HOLD CLUB CAMPS FOR THE RURAL YOUTH

More than 2,000 North Carolina farm boys and girls will attend 4 H at the State camps at Swannanoa Club camps during July and August at the State camps at Swannanoa and White Lake, and at other convenient sites in various counties, according to reports received from farm and home agents, by R. L. Harrill, State Club leader.

Activities in 4 camps usually begin at 7 o'clock in the morning and end at 10 o'clock at night. During the day activities are varied. Mornings are generally devoted to instruction pertaining to the various club projects, followed by camp inspection, short hikes, swims and "sings."

The afternoon program is devoted largely to recreation such as swimming and hiking. Vesper services are conducted each evening just at sunset and these are followed by a recreational period for nearly two hours.

The camps are run by members of the club under the supervision of trained leaders. Harrill says leadership and initiative are developed to an unusually satisfying degree during the camps.

Camp menus are prepared well in advance and each boy or girl attending is instructed to bring a designated amount of certain kinds of food.

This food is generally grown by the one bringing it. Such practice reduces the cost of eating in camp considerably, says Harrill.

Soon after the arrival of campers, a leader is appointed or elected for each group, and the various duties of the daily camp routine are assigned. The same grouping is used for both play and work.

CONTROL RED SPIDER WITH SULFUR DUST

A small red spider, barely visible to the eye, caused considerable damage to field and garden crops in North Carolina during the recent drought.

"As the red spider went about his work of forming conspicuous webs on the under side of leaves, it weakened to a point of almost beyond recovery such plants as arbor vitae, box wood, red cedar, roses, hollyhocks, dahlias, cotton, beans, dewberries and many other similar species in various sections of the State," says Dr. R. F. Poole, plant pathologist of the North Carolina Experiment station.

"The small animals attack the plants at the time they should be manufacturing substances to store away in the roots and limbs as energy or strength for producing new growth for next year. Not only does affect plants lose their foliage, but are so weakened that they are frequently infested with destructive root rots."

Dr. Poole says the red spider is easily controlled. In yards and green houses constantly wetting the plants during dry periods will suppress the activities of the spider. The most effective way, however, of ridding the plant of the infestation, is by dusting or spraying the plants with sulfur.

Any fine grade of dusting sulfur and sprays composed of three pounds of any of the floatation, colloidal or wettable sulfur compounds mixed in 50 gallons of water may be used. Application made at frequent intervals during periods of infestation are of value. A single spray in the spring after the foliage is grown may suffice on plants such as arbor vitae, retinispora and roses.

TIMELY FARM QUESTIONS ANSWERED AT STATE COLLEGE

Question: What crops can be planted on land where the cotton is plowed up?

Answer—Any food or feed crop may be planted for home use or any crop that will improve the soil to prevent erosion. A quick growing grazing crop such as Sudan grass is recommended in this state. If the cotton is not plowed up before the latter part of August, winter hay crops may be grown to advantage. These crops include, oats, barley, wheat and rye sown in conjunction with vetch, Austrian winter peas or crimson clover.

Question: Should I keep scratch feed before my young birds at all times?

Answer: It is a good practice to feed an abundance of scratch feed especially during the developing period. This will build a good frame and develop vitality for the egg laying period. An excess of animal protein fed during the developing period will bring the birds into lay before they are fully matured and an abundant feeding of scratch will retard this early production and aid in building a large, healthy boy for maximum egg production.

Question: What are the dates for the Farmers' and Farm Women's Convention this year?

Answer: The convention this year will be held at State College from July 24 to 28 inclusive. Sectional meetings will be held every morning but these will be adjourned in time for

FARM HOME CONCERNED IN REDUCTION CAMPAIGN

It is not the farmer alone who is concerned with the success of the present plan to reduce the cotton acreage of the South.

The entire household has an interest in whether the staple crop of the cotton belt is to be profitable or will continue to be an instrument of disaster to the grower and his family. The plan to pay straight cash rentals or option rentals to growers for removing a certain part of their acreage out of production means that the present crop will be reduced in acreage and the over hanging surplus will be partially removed. This can result only in benefit to the grower.

For the housewife it means that additional money will be available for much needed labor saving implements, for clothing and shoes for the children, for school books, better balanced food and other necessities.

GRANGE TO MEET AT FARM CONVENTION

The first organized school for Grange lectures will be held at State College during the week of the Farmer's and Farm Women's Convention, July 24 to twenty ninth.

Plans for the school have been made by Harvey B. Caldwell, of Greensboro, State Lecturer, cooperating with Chas. A. Sheffield, secretary of the convention. As announced by Mr. Caldwell, the school begins on Monday, July 24, at 10 o'clock, with the lecturers first attending the afternoon conference of the American Institute of Cooperation.

