stocks that make the best profits for their owners consist of hens from good breeding stock that has been selected for late molting. Elimination of early molters, therefore, is a method of retaining the best hens for next year's breeding flock. Care and management also affect the time of molting. Anything that stops egg production, such as moving the flock from one house to another, or improper feeding, tends to bring on the molt. A constant supply of mash, scratch and green feed, and clean quarters, fresh water, and shade help to keep the flock in good condition.

Another method of culling the poor layers is to note the physician condition of the birds. A good layer is vigorous in mid-summer and has a clean bright comb which appears to be full of blood and is waxy and soft in texture. The wattles and comb of a poor layer at this time of year are shrunken and comparatively hard, and have a pale or dull color. The color of the legs and feet on a good layer is bleached and faded, whereas both the legs and feet of a hen that has stopped laying begin to show a rich yellow color. In a good layer the pubic bones, which are on each side of the vent, are flexible in any season, but in a poor layer they are thick and rigid.

KIWANIS CLUB MEETS WITH FARMERS AT BROADWAY

Ladies Serve a Most Sumptuous Dinner—Men Pitch Horse Shoes to Whet Their Appetites—After Dinner All Assemble in the School Auditorium to Hear Charles A. Sheffield, of the Extension Department Discuss Farm Problems from an Economic Standpoint.

Last Friday evening some 22 members of the Sanford Kiwanis Club drove down to Broadway and met with the business men of Broadway and the farmers of the surrounding country. The farmers and citizens of Broadway were their guests at dinner which was prepared and served by the good ladies of the town and section in the grove near the old and new school buildings. The members of the club and their guests pitched horse shoes while the ladies prepared the table. When called their appetites were prepared for one of the most sumptuous feasts ever served the club. Some of the most successful farmers in this part of the State live in and around Broadway, also some of the best cooks if we are to judge by the supper that they spread before that hungry bunch of men. Miss Simpson, our most efficient demonstration agent, was present and helped prepare and serve the meal. The following ladies served: Miss Corneilia Simpson, Mesdames D. E. Shaw, M. A. McLeod, S. H. Rosser, Clara Rosser, Henry Thomas, Walter Thomas, Milton Thomas, C. E. Thomas, Lonnie Sloan, John A. Buchanan, W. W. McNeill, H. C. McNeill, J. C. Davis, G. M. Harrington, Nettie McLean, S. V. Stevens, H. A. Kelly, Henry Rivers, Miss Margaret Kelly, Albert Watson, Virginia Thomas, Lelia Shaw.

President June Guter will experience no trouble in getting that crowd of Kiwanians to go to Broadway the next time it is announced that the ladies of that place will serve the club. It was only the most profitable and enjoyable meeting the club has ever had. In addition to the business men of Broadway and the farmers of the surrounding country the following were guests of the club: E. C. McMan, County Demonstration Agent; Mr. B. B. Vinson, president, and Mr. E. W. Staples, executive vice president of the Greensboro Bank & Trust Company, of Greensboro.

After dinner had been served all went to the auditorium of the new school building. The program was put on. President Guter called the meeting to order and turned the program over to Kiwanian J. M. Clark, chairman of the agricultural committee.

Mr. Charles A. Sheffield, Assistant Director of Agricultural Extension Work, with headquarters at State College, Raleigh, in discussing agricultural work before the club, made a point of farming in Lee county, and in making this study he worked out the cost of producing crops in the county for the years 1926, 1927, 1928 and 1929. He found that the actual cost in producing these crops averaged $2.36 per bushel. The cost of fertilizer, interest on investment in land and equipment and taxes was more than the selling price of the crops where the yield per acre was low. For instance the average yield of corn in the county was 20 bushels per acre and this 20 bushels is produced at a loss of $2.36 per acre, whereas if the yield was 30 bushels it would show a nice profit, while wheat, at 11 bushels per acre, oats at 22 bushels per acre and rye at 10 to 12 bushels per acre, would be produced at a loss in the county. If the acre yield was increased in these crops they could be produced at a profit.

He showed by figures that cotton was produced during that period at a profit of $1.28 per acre. He stated that only a few of the few counties in the State that produced cotton at a profit during that period. Tobacco was produced at a profit of $44.53 per acre during that period. Hay was produced at a profit of $8.35 per acre. Barle was produced at a profit of $3.87 per acre, soy beans was produced at a profit of $7.31 per acre. Barle was produced at a profit of $5.78. Irish potatoes were produced at a profit of $40.00 per acre and sweet potatoes at a profit of $40 per acre.

