DIABETES

From late figures the hope of recovery under the new treatment treatment seems to be about as follows:

In people of sixty and over results are quite uniform, probably almost all recovering. While at fifty and over a large majority of all cases yield to the treatment, below fifty and approaching forty the percentage is not high—probably not much over half yielding.

Under thirty the percentage is low and in children recoveries have been very few and most of these were obtained with the aid of skilled physicians forcing nutrition and alkaline treatment to prevent formation of acetone.

The new emollient treatment is known as Bloodine Blood and Kidney Tablets. They can be had in Washington at Dr. Ira M. Hardy's.

We desire every patient to write us who is not getting the usual improvement by the hard work. A large state literature mailed free, and full orders filled by the Bloodine Corporation, Boston, Mass.

The Attorney in England.

The use of the word attorney denoted a delisted agent. Since Nov. 1, 1912, attorneys have ceased to exist, their title changed by law into that of solicitor of the supreme court of justice, says a writer in the Journal of Law.

The name had long been used as a term of abuse. Johnson observed in an acquaintance that "he did not care to speak ill of any man behind his back, but he believed the gentleman was an attorney."

Archbishop Truett, in 1830, noted that the word attorney was going out of favor and that the lower branch of the legal profession preferred to be called solicitors. So when the judicial act of 1870 was before parliament a clause was inserted abolishing the obnoxious title. But with our delightful conservatism we still honor the "attorney general."

Holland.

Holland, known as North and South Holland, forms part of the northern part of the Netherlands. These provinces are composed of land rescued from the sea and defended by immense dikes.

Holland was inhabited by the Batvi in the time of Caesar, who made a league with them. It became part of Gallia Belgica and afterward of the kingdom of Austria. From the tenth to the fifteenth century it was governed by counts under the German emperors. Holland was at one time a Dutch republic. It was created a kingdom in 1806, and Louis Bonaparte, father of Napoleon III, was declared king.

Judge's Wig.

The wig is only worn by English barristers to give them a stern, judicial appearance, and so one can say that it falls in this respect. The custom was originated by a French judge in the seventeenth century when, happening to don a marquis' wig one day, he found it gave him such a stern and dignified appearance that he decided to get one for himself and wear it at all times in court. This he did, and the result was so satisfactory from a legal point of view that not only judges, but barristers also, took up the custom throughout Europe.—London Graphic.

Assault.

Wirt and the younger woman, with several women in indignation.

The young man looked embarrassed.

"Yes, I did, yes," he admitted.

"But I was impulsively insane."

"That means that a man would be a lunatic to the end."

"Well, any man of distinction would be just crazy to kiss you."

This seemed to end the strain, and no jury being present to make a formal, a satisfactory verdict was reached.

Suspicious Routine.

Good Man—Ah, my poor fellow, I am sorry for you. Why don't you marry? When I was young for ten years I was never in bed after 8 an hour's work before breakfast, then five hours work, then dinner, then four hours more work, then supper, then bed, then go again at 8 the next morning.

Lonely—I say, gov'nor, where did you serve for time, San Quentin or Folsom?—San Francisco Star.

Met Moss Talk.

"I cannot live but a week longer without you."

"You talk talk, talk. How can you live on a specific length of time?"

"You landed on it, mist not I."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Really Convinced.

Would Be Contributor set editor's pen—Here's a job, Mr. Editor, that I'll guarantee was never in print before. Editor (after reading it)—Don't doze your word in the list, sir.—London Tit-Bits.

All Names Alike.

A certain Lord Westmoreland fell in love with the daughter of a child, the rich banker, who, however, would not hear of the match. The lovers in spite of this met secretly and kept their love alive, while Child's complacently congratulated himself that his daughter had forgotten her whimsical lover. One day, meeting Child in a club, Lord Westmoreland said: "What would you do if, like my father, you were in love with a lady and her father refused his consent to allow them to marry?"

"Why, run away with her, of course," replied the unsuspecting Child.