That evening, the Grangers will take part in the general meeting on Riddick Field when Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, is scheduled for an address.

The program then continues through Thursday afternoon with many vital matters pertaining to Grange activities discussed by State and national leaders. Among those on the program are L. J. Tabor, National Master; Dr. Clarence Poe, past State Master; W. Kerr Scott, master, and other prominent grange members.

Along with these members of the Grange family, Dean I. O. Schaub, Horace Hamilton, Prof. T. E. Browne and others of the State College faculty will have a part on the program. The lecturers will also hear some of the prominent agricultural leaders who will be on the program of the Institute of Cooperation.

Mr. Caldwell announces that the semi-finals in the State Grange debate will be held Monday morning. The Colleege is offering rooms in its dormitories free of charge as long as they last and meals may be obtained in the college dining hall at half cost prices.

ADJUST WHEAT ACREAGE NEXT FARM ACTIVITY

A reduction of 20 per cent of the acreage planted to wheat for commercial purposes in 22 North Carolina counties will be the next concern of the Agricultural Extension Service of State College.

"We have received word from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration at Washington to make our plans for offering reduction contracts to wheat growers in those counties producing 100,000 bushels and over," says Dean I. O. Schaub, head of the Extension organization. "This campaign will affect some 22 counties and it is planned to get the work under way during the latter part of July. About August 10, county wheat adjustment control associations will be organized in those counties where enough farmers indicate a desire to take part in the reduction campaign."

The Dean said these county associations, made up of the cooperating wheat growers themselves, will handle the county allotments, consider individual contracts, and take care of the bulk of the local administrative work in operating the plan. These associations will be self managed and self financed.

Under the plans made, the farmer will get a parity price for his wheat on

LIVESTOCK FEED FROM REPLACEMENT CROPS

Crops grown in the place of cotton to be removed from production during the present acreage reduction campaign might be used for livestock, advised L. L. Case, animal husbandman at State College, who says pastures have been seriously damaged by the prolonged drought.

BEER DEALERS TO PAY A SPECIAL TAX

The Bureau of Internal Revenue desires that every dealer in malt liquors wines and fermented fruit juices be given an opportunity to read the following statement, and to that end requests the cooperation of the press in publishing the entire article.

There appears to be considerable misunderstanding upon the part of the dealers in malt liquors, wines and fermented fruit juices as to their liability for special tax in connection with the sale of their product. In order to remove any misunderstanding in regard to the matter, the following statement is submitted:

Purchasers of special tax stamps at the rate of $20 per year, bearing the title, "Retail dealer in fermented liquors," may legally engage only in the sale, in less quantities than five gallons at one time, of fermented (malt) liquors of 3.2 per cent alcoholic content by weight.

Every person who sells or offers for sale fermented malt liquors in quantities of not less than five gallons at one time, but who does not deal in wines and fermented fruit juices, is considered a wholesale dealer in malt liquors, and, as such is required to purchase a special tax stamp at the rate of $20 per year.

Purchasers of special tax stamps, at the rate of $25 per year, bearing the title "Retail liquor dealer," may engage not only in the sale of fermented (malt) liquors but also in the sale of 3.2 per cent wines and fermented fruit juices in less quantities than five gallons at one time, without incurring additional liability.

A wholesale liquor dealer shall pay $100 per year. Such dealers may not only sell wines and fermented fruit juices containing not more than 3.2 per cent of alcohol by weight, but may likewise sell fermented malt liquors of like alcoholic strength in quantities of not less than five gallons at one time, without incurring additional special tax liability.

A qualified wholesale dealer in malt liquor and a qualified wholesale liquor dealer cannot sell in quantities of less than five gallons without incurring liability as a retailer dealer nor can a qualified retail dealer, sell in quantities of five gallons or more at one time, without incurring liability for a special tax as a wholesale dealer.

Special taxes are payable in a fiscal year basis, beginning July 1 of each year and every dealer in malt liquor or wine and fermented fruit juices is required to purchase a new special tax stamp effective July 1, 1933. The purchase of a special tax stamp as retail or wholesale dealer in malt liquors or wines and fermented fruit juices does not authorize the business thereof to transact such business in conflict with State laws or authorize the sale of spirituous liquors for beverage purposes.

CHEVROLET HAS A HIGH HIGH JUNE TOTAL

Production of new Chevrolet cars and trucks in June more than doubled output for the corresponding month last year and was the largest single month's production in two years, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, announced today.

With a total output of 81,573 units, June compares with 36,142 in June last year, and with 68,538 in May this year, previously the best month since June, 1931, Mr. Knudsen said.

He emphasized that the high June total was made possible only by the splendid morale and cooperation extended by the more than 36,000 employees now on the company payrolls. Mr. Knudsen said he hoped, through

After many years of use we would not exchange Black-Draught for any medicine."
