The Bodies in Wellington Disaster Not Found.

ANOTHER DANGER LIKELY

Snowbank is as High as the Hotel and Entrances to Only Road Through a Tunnel of Snow From the Front.

Wellington, Wash., March 5.—All the bodies of the victims of the Wellington disaster will not be recovered until the snow is melted.

The danger of a second slide is imminent. The snow bank of the hotel is as high as the roof and entrance to a tunnel through a tunnel of snow from the front.

At Alvin the station agent was forced to leave on account of having no food and no fuel. Five miles east of the road were started out and were forced to send a messenger over almost insurmountable obstacles to get help.

There is no confirmation of the report that six laborers were killed in an avalanche at Cascade, on the east slope of the mountains, Thursday morning. Two men lost their lives in a slide there February 27.

Seattle, Wash., March 5.—Ed. Clark, a section hand who participated in early relief work at Wellington, gives a graphic account of his experience.

"On that night about 40 of us, all Americans, were asleep in the bunk house just above Wellington," he said. "Suddenly I heard a noise, I can't describe, and then Charlie Anderson, the section boss, rushed in."

"Boys, for God's sake get up," he shouted, and the men sprang up. Anderson said the passenger train and motors had been swept out. "Get out of this quick men, or you will be cleaned." With that he ran to tell the others.

"It was thundering and lightning when he ran out. The flashes were blinding and the thunder kept up an awful racket. It was dark as pitch when the lightning didn't blind us. We heard again the moving down the gulch and made a break for it. There were only two or three little road lanterns for light. All around we could hear trees snapping and other slides tumbling down into the gully where we could hear the crash. Some had grabbed up axes when they ran out and then the lanterns showed a row of hands back in every little hole and opening in the coaches. We started chopping between the outstretched hands and so began to take them out."

"We had worked hard all day and were pretty well played out, but we all set to work, each man gave his first name leading. We could hear passengers crying for water. Some were crying for nothing at all. We got some of them out alive, but many died before we got to them, although they were living when we reached the spot."

SPECIAL MEETING.

There will be a meeting of the executive committee of the Young Men's Christian League Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

CAUSED A ROW

Sub-Committee on Naval Affairs Declined to Receive Documents to Consider.

Washington, March 5.—Proofs of Commander Peary's discovery of the North Pole caused a row in the sub-committee of the House committee on naval affairs today. Two members of the National Geographic Society appeared before the committee with copies of Mr. Peary's proofs to urge the granting of a suitable reward by Congress to the explorer, but the committee declined to receive them in confidence with the ultimate result that the committee has made it known that unless the Peary proofs are forthcoming to the full satisfaction of the committee that every bill introduced for the purpose of rewarding the North Pole discoverer will be pigeon-holed.

Three members of the committee were in favor of receiving the Peary proofs without making them public. The other two members, however, objected, and one declaring his position, stated sharply from the room.

"I am against any legislation in the dark," Mr. Macdon sharply told the committee. "Furthermore, if this committee decided in favor of Peary without inspecting the full records and making them public, I will expose the whole business on the floor of the House or in a statement to the press. If we reward Mr. Peary, the American people have a right to know what we are rewarding him for."

Professor Gannett, of the coast and geodetic survey, and one of the members of the National Geographic Society which accepted Peary's proofs, told the committee that Mr. Peary would not let the committee have the proofs for public purposes, because he wanted them for use in newspaper and magazine articles.

The professor had with him a copy of the proofs, but he declined to submit them. He told the committee that he had not the slightest doubt but that Peary discovered the Pole, and never had any, even before he saw the proofs. He submitted to a long questioning and answered many interrogations about the Peary diary.

Representative Alexander, of New York, was present as the personal representative of Mr. Peary, and told the committee that the latter would be glad to have the committee examine the records, but he would have to see Mr. Peary again and learn whether he would consent to have them published.

The committee will take up the subject again next Tuesday, and if Mr. Peary's proofs are submitted, it is intended to have the scientists there to examine them on behalf of the committee.

THE GAITY.

