NEED OF BETTER SCHOOL.
The improvement and condition of the county schools ought to be felt in every State. It is not North Carolina alone that needs this awakening. The school-houses are small and shabby, built board structures, one room and one story high. The overhead ceiling is not more than nine feet from the floor. There is one door in the end of the house, there are six or eight small windows four to the side. There are not many schools that have blinds and curtains. The desks are homemade, with perpendicular backs and seats, all the same size and height. There is a dilapidated wood stove, but no wood box, the wood for the fire being piled on the floor about the stove. The stove is red hot with rust and dirt, never having been polished and cleaned since it was placed in position to use. The floor is covered with dirt and litter from the wood. The occupied blackboard spaces in the schools are very small, and sometimes not high. The blackboard is, however, too high for the small children to use well, and it is too small for anything but a bulletin board. There is seldom a teacher's desk or table. There is no chair. The children's hats and bonnets are hung on nails around the room. The wall and windows are covered with dust. There are no steps to the schoolroom, an inclined plane of dirt or block to answer that purpose. The yards are very muddy during the winter, and the general appearance of the place anything but attractive.

We can amend this—only by the cooperative work of the parents, pupils, teachers and the community. It is with pride that I point to the fact that the children are the most anxious to help in this beautifying work. Instead of disliking the old place, they are proud of their school. Their books are kept neater, their face and hands cleaner, and their hair is usually combed. Of course all are not this way, but the majority are this way, if they have the right teacher. Now let's all come together and talk this matter over, and with little money and little work from each one we can make our school-house larger and put in the necessary supplies and beautify the yards. Then we will not have to crowd the poor little children on the benches and have somewhere to put their hats and lunch boxes.

So many children catch cold on going to school, by the room being so small and hot and then going out in the cold, damp air and get chilled. It often brings on contagious diseases. We can very easily beautify the yards by putting a wire fence around the school, and setting out some shrubbery.

of the facts in the case—that electric lights do not smoke up your walls and ceilings and ruin your pictures and bric-a-brac; that electric lights require no matches, thereby avoiding all danger of fire; that there is no smell or smoke with electricity; that electric lights do not consume any of the oxygen in the air, and therefore do not make you feel stupid and "good for nothing" after staying for a while in a closed room where it is turned on?
We have lots of other good points which we will be glad to explain if you will give us a chance, and the defects of our system are so small as to be practicably negligible. Let's figure.
