Story that Will Be Appreciated by Knights of the Kus.
 Calvin Demarest, the amateur billiard champion, described at a dinner in Chicago some poor billiard tables. "One summer in the country," he said, "another man and I were overtaken by a storm and had to go into a cavern for shelter. The rain fell steadily. We had three or four long hours before us. Time began to hang heavily on our hands.
 "Landlord," said I, "do you happen to have a billiard table?"
 "Sure," said the landlord. "Sure. Just stop this way, gent."
 "He proudly threw open the door of a dark, stuffy room. We saw an antiquated table with a patched cloth, and in the corner was a rack of crooked cues.
 "Any balls?" said I.
 "Sure," said the landlord, and he unlocked a closet and laid on the table three white balls, all alike—there was no spot, you know.
 "But, see here," I remonstrated, "how do you tell these balls apart?"
 "Oh, that's all right," said he. "You soon get to know 'em by their shape."—Washington Star.
