U. S. Airmen Shoot Down 28 Japanese Planes In The Pacific Area

American Third Fleet carrier planes sank or damaged 14 Japanese ships and one floating dock, shot down 28 planes and strafed 130 more in renewed raids on the Manila area Sunday.

The enemy counterattacked the carrier task group but no American ships were damaged. Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced in a communique yesterday.

The powerful Fortress ring around Metz, impregnable to frontal assault of any war since the fifth century, was breached Tuesday by U. S. Third Army doughboys who swept within two miles of the city and stormed last-ditch German defenses after capturing six fortified towns and the huge but dismantled bastion of L'Yser.

On the Allied north flank, the British Second Army opened a tremendous, twilight drive in Eastern Holland toward the Ruhr Valley behind an earth-quaking barrage from 400 guns and smashed almost seven miles of the Reich frontier in the first hours.

Far to the south, the French First Army went over to the offensive in the Belfort Gap amid indications that the Germans might abandon the whole southern half of their line and retire behind the Rhine.

Red Army troops yesterday wiped out the last enemy bridgehead on the Danube River's east bank south of Budapest and battled forward seven miles in an outflanking movement east of the Hungarian capital as Berlin reported that violent street fighting had flared again in the city's southwestern suburbs.

AAA Chairman Announces That New Ceilings Are Effective Now

The ceiling price on live hogs weighing 240 pounds and under has been extended to hogs weighing 270 pounds and under, according to information received by C. G. Collins, chairman of the Alleghany county AAA Committee.

Mr. Collins pointed out that this action, effective October 30, 1944, was taken because of the greatly improved feed situation in relation to the number of hogs and because the hog crop for the current season of 1945 is below anticipated production. Mr. Collins further pointed out that wholesale and retail price levels will not be affected as to dressed pork or meat cuts.

Cooperation Of Public Is Urged To Help Out In Shortage

Washington—The Office of Price Administration was disclosed to have ordered a crackdown on black market sales of cigarettes in Detroit and Minneapolis as the first step in efforts to solve the widespread and growing cigarette shortage.

OPA Administrator Chester Bowles pledged that the agency will fight illicit operators by every means possible but called on the public to help by buying cigarettes "in the normal manner" and refusing to pay more than the price ceiling.

He announced after a conference with War Food Administrator Marvin Jones that OPA and WFA are agreed that cigarette rationing at this time would be "completely impracticable" and would be of little help in smoothing out uneven supplies.

He attributed the current shortage to a combination of black markets, hoarding by smokers, (Continued on Page 4)

Twin Oaks Man Writes From Battlefield In South Pacific

Seaman 2-C Gene Irwin has seen plenty of action since leaving the States early in July. In an interesting letter written to his wife, Mrs. Ruby Irwin, who resides at Twin Oaks, he gives a vivid description of the recent capture of Angaur Island of the Palau group in the South Pacific. Here Seaman Irwin writes he got his first real glimpse of war.

"We left the island we were on one day in September around 12 o'clock. We were in full battle pack plus our sea bags, hammocks and all our other belongings. We were dressed in greens with helmets, gun, knife, ammunition, gas mask and all the rest that goes with battle dress. We got on a LCM landing craft and went out to the ship. We marched up the gang plank and were assigned to a compartment. The trip was real nice and we had good chow. It is pretty hot here so we slept on and even sleeping on the deck was none too cool. I cannot say how long it took us to make the trip (from Tulagi, Solomons). We were one of a large convoy which was a beautiful sight to see. We had plenty of protection all the way. Seeing a force moving as that one did you can easily see why the folks back home have to keep buying war bonds. War is a long, hard and big job. We arrived at the Palau Islands on the day set for D-Day. When daylight came we were in sight of our objective. Boats began going over side the ship at break of day. The Marines were ready for "H" hour. Then the planes came over and bombed the island for two hours or more. Big ships were shelling (Continued on Page Four)
