A Miniature Of North Carolina

"What a benefit it would be to our nation if every young lawyer, yes, and every young minister, would read this book."—The Methodist Christian Advocate, Chicago, Ill.

"It is one of the best and most interesting biographies I have ever read."—C. C. Wyche, United States District Judge, Columbia, S. C.

"The style is splendid and the subject matter is interesting from beginning to end. Every lawyer in North Carolina and every other citizen of the state interested in its history ought to read (this) book."—John J. Parker, United States Circuit Judge.

WALTER CLARK
CHIEF JUSTICE

"... both easy to read and full of much of the history of the state. Mr. Brooks has rendered a real service in giving us this book."—Bernard W. Spillman, in Charity and Children.

"It is a thoroughly fine piece of work and deserves a place among our great legal biographies."—John W. Davis, former Ambassador to the Court of St. James.

"This, to me, is one of the most fascinating biographies of recent years. It is a miniature of North Carolina painted by an artist. The clear, non-technical, non-legal style carries the reader from one dramatic scene to another in the life of a man whose influence as a soldier, scholar, chief justice of his state and champion of reform will last for ages."—Ben R. Lacy, Jr., President Union Theological Seminary.

"We are grateful to Mr. Brooks for recalling to our attention one of the half dozen greatest jurists and one of the most interesting figures of the last generation."—Henry Commager, New York Herald Tribune.

SPARTA SPECTACLES BY EMORYETTA REEVES

Today is Thanksgiving day, a special American day, and for it we here in America give a special sort of thanks.

In Sparta and Alleghany county the day will be celebrated in various ways. Some will make it a day of rest from the labors of the week, sportsmen will go to the field with dog and gun for the first day of the new hunting season, housewives will stuff turkey and make cranberry sauce and children will put aside their lessons for the week end.

To the hunters we give a word of warning. Don't be too fast on the draw and get your bag limit before you even get started. That seems to have been the case with R. E. Black and Dr. C. A. Thompson when they went deer hunting at Pisgah National Forest last week. The first morning of the hunt they got an early start and before 8:30 a. m. they had gotten the bag limit, one deer each. That's what we call fast on the draw but according to these two sportsmen it was a good thing they made the kill so early in the morning. It seems that it took most of the day to get the animals back to camp.

Many tables will be graced with beautifully baked turkey and equally as many with chicken. Mrs. Wayne Waddell was worrying about her turkey the other day. It seems that the poor bird was grieving itself to death, at least it was grieving away the pounds. Mrs. Waddell attributed the grief to the fact that the turkey had been taken away from the flock but we wonder if the doomed bird didn't know or at least have some inkling of the fate in store for it. Seems to us that the word would have been passed down from generation to generation of turkeys and that each year they would know their fate. Anyway, Mrs. Waddell put the poor thing out of its misery and dressed it, deciding that it would keep just as well in the refrigerator.

For the first time this fall, the snow fell. On Sunday it was and it was truly beautiful. There is a sort of breathtaking beauty about snow, as it falls lightly down from the heavens and leaves in its wake a fairland of white and silver. We're always reminded of what the poet said, "But pleasures are like poppies spread, You seize the flower the bloom is shed; Or like the snow falls in the river, A moment white, then gone forever."

And speaking of snow, a lot of people expected it to come earlier than it did. About a week ago early in the afternoon, the sky grew dark and the air held that certain chilliness and people looked at each other and agreed that "snow was in the air" all right. Mrs. S. C. Richardson, who was spending the afternoon sewing looked up from her machine, noticed how dark it was becoming and immediately began preparations for doing the evening chores. These completed, the cow milked, the pig fed, and the chickens put away for the night, she returned to the house, happened to glance at the clock. It was only 4:30. "Certainly fooled me," Mrs. Richardson remarked.

When you go to church if the congregation is not singing your favorite hymn then just proceed to sing it anyway. Rev. E. W. Thompson was conducting church service at Rocky Ridge recently and announced the song, "Blessed Assurance." Little Rose Marie Evans, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Smith Evans walked up to the front seat, took her book, held it upside down and began to sing "Jesus Loves Me" in a strong clear voice. After a moment, everyone had stopped singing except little Miss Evans, who soon finished her song and promptly sat down quite satisfied.

Are you one of those persons who likes turnips? Then we can think of no better place to send you than to the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Coomes, of Rt. 2, Galax. They grow purple top "giant" turnips we would call them. This week, Mr. and Mrs. Coomes brought two turnips up to the News office, one weighing four pounds and measuring 2 3/4 inches in circumference and the other weighing three pounds. "There are plenty more like these, the couple explained so all you turnip lovers know where to go. Would Pappy Yokem love to get into that turnip patch!

Running a close race with the doctors in Sparta on night calls and running at least three or four lengths ahead last Saturday night is Claude Moxley, of Castevens Motor Company. According to Mrs. Moxley, it's a common thing for the telephone to ring at all hours and hear an excited voice ask for Claude to come pull them out of a ditch or unwrap their car from around some tree that happened to get in the way. As for last Saturday night, it seems that "the man who operates the wrecker" got to bed at the early hour of 8 o'clock in the morning. During the night he had pulled in five automobiles from various points in the county. The business seems to be growing by leaps and bounds. Pretty soon, Mr. Moxley is going to have to sleep during the day and just work on the night shift.
