Winston-Salem, April 24.—A trio of well-knowa citisens came perilous-ly near to death this atternoon in one of the majer curious automobile acci-dents on record. The car plunged through a frail, temporary bridge over a sixty-foel cut and hung there while the occupants scrambled to safety and not one received a scratch.

The accident occurred at Southside. A Reo car, owned and driver by Mr. W. C. Northrup, the architect and having as passengers Mr. Thomas Hume, jr., and Mr. L. O'Brien, was running along on a low goar while the gentlemen inspected the work that is being done on the Southbound Railroad when this temporary bridge