Lord Westmoreland promptly followed the advice of the banker, who by some strange fate that he refused to give the young couple and, dying, bequeathed all of his vast wealth to their child, Sarah. In order to secure the wealth Lord and Lady Westmoreland named all of their six children Sarah, boys included.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Physical Formation of Mexico.

Mexico possesses a curious physical formation. Rising rapidly by a succession of terraces from the low, sandy coasts on the east and west, it culminates in a central plateau running in a northwesterly and southwesterly direction and having an elevation varying from 4,000 to 8,000 feet above the sea. High above this plateau tower the snow capped crags of several volcanoes, most of which are extinct. Ten of them are over 12,000 feet in height, and three look away from the center toward the Gulf of Mexico.

Scriptural Misapprehensions.

"He who runs may fall" sounds very Scriptural, but it is really a misapprehension of the verse in the prophet Habakkuk. "Write the vision and make it plain upon the table that he may run that readeth it." Another Scriptural misapprehension is "by the sweat of the brow shall you eat your bread," which is a misapprehension of the verse in Genesis: "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat thy bread."

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION.

Pursuant to the action of the State Democratic Executive Committee, a Democratic County Convention of the County of Beaufort is hereby called to meet in Washington, N. C., on Saturday, July 2, at 11 o'clock a. m. The Democratic Executive Committee of Beaufort county, having adopted "the precinct plan" as outlined in the State Plan of Organization, primaries are called to meet as follows:

Belhaven and Washington at 8 o'clock p. m., Friday, June 24.

Pineville, Beaver Dam and Chocowinity precincts at 10 o'clock a. m., Saturday, June 25.

All other precincts in the county on Saturday, June 25, at 3 o'clock p. m.

This convention is called for the purpose of selecting delegates to the State Congressional, Senatorial and Judicial conventions, and as will be noted from the above no change has been made by the Executive Committee for this county with reference to the holding of the precinct primaries. Immediately after the convention adjourns a meeting of the Executive Committee will be held for the purpose of electing a chairman for the ensuing two years.

A full attendance at all primaries is earnestly requested.

By order of the Executive Committee,
W. C. RODMAN,
Chairman.

Advantages of a Silo.

Silage keeps young stock thrifty, produces fat beef more cheaply than does dry feed and produces milk and butter more economically. Silage is more conveniently handled than dry fodder, prevents waste of cornstalks which contain about one-third the feed value of entire corn crop, gives palatable feedstuffs that otherwise would not be eaten. It permits a larger number of animals to be kept on small area, enables the farmer to put up feed in rainy season and is the most economical method of supplying succulence in winter. This should be the silo hold a prominent place on every farmer's estate, says Farm and Ranch.

Showering and Washing Butter.

To make butter that will keep well and pure only till the butter globules in the cream are about the size of a pea, without collecting or gathering the butter dries off the buttermilk and wash in five times the amount of cold water.

The smaller the particles of butter when the washing is done the better for cleaning. When butter is collected in one large mass before washing the water can reach only the outside of the mass; hence much buttermilk will remain in the butter to cause it to become rancid sooner than when it is washed clean.

Provides Water For Bees.

Beekkeepers should not forget that water is an absolute necessity to the bees' existence. Bees are hard drinkers, and it is very important that they have easy access to plenty of pure water without having to fly long distances to secure it. Therefore it should be put where it is readily accessible, in pans or jars near the apiary. Change the water frequently and put a little salt into it occasionally. Also place some pieces of wood in the water for the bees to alight upon.—Farm and Ranch.

Cultivating Early Celery.

During the season celery plants require frequent watering and fertilization. The plants may be transplanted by setting a little over an inch apart, wrapping the roots with paper or setting up boards along the side of the rows to exclude the light. Banking the rows with earth is not generally practiced with early celery, since the hot sun of summer rapidly induces rot.—Orange Judd Farmer.

Care of Trees Necessary.

There are enough apple trees in Beaufort county to supply the demand for apples in the State.

See Another Copy.

A well dressed man was standing outside a bookeller's shop in Charing Cross road closely examining one of Balzac's works illustrated by Gustave Doré. "How much is this Balzac?" he asked an assistant outside.