A most attractive program is to be given at the Gaiety theater this evening. The pictures advertised are: Saved by a Medal, drama; Conquest of a Handkerchief, comedy; Balzano's masterpiece, "La Grande Breteche," film d'art, acted by Mr. Phillip Garner of the Comedie Francaise, Mr. Andre Calmetton, of the Gymnase, and Mlle. Vera Sergine, of L'Odeon; A Call Boy's Vengeance. All of the above pictures have a big reputation throughout the country and wherever they have been given have never failed to please and elevate. The Gaiety management is to be congratulated on securing them for this city. Mr. Whitten will sing tonight "Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now." The song will be illustrated. Follow the merry crowd tonight.

ROBBERY

Mr. R. Phillips Stabbed of 2424 Saturday Night While on His Way Home.

One of the boldest robberies to occur in the city for sometime took place on Market street Saturday night between 11 and 12 o'clock.

Mr. R. Phillips, who runs a small grocery store at the corner of Market and Teats streets, just before closing hour counted out his cash for the day's sales, placed it in his pocket and after shutting up his place of business started for his home. When opposite the tobacco store he heard a noise to the rear. As he turned to locate it he was caught by two men and a third one began to search his pockets. In the struggle Mr. Phillips was thrown heavily to the ground. He was not hurt in the scuffle, but received a heavy shake-up. The amount of $25.54 which Mr. Phillips had on his person was taken. The robbers made good their escape. Mr. Phillips thinks that two were negroes and one white. The police are now at work on the case.

A man can have most of his vices overlooked by inheriting a fortune.

OPERATION PERFORMED.

Mrs. C. E. Whitehead, wife of Capt. C. S. Whitehead, the clever conductor on the Washington and Vandemere train, was operated on at the Washington Hospital this morning. It is to be hoped she will soon recover.

TALK ENJOYED

A Large Crowd Present at the Young Men's Christian League Yesterday Afternoon.

Those present at the Young Men's Christian League Sunday afternoon had the pleasure of hearing a most admirable address delivered by Mr. C. E. Moore, whose subject was "King's Mission on Earth." It was listened to with interest and profit. The music by the league orchestra was an usual much enjoyed. Every young man should be present at these interesting and instructive meetings every Sunday. They would be much benefited.

AT THE GEM.

A great bill is scheduled at the Gem tonight—all the pictures being excellent. They are: In Little Italy, dramatic Biograph; Honey Induced in France, industrial; Flight of the Angel Child, comedy; The Flight of Mr. DeVallette, dramatic. You can not afford to absent yourself this evening for the show bids fair to be one of the best yet given at this theater. All during the evening the orchestra will render some of their high class music which is always a drawing card. The Gem had a packed house Saturday night and the performance was in every way up-to-date. Attend this popular place of pleasure and see a first-class bill.

CONVICTS

Will Work in Washington Only 10 Days, Instead of 60.

The county convicts are to work on Bonner street and the ditch running near Mr. H. S. Ward's residence for a period of 10 days. The boys were in error in stating they would work in Washington a period of 60 days. After the ditch and Bonner street, that part lying outside of the corporate limits, is completed the convicts will be moved to other parts of the county for work.

IS BETTER.

Andie Louise, the four-year-old daughter of Rev. J. A. Sullivan, who has been threatened with pneumonia, is thought to be better this morning. This will be welcome news to her many playmates and friends.

MUCH ENJOYED.

Rev. R. E. Hoffman filled the pulpit at the First Baptist Church Sunday morning to the delight and pleasure of that congregation. Mr. Hoffman is a magnetic speaker. His address was preached at Chocomaity, his regular appointment.

Some parents train their children successfully by posing as a warning instead of a good example.

Rev. C. B. Malone, rector of the Episcopal Church, Bath, was in the city this morning.

SMALL FIRE

Almost a Lively Blaze at Boarding House Yesterday.

Early this morning there came near a fire at the residence of Mr. A. S. Falgout, West Second street. A lighted match was thrown in a wood-box, thinking it had gone out. The contents of the box soon caught and Mr. O'Connor, of the Gem theater, in trying to get the burning box from the room had his hands burned, but not seriously.

LARGE CONGREGATION.

Large congregations greeted Rev. Robert Hope at the Christian Church Sunday morning and evening. The sermons at both services were instructive and interesting. The music was finely rendered.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

BATTLE WITH POLICE

Following Big Labor Demonstration in Philadelphia.

