

Brief Review Of State, National And World News During The Past Week

FRITZ IS DISMISSED FROM HUDSON SCHOOL

Lenoir—The Caldwell County Board of Education has declared the office of principal of the Hudson schools vacant and appointed Eugene White, present assistant principal, as acting principal until a successor to R. L. Fritz has been named.

The State Board of Education this week confirmed the revocation of Fritz' teaching certificate. It informed the Caldwell County board that such action automatically cancelled Fritz' contract with the Hudson schools.

The State board revoked the certificate after Fritz admitted that he had padded the school's payroll to the extent of $1,800 in order to pay his teachers additional salaries.

Fritz repaid the money to the school board.

WOMAN EDUCATOR DIES AT WESTPORT, N. Y.

Westport, N. Y.—Mrs. Mary Emma Woolley, 84, first woman delegate to an international disarmament conference and retired president of Mount Holyoke (Mas.) College, died at her home here Friday.

In 1944—seven years after retiring from the college presidency she held for 37 years—the famed educator and peace crusader suffered a cerebral hemorrhage. A spokesman from Mount Holyoke said she had never completely recovered from the attack.

Dr. Woolley, at the age of 69, in 1932, was selected as one of the 12 great American women leaders of the last 100 years in a country-wide poll conducted by the National Council of Women. President Herbert Hoover appointed Miss Woolley as the first woman delegate to an international conference on disarmament in 1931.

MILK SHORTAGE IS PREDICTED IN N. C.

Raleigh—The milk shortage in North Carolina this fall probably will aggregate 40 per cent, C. W. Pegram, director of the dairy division of the State Department of Agriculture, predicted yesterday.

As a result, Pegram said, many milk distributors have requested the State Board of Health to certify their out-of-State supplies. The director of the dairy division said that the State regulations prohibit the sale of imported milk unless such milk is produced un-

CALIF. DEMOCRATS SEEKING CONVENTION

Los Angeles—California wants the Democratic National Convention and has sent James Roosevelt out to get it.

Roosevelt, chairman of the party's State central committee, left by plane Thursday for Washington and New York to sound out party leaders on the idea, and also to discuss the formation of a California delegation to the convention.

He said that he will also seek Federal assistance in reopening the former Kaiser shipyards in Richmond, Calif. Northern business and labor interests recently asked Roosevelt's aid in getting the yards back into operation.

Hodges Coming Back To N. C. Soon

Spray—Luther H. Hodges, vice president of Marshall Field and Company and general manager of Fieldcrest Mills will, effective around the middle of November, transfer his headquarters to the mills at Spray and will make his home here.

The Fieldcrest executive requested the company late in 1940 to transfer him to the New York sales office to do an organization and merchandising job directed toward the promotion of the local mill products under brand names (Fieldcrest and Karastan) on a quality basis and on a national scale.

Hodges is desirous of living in the South again and with the larger phases of the work in New York completed he will return to Spray, continuing to give a great deal of his time to general supervision of the company's merchandise and sales problems by frequent visits to New York City.

A Rotarian of many years' standing, Hodges is a past district governor in this state. In New York, he continued his interest and served as president of the New York City Rotary Club and at present is a member of its board of directors. He is chairman of Rotary International, 1948 convention committee and returned just last week from South America where he laid plans for the holding of the inder conditions similar or equivalent to that produced in North Carolina. Distributors offering imported milk for sale, must file a monthly report of their purchases with the State Department of Agriculture.

World Freedom Of Press Is Proposed By State Department

ATOMIC MANAGER... Carlton Shugg, shipyard executive, who has been drafted by the United States atomic energy commission to serve as manager of its Hanford directed operation at Hanford, Wash.

Washington—A proposed international treaty intended to "cover the earth with truth" by guaranteeing a free flow of information among nations and peoples was made public this week by the State Department.

But, pointing up the difficulties confronting its adoption, it omits any suggestions for even partial blocking of information channels in a manner which might court approval of totalitarian governments.

The draft, prepared under the direction of Richard J. Finnegan, publisher of the Chicago Times, represents what many leaders of the American press, radio and movies think should be done to spread through the world their belief in freedom of printed, oral and visual information.

It says, in essence, that their "correspondents" should be guaranteed the right to enter and travel freely in other countries, with the same being true of foreign correspondents in America. It says they would be equally free to send their "copy" in and out without any censorship other than that "relating directly to the maintenance of national security."