"Twenty-five shillings," was the reply.

"That's far too much. I must see the manager about a reduction," continued the prospective customer, and, suiting the action to the word, he took up the book and went into the shop.

Approaching the bookkeeper, he took the book from under his arm and asked what he would give for it. "Seven shillings highest offer," he was told.

The offer was accepted, the man took his money and left.

"Yes," queried the assistant later, after the man had gone, "were you able to hit it off with the gentleman, sir?"

"Oh, yes. I managed to get another copy of that edition of Balzac for 7 shillings."

Then the bookkeeper went out to lodge a complaint with the police.—London Telegraph.

A Victim of Leprosy.

"On my travels in Venezuela," said a New York man, "I stayed in a hotel with a young man in whose family there was the latent of leprosy, though he apparently did not have it. One night sitting at dinner he became dizzy at a water and brought his hand down on the table with full force. He instantly realized that he did not feel the blow and sat looking at his hand. His face whitening with horror, 'Givé me your knife, Bob,' he said to his chin. He grabbed the pocketknife in a frenzy and stabbed the side of his hand with vicious cuts from finger tip to wrist. You may not know that leprosy appears in the side of the hand, numbers being a sign. The man did not feel the cuts. He arose from the table, knocking over his chair, rushed out into the courtyard of the hotel, and we heard the quick tang of a revolver shot, falling in how he had conquered the leper's curse by ending his life."—New York Times.

He Could Weld an Ax.

The skill of the old Maine shipbuilders in the use of the adze and broadax was wonderful. One old time yarn is of a carpenter who applied very drunk at a shipyard for employment. In order to have a little fun with him the foreman set him to give a proof of his skill by hewing out a wooden bolt with one chopping block, but a stone. "The carpenter accomplished his difficult task without marring the keen edge of the broadax and showed the foreman a neatly made bolt. Then he brought the ax down with a terrific blow that shattered its edge upon the stone. "I can hew fast rate on your chopping block," he blurted out, "but I'll be blamed if I can make the ax stick in it when I get through." The story runs that the foreman lost no time in employing such a workman.

GOLDSBORO HEARD FROM

A Lady Who Lives in Goldsboro joins in the Chorus of Praise for Cardui, The Woman's Tonic.

Goldsboro, N. C.—"A physician friend of mine for many distressing symptoms," writes Mrs. Elna A. Smith, "but gives me no relief."

"I suffered with neuralgia around the heart and was troubled at times with my head. I had pain in my left side, bowels, left thigh, shoulders and arms."

"After taking Cardui, I am now well and can recommend it to other suffering women."

Just such doubtful symptoms, as those from which Mrs. Smith suffered, are the ones for which it will pay you to take Cardui, the woman's tonic.

It is at such times, when there is nothing to show, for certain, the real cause of the trouble, that you need a tonic, to give the body strength to throw off the illness that evidently threatens.

Take Cardui, when you are ill with the ailments of your sex. Take Cardui as a tonic, to prevent illness, when you feel it coming.

Your druggist keeps it.

M. B.—Write Dr. Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chas. Cardui Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions, and 64 page book, "Home Treatment of Women's" sent in plain wrapper on request.

STEAMER ASHORE

Big Transatlantic Ship Goes Aground in Christiania Harbor.

Christiania, June 4.—The Norway-Danish transatlantic steamer United States is aground in the fjord here. The steamer was coming into this port on the way from Copenhagen to New York when a strong current threw her out of her course and she ran aground.

She carries 1,000 passengers, mostly American citizens of Scandinavian birth, who had been on a visit to the Fatherland and had started home. Many vessels in the fjord hurried to her relief. There is probably but little danger to her passengers, as in any event they could all be landed safely, but it is not yet known how badly the ship is damaged.

A Woman's Great Idea

is how to make herself attractive. But, without health, it is hard for her to be lovely in face, form or temper. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation and Kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. But Electric Bitters always prove a godsend to women who want health, beauty and friends. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion, good health.