His figures showed that each 100 hens on the farms in Lee county produced an average profit of $54.00 per year. The average cow produced $20.00 profit per year. This is a little less than a two gallon cow. The average hog produced a profit of $45.9 a year. In summing up the situation Mr. Sheffield said that the county was not producing enough poultry and live stock for the needs of its people. He gave us to understand that we should not expect much increase in the live stock until we produced more feed for the feeds at a loss because of low yields per acre our greatest need is to build up the fertility of the soil. He stated that this would have to be done before dairymen could be made profitable in the county. It is to be regretted that not more farmers were present to hear what Mr. Sheffield had to say about the production of the various crops in the county and the profit to be sustained in raising these crops. He had given the subject much research and study and crammed a lot of worth while information in his speech of about half an hour. His figures were convincing to those who were willing to be convinced that farming can be made profitable to the farmers of Lee county provided they are willing to farm according to modern scientific methods.

A BIG DAY IN LOCAL EDUCATIONAL CIRCLES

Members of the Local School Board, Rotary, Kiwanis and the Woman's Club and Masonic Order and other Representative Citizens of the School District Attend Chapel Exercises at the Two Schools Friday Morning and Occupy Seats on the Platform—Short Speeches Made by Representatives of These Organizations and by Superintendent Wheeler and the Principals of the Schools.

Last Friday was a great day in the history of local educational circles. Members of the local school board, representatives of the Rotary, Kiwanis and Woman's Club and the Masonic Order and patrons and friends of the schools attended chapel exercises at both the High School and Melver Grammar School last Friday morning, many taking part in the work while programs that were put on. The exercises opened in the auditorium of the High School at 9 o'clock with scripture reading by Rev. S. A. Cotton, pastor of Steele Street Methodist church. The music for the occasion was led by Miss McMillan, piano teacher. Short talks were made by Superintendent George Wheeler, J. S. Pruitt, the principal; D. B. Teague of the Kiwanis Club; O. P. Makepeace, chairman of the school board; Mrs. J. R. Ingram of the Woman's Club; Dr. J. I. Neal, of the Rotary Club; J. W. Stout, chairman of the building committee.

The exercises at the Melver Grammar school opened at 10 o'clock, the devotion being given by Rev. T. Fred Wright, pastor of the Christian church. The music was led by Miss Catherine Carter, the new public school music teacher. The program included short speeches by the following: Louise Futrell, principal of the Melver Grammar School; Superintendent Wheeler; S. J. Husketh, of the Kiwanis Club; J. E. Brink, secretary of the school board; H. C. Renegard, of the Kiwanis Club; J. R. Ingram, of the Woman's Club; W. H. Stout, of the Rotary Club; W. H. Ingram, of the Woman's Club.

In his talk Superintendent Wheeler addressed the boys and girls as "ladies and gentlemen." He expressed his appreciation of the courteous treatment they receive at their hands and their behavior in the school room and on the playground. He was also impressed with their business men were willing to visit their offices, and show their interest in the schools by going and taking part in the opening exercises. He felt that he could count on them in giving their cooperation and support in carrying on the work of the schools. He invited all who are interested in the success of the schools to visit them from time to time and see how the work is carried on. He expressed himself as being gratified with the splendid spirit shown by all on the auspicious opening.

Mr. Teague spoke of the schools as being one of the greatest institutions in Sanford and was glad to bring greetings on this auspicious day. He emphasized the point in his talk that all should be boosters for the schools. Dr. Neal in his talk told the boys and girls that they were living in a new day and he compared the old and new methods of teaching. He said the children used to have to learn the alphabet both forwards and backwards but now they learn to read before they know the letters. He told them to hitch their wagon to a star and stay with it, if they wished to succeed. In his talk J. W. Stout spoke of the condition of the building and asked the boys and girls to take care of it. Improvements will be made in the building when the money can be had to do the work. He was glad to state that the Melver Grammar school building had been improved with a coat of paint that was put on during the summer. Miss Futrell in a few words expressed her appreciation to the board for having this done.

In his closing address Mr. Husketh in his talk spoke of the moral and spiritual phase of the work and emphasized the fact that we are living in a new day and a new field. Mr. Brinn quoted a lot of statistics showing the work of the schools and the boys and girls should show their appreciation of the sacrifices that are being made for them by the tax payers by making good use of their time while in school. Mr. Renegard gave a strong appeal to the boys and girls to play the game of sports and games. He used a kite to illustrate just what he was driving at in telling them how to put the thing over in prosecuting their studies in the school room. Mr. Strong illustrated his talk by a football game. He told the boys that they should play the game in their studies as it is played on the athletic field.

KING MANUFACTURING COMPANY GETS BIG CONTRACT.

