Your Tri-County Health Dept.

By Robert R. King, Jr. District Health Officer

The question has probably occurred to a number of you as to how the Public Health Program is financed. This matter of course is of primary interest to the personnel of the Health Department. Briefly speaking, money for the support of the program comes from private and public sources. Private sources represent such non-profit bodies as the Rockefeller Foundation, The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and The American Red Cross; such money making organizations as Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, The National Dairy Association and similar groups, and from individual foundations such as the Smith Reynolds Foundation of Winston-Salem, N. C.; public sources represent local, state, and federal funds. Local sources are made up of local donations and appropriations by the County Commissioners. State funds are appropriated bi-annually by the State Legislature at its regular meeting, and federal funds come chiefly from the United States Public Health Service and from divisions of other departments of State.

As the present legislature convenes and decides the problems of the state budget it is appropriate to give some details of the contribution of our state to the support of the Public Health Program. The Health Department along with other state-supported programs such as Welfare and Highway Departments is asking for increased appropriations during the next two years. As an example of this there is a request for $350,000.00 annually for the control of venereal diseases. Formerly this money has been supplied by the Smith Reynolds Foundation which is now being turned over entirely to Wake Forest College. Unless the state contributes this money we will also lose a similar amount from the Federal Government which is given to match the money available in the state. The Alleghany-Ashe-Watauga Health Department has been receiving $3,000.00 annually from this source and without this appropriation will stand to lose about half that figure each year. The State Board of Health is also asking for an increased appropriation of $250,000 as compared to $175,000 given in previous years to provide more aid by the state as a whole to rural counties. In other similar fields the State Board of Health has asked for appropriations by the State Legislature to meet the growing program and increased demands for public
