GOV. KITCHIN PARDONS MANY.

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 17 --- Governor Kitchin pardons Sudie Hannon, a young woman from Concord, serving four years and nine months sentence in the state prison for manslaughter. The Governor says that at the time the girl killed the man Stacks she was only 14 years old, that she would be released by July if she served the full sentence, with good behavior deductions of time, and that several hundred citizens, including the 12 jurors, the judge and solicitor recommended conditional pardon, and that owing to her youth he considers the conditional pardon proper.