The King Manufacturing Company, of this place, has secured the roofing and sheet metal contract for 55 buildings that are to be constructed at Fort Bragg during the next few months. This is one of the biggest contracts that this company has ever secured. It will take some eight or nine months to fill it. The contract for the construction of the buildings of officers' quarters was awarded to a contracting company in Raleigh, Jewell-Riddle Company, recently completed some 12 or 15 buildings at Fort Bragg. All these new buildings are constructed of brick. It is stated that the government expects to continue the building program at Fort Bragg for some time and that will be decidedly the largest artillery fort in the United States. Much money has been spent during the past few years, and it seems that the government has settled the question as to the permanency of the fort.

Mr. White told the club that the Jefferson Standard had within the past decade, loaned and invested money in Sanford to the extent of more than half a million dollars. While he did not say so he has been instrumental in securing most of these loans, and since coming to Sanford he has sold insurance all over this section. County and city superintendent Wheeler was received into the club as a new member.

LEE COUNTY FAIR OFFERS PRIZE EQUAL TO HALF BALE OF COTTON

WHY THEY CAME TO SANFORD

Rotarians W. A. Crabtree, E. M. Underwood, Hawley Griffin and W. H. White, made brief, interesting talks at the club luncheon Tuesday, each telling why he had come to Sanford to live and work.

When Crabtree first went into the drug business he was located in Georgia but he soon grew tired of that State and came back to Durham to look around for a new location. That was something over thirty years ago. A friend in Raleigh directed him to Sanford which was then a town of about a thousand people. The outlook was not very encouraging but the late Dr. W. A. Monroe, who was one of the greatest boosters Sanford has ever had, kept the young druggist here. He is now proud to claim as his home the town which looked so uninviting three decades ago.

What brought Underwood to Sanford was the Sanford Cotton Mill, with which he has been connected for a number of years. He did not say so, but he has been active in everything that has made for the town's advancement. He likes the town well enough to say that he expects to spend the balance of his life here.

Hawley Griffin who came here from France in 1919, where he had been in active service during the World War, he picked up a job with the Standard Oil Company, and as Sanford was one of the Company's distributing points, they sent him here to take charge of the work. He has had a good time and thinks Sanford the best place in the world.

W. H. White, who first saw the light of day at Archdale, in Randolph County, told the club something about his school days in the Middle West and also got some of his experience of two army camps in this country during the World War. ### Farmers Who Wish to Compete For This and Other Premiums Should Be Getting Their Exhibits Ready—Broadcasting Station Will Keep People Posted As to Features of Fair.

It is not generally known that this year's fair will boost a broadcasting station right in our home town but such is the case. Station NPA will be constantly on the job from the minute the fair grounds are opened October 21st, to their closing hour on October 24th. The National Public Address Service have contracted to keep the visitors at the fair advised through their several loud speakers located at all prominent places in the fair ground, just what is going on at different places at all times as well as other entertainments, programs, announcements and advertisements.

This will enable patrons of the fair not to miss anything of importance by not knowing when and where certain special features will be put on. Every advance preparation possible is being made to make this year's fair the best ever.

You farmers who have not considered making an individual exhibit for the $15.00 prize described on page 31 of the premium list should remember that this is more than equal to one-half bale of cotton when the cost of the two are considered. Therefore, be thinking about how many products you can get together and exhibit, as applications should be made for this space by October 1st, if you contemplate competing for this one-half bale of cotton prize.

JEWELL-RIDDLE COMPANY GET CONTRACT FOR MODEL HOME.

Jewell-Riddle Company, of this place, secured the contract to build a "Model" house at Knollwood, near Pinehurst. This building is designed after "Westover," the famous old Byrd mansion near Richmond, the birthplace of Dr. E. A. Byrd and Harry Byrd. In speaking of the contract having been awarded to Jewell-Riddle Company, the Aberdeen Pilot says: "This company is one of the best known in this part of the state, having to their credit in this section the Moore County Hospital at Pinehurst, Mrs. Andrews' new house at Southern Pines, the Morrison house at Knollwood, Mrs. Hoggs' house, the Tufts-Johnson house, and the new building which the government is putting up at Fort Bragg, as well as others in the neighborhood."

The Westover home was built of brick made in England, and brought over especially for this house. These brick were of an odd size, as compared with present day brick, and the size will be duplicated in the specially made brick for this occasion. The colors will be duplicated, and the peculiarities in every detail of the house will be a big one, representing an outlay of well up toward $100,000, and the intention is to furnish it in keeping with the style of the building. The grounds will be embellished in a way to fit the record in this section of establishment, the shrubbery that will serve being gathered from different sections, and in the requisitioning is a collection of two or three thousand dollars worth of boxwood plants, some six or eight feet tall, and nobody knows how old, from an old North Carolina colonial home on Cape Fear. The landscaping will be in harmony with the building, the dominant note all the way through the early colonial.
