Benhaven School News

Benhaven Teachers Entertained

One of the prettiest courtesies of the year was paid the teachers of the Benhaven School on Thursday night when they were entertained by their grade mothers, assisted by young people of the community with a buffet dinner and a Halloween party at the community center.

The Halloween motif was much in evidence with the tables lighted by candles, the place cards realistic black cats and the favors miniature pumpkins filled with salted nuts. The room was further decorated with leaves of early fall colors, cats, witches, pumpkins and witches caldrons that completed the spooky effect. The games and contests were very spirited, and centered around the same seasonal theme as the decorations.

The Grade Mothers making up the very efficient organization responsible for the entertainment are: Mesdames Neil Cameron, Buck Reese, N. C. Morton, C. W. Howard, Duffie, Burton Castlebury, Louis Holt Fairly McKay, S. B. McKinney, T. N. Holmes, Howard Perkins, J. E. McKinney, E. E. Perkins, E. L. Cameron, C. H. Dula, Mary George, H. C. Cameron, D. H. Cameron, J. C. Webber, D. A. Huffines, Kelly, Mack E. Cameron, E. J. McNeill, A. L. Seawell, G. L. Cameron, and Miss Leona McDonald. Those assisting were Miss Virginia Cameron, Edwin McDonald, Louise Parrish, Lula Cameron and Jessie Seawell.

Benhaven P. T. A.

The meeting of the Association was opened by the contention of Mr. H. C. Cameron, the newly elected president, that his election was out of order since he had not been consulted about it before hand. Immediately following his resignation, he was renominated and unanimously re elected, plainly showing the feeling of the body on the matter.

The program of the meeting consisted of devotional by Mr. G. L. Cameron, several songs well rendered by the junior and mixed choruses led by Mr. Graham, and quite a bit of routine business.

The major business matter of the night was the planning for a lunch room at which pupils may get hot lunches during the cold days. Plans were laid and steps are underway for their realization.

Meeting time hereafter is to be 7:30 o'clock, and the most interesting part of the program will often come in the early minutes of the meetings.

Methodist Auxiliary Meeting.

On Monday afternoon, October 9th, the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. D. O. Harrington with Miss Beulah Harrington as hostess. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. J. H. Taylor, president, and Miss Beulah Harrington, secretary. Fourteen members and three visitors were present. After an unusually interesting business session, Mrs. J. H. Taylor led the devotion. Three chapters in the mission study book, "Eastern Women, Today and Tomorrow," were discussed by Mrs. Taylor, Miss Dewar, and Mrs. Womack. During the social hour the hostess, assisted by her sister, Miss Nellie Harrington, served assorted sandwiches, pickles and orange ade. The November meeting will be held with Mrs. Maggie Marshall and Mrs. J. A. Ragland at the home of Mrs. Ragland.

P. T. A. Meeting

On Thursday evening, October 12th the first regular meeting of the Broadway Parent-Teachers Association was held in the school auditorium. The out-going president, Mrs. S. H. Rosser, was in charge of opening the meeting and conducted the devotion. Mr. Malcolm McLeod then rendered a solo, "On the Road to Mandalay," accompanied at the piano by Miss Noell, the music teacher. A few words of greetings were spoken by Mr. Taylor. Then followed the main feature of the program, the installation of new officers. This service was conducted by Mrs. Nettie McLean, a former president of the P. T. A., and was very impressive to all present. After taking the chair the new president, Mrs. S. V. Stevens, conducted an interesting business session. From reports from committees and officers it was evident that P. T. A. work was well under way and everything pointed to a successful year's work. During the social hour the social committee served grape juice and wafers. The regular date for the P. T. A. meeting is Thursday after the first Sunday. It is hoped that each and every parent will take an interest in these meetings and make an especial effort to attend every meeting this year. There is no better opportunity for parents and teachers to become acquainted and work together for the common good of the school and community.

Demonstration Club Meets.

The Broadway Home Demonstration club held a most interesting meeting in the school auditorium the first Friday in October. Miss Simpson gave an illustrated lecture on Styles which was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. A number of patterns were given to the members to cut for themselves.

Two Broadway children are out of school because of appendicitis. Peggy Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Morris, was operated on Sunday night, October 8th, and Kenneth Chandler, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Chandler, the following Tuesday morning. However, both children are recovering nicely and hope to be in school soon.

In Loving Memory of Mrs. W. Q. Yow

September 11, 1933.

The death angel has come again once more.

And carried another one beyond the golden shore.

Taken from us one we love so well; How we do miss her we cannot tell, The home is incomplete since Mother has gone, And without Mother what is a home?

She cheered everyone along the way, And always had a kind word to say. Now fond memories takes her place; Since we cease to see her inspiring face.

She endured her sufferings with a smile, And enjoyed life all the while. Now she has gone on to the Pearly Gate.

But has left us here to this sad fate! There she'll not be tortured any more; As she was in the days of yore, Mrs. Yow will rest as the years roll around,

And number with the others who sleep underground.

Her body is just 'neath the sod, But we trust her soul is with God.

Katie Mae Johnson.

Holly Springs News

The Little River Association will meet at Holly Springs Baptist church on November 1st, at 10 o'clock a. m., for their annual meeting. There are a number of good speakers on the program and we hope that a good many from our neighboring churches, as well as all over the Little River district, will visit our church during the meeting. We welcome you.

The members of the Holly Springs church are now putting on a new coat of paint on the inside of the church which makes it much lighter and attractive. We hope to make our church a place of beauty within as well as without.