MEN DEFY MAYOR'S ORDERS

Police are Powerless Before the Great Surging Mob That Filled the Streets. Violence Breaks Out as Crowds March—Patrol Wagons Attacked and Prisoners Released.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 5.—Organized labor's demonstration in Independence square here this afternoon to mark the beginning of the general sympathetic strike, involving nearly 100,000 thousand workers, was followed this afternoon by many scenes of violence throughout the city. Ten thousand persons, aroused by the display of police power, joined in the demonstration, marching through the downtown section and committing acts of violence wherever they went.

The mass meeting in the historic square bore no serious results itself, except for a few minor disturbances, but no sooner had it ended than the crowd seemed suddenly to have been seized with a frenzy of destruction. Cars in Chestnut and Market streets were interested by the great crowd and stoned. Passengers were terrorized and the details of police were attacked. At Ninth and Market streets a pitched battle occurred. Men and women joined in the riot and many were injured.

Though a large force of policemen was rushed to the scene of the trouble the rioters refused to disperse. Many of them were arrested in a demonstration at Ninth and Filbert streets, but one man leaped from the police patrol and got away. At five o'clock the reign of lawlessness in the business section had exceeded any former bounds, and the situation appeared to be getting beyond control of the police. It is feared that conditions will be much worse when darkness has settled over the city.

Part of the crowd assembled in Washington square, two blocks from Independence Hall. Some of the labor leaders climbed on a water fountain and started to address the crowd. When the mounted policemen on Chestnut street heard of this they galloped through the arches of Independence Hall, rode into the crowd and scattered them right and left. Many men and women were trampled under the horses' feet and severely injured.

A remarkable feature of the rioting was the large number of women who took part. There seemed to be about as many of them as men. They were not backward in taking part in the attacks on the cars and they hooted and jeered the policemen. Ada Keyerson, president of the Shirt Waist Makers' Union, was one of the leaders of the mob. She was arrested and taken to the City Hall with the other prisoners.

It was not the fault of the strikers that there was not trouble during the meeting. They were ready for anything, but lacked a leader. The police did not appear to awe them very much, but there wasn't anybody in the crowd who would pluck up enough courage to make any sort of a fight. At one time the motormen and conductors succeeded in rousing some excitement that looked as though it might result in a riot, but the police quickly checked it. After a while part of the crowd appeared to tire of waiting for something to happen and started away. They had not gone far when a sort of parade was formed and several thousand marched to the rooms of the Central Labor Union, in North Ninth street, where an indignation meeting was held.

The strikers, jubilant over the way in which the strike order has been obeyed, predict that tonight all business throughout the city will be shut down and that by Monday the industries will be at a complete standstill. They say that even the necessities of life, such as bread, milk, meats, etc., will be luxuries. Breweries, factories and big industrial establishments of all sorts will be closed.

NEURALGIA OF THE POCKETBOOK—IT'S AN AWFUL DISEASE

(Copyright 1910 by Lewis D. Sampson, Editor Town Development, Chicago.)

Neuralgia of the Pocketbook differs from all other known diseases. It attacks the patient in the region of the ventral, or the dorsal, jeans. The pain is almost unbearable, and often superinduces excitement of the heart—if there is a heart. In its malignant form the disease not only affects the sufferer, but also gives his neighbors a pain. Doctors confess they have no specific for Neuralgia of the Pocketbook. It baffles the medical profession. A peculiarity of the disease is that it is prevalent mainly among the well-to-do. The patients never fully recover and they never die—young. Either event would be a welcome relief to the community! Town Development has observed that the malady is greatly aggravated in a progressive town. The atmosphere of public enterprise does not agree with the patients. It is apt to penetrate their sensitive pocketbooks. A Chamber of Commerce is in opposition to them. Development plans make them timid and retiring. They frequently retire to back streets and private offices, while the advertisement paper is being passed around—so that it will pass. It has been proposed to colonize all such unfortunate. But no place in the civilized world wants them. The ideal retreat would be a quiet, peaceful, thoroughly dead town, in a hot climate, where the houses have no doors, and have windows, baby carriages, wheelbarrows, apple carts and ideas have never been introduced, and where, therefore, it is unnecessary ever to push ANYTHING.