GOOD PRICES PAID ON THE DANVILLE, VA. MARKET

With all medium and common grades of the leaf selling at commanding prices, the Danville Auction market for the sale of the bright leaf, closed Friday afternoon for the week, with what was thought by many farmers and tobaccoists a decidedly upward trend. Thought that a better spirit was shown than at any time since the opening day, and it is generally agreed with a coming in of more generous deliveries and a better quality of the leaf that the market will soon set a pace for better prices.

That this upward swing which the market has taken, is revealed, it is believed by a number of conspicuous sales made by farmers widely scattered in the Danville market area. Friday, H. C. Dakon, well known grower of the bright leaf, from the Ringgold section of Pittsylvania county, made sale of a delivery of his 1933 crop from the ground up, for an all round average of $34.50 per hundred. The sale of the respective grades running from $16 to $61 per hundred. Of this delivery 284 pounds commanded a price of $32, 62 pounds sold at $50 per hundred, and 70 pounds at $61 per hundred.

Ernest Rawley and D. Cook with an offering of the bright leaf, grown in the Peiham section of Caswell county, sold for an average of $29.20, while over at Blair, in W. Virginia county, Va., Baise and Warren, with offerings totaling one thousand and twenty-six pounds, drew an average of $26.25. One thousand and eighteen pounds of Amsnace county product, grown by Matthews and C. H. Thompson, sold for $73.41, with an average of $27.69; S. J. Jetties, Danville, Va., sold 1,210 pounds for $308.85 an average of $27.69.

H. S. Turney, Register of Deeds for Caswell county, declares that the prices he received for his first offerings was entirely satisfactory. His delivery was made of the first pullings of the crop, and sold for an average close to 17 cents. He said the sale was excellent.

During the first week the Danville market sold 1,932,909 pounds for $256,338.09, averaging $13.26. In this special average all grades sold are taken in consideration. That the real average of the market was substantially reduced is due to the fact that very considerable amount of inferior and green tobacco was included. Fully ninety-five per cent of the farmers tobaccoists, believe expressed satisfaction for prices received and there is a general impression that parity prices are soon to prevail.

STOMACH AND NERVES BAD?

Mrs. M. L. Price of 125 W. 15th St., Hagerstown, Md. says: "I felt worn out - suffered from stomach complaint and was awfully nervous. I used Dr. Victor's Golden Medical Discovery and it helped me in every respect. I feel like a new person. Sold by druggists everywhere. New size, tablets 25c; liquid $1.00. Large size, tablets or liquid, $1.25. -"W. Do Our Part."

COOPS URGE PLANTERS TO COOPERATE WITH PLAN

Although the price of cotton has dropped below the nine cent level this should not cause the slightest uneasiness to the cotton farmers. They have a governmental guarantee of ten cents per pound on every bale of their cotton that grades as high as low middling.

This week the Reconstruction Finance Corporation set aside $250,000,000 to finance loans on cotton to cotton farmers at ten cents per pound. This loan amounts to a guarantee of ten cents per pound for if the price does not go back up to ten cents or higher the government has bought cotton at ten cents per pound. If, as is confidently expected, the price goes above the ten cent level farmers stand to receive the increase in price. Therefore, we repeat, the farmer has no need to worry about any decline in the cotton market.

All over the South a holding movement on the part of farmers is rapidly taking place. Since the announcement by President Roosevelt that the government is guaranteeing farmers ten cents per pound for their cotton they have slowed up their sales until they are at about the lowest point since the season got into full swing. Some of the speculative interests who have bought up cotton in anticipation of an early rising market and who have lost their nerve have dumped their holdings. This has contributed to the recent decline in prices.

Numbers of farmers are confused as to the acreage reduction they will have to make in their cotton crop. Many think the reduction will be 40 per cent from their 1933 crop. The reduction will be 40 per cent from their five year average. To get at this the farmer should add up his acreage in cotton for years 1929, 1930, 1931, 1932 and 1933 and divide the total by five. That will give his five year average. Take 40 per cent from this average and the answer will be the number of acres that may be planted to cotton next year.

The N. C. Cotton Growers Association is today paying 8 cents per pound on cotton. Just as soon as the government's acreage reduction contracts come and they are signed the association will immediately pay the member two cents per pound more. The cotton is still not sold. The farmer may have full benefit of any rise in price that comes. As to prices we are still very optimistic. If the government's plan for reducing cotton acreage goes over there is every reason for expecting 15 cents per pound before the next crop is planted.

DIG SWEET POTATOES BEFORE FROST DAMAGE

Sweet potatoes, harvested before they are damaged by frosts, not only cure better but also keep better in storage than those dug after a killing frost.

"This is especially true if rains come just before or after the frost," says E. B. Morrow, extension horticulturist at State College. "Sweet potatoes may be harvested after a frost but there is always some damage and any delay means a corresponding increase in storage losses."

Morrow says that immature sweet potatoes will keep just as well as mature potatoes if they are dug before frost, handled with care, and properly cured. If dug early the potatoes can also be graded in the field and separated into jumbos, U. S. No. 1's, and culls. Cull potatoes, however, are seldom worth the expense of curing and storing and, in most cases, are better left in the field or fed to livestock, he says.

In curing the potatoes the most important factors are moisture and temperature. Artificial heat is used to drive off all excessive moisture and the temperature in the house should range from 80 to 85 degrees for proper curing. Care should also be taken that no moisture collects on the ceiling, urges Morrow. To prevent this the ventilators should be kept wide open during the curing process.

Sweet potatoes may be successfully cured in any house that answers the requirements of being tight, having good ventilation, and a satisfactory system of artificial heat. A plentiful supply of potatoes for the small farm family may even be cured and stored in a small brick brooder house as a house of this kind answers all requirements, says Morrow.
