

THE ELORADO OF HOPE IS THE FAR FAMED LAND OF DIXIE

Congressman John H. Small Today Delivered the Following Response to the Address of Welcome by Gov. A. J. Forbier Before the Annual Meeting of the Atlantic Deeper Waterway Association at Providence on Behalf of the Southern Delegates.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen: The cordial welcome we have received to the State of Rhode Island and the City of Providence has relieved us of any natural embarrassment which usually comes to the visitor when he first enters the home of his host.

While I am a loyal son of the South, yet my colleagues and I from that section have received the same welcome and will, I am sure, receive the same consideration as the men of New England or Pennsylvania because we are all citizens of the same great Republic protected by the same laws and loyal to the same flag.

It would be strange indeed if either any citizen or alien should not enjoy freedom of conscience and opinion in the State of Rhode Island. As a colony in the early days you laid the foundation of your civil government upon the bed rock of liberty for your own people and "liberality and tolerance" for all.

You will not depart from the old landmarks now that you have grown strong and prosperous. Our president said that I should respond to your generous words of welcome upon behalf of the South. It may, therefore, be not inappropriate if I speak to you briefly about that section. Bound together as we are in an indissoluble union of inalienable rights, whatever concerns a part is of interest to the whole.

Our line of Men's Straw Hats 1-2 Price

See window Display

James E. Clark Co. THE HIGH-ART CLOTHIERS

ARE MOVING

Ellison Bros. Will Be in Their New Quarters by September 1.

The firm of Ellison Bros. Company are moving to their new three-story building on West Main street, formerly occupied by the Bailey Supply Company.

They have just received a car load of Hub-No-More Washing Powder and soap. They expect another car during the coming month.

This well known firm has also received the first car load of writing tablets ever shipped to Eastern North Carolina.

This shipment is one of the few received by any concern in the entire state. They are in receipt also of a solid car of wood crockery, Ellison Bros. Company enjoy a large patronage in this eastern section and their business is growing all the while.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset. That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

GENERAL EFFECT

Of Sanitary Progress and Increased Efficiency

IT IS SUCH A BLESSING

AFTER THE 17TH YEAR THE AVERAGE AMERICAN CHILD BECOMES SELF-SUPPORTING AND IS A SOURCE OF REVENUE TO OTHERS.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset. That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

That is to say, it is necessary for the individual and the public contribute to the physical, mental, and moral development of a child until it reaches its seventeenth year.

After the 17th year the average American child becomes self-supporting and is a source of revenue to others.

From an economic standpoint, the average American child is a liability until its seventeenth year, after which time it becomes an asset.

BOLD THIEF

Young Negro Boy Robs Mr. G. A. Phillips' Store Yesterday

One of the boldest robberies in many a day, happened yesterday when the iron safe of Mr. George A. Phillips, located in his office on West Main street, was robbed by Thomas Washington, a 16-year-old colored boy.

The robbery took place between one and two o'clock, the dinner hour of Mr. Penner Phillips. When Mr. Phillips left the office for his home he did not lock the safe but simply turned the knob. During his absence the boy entered the office turned the knob and then with a hatchet broke the iron inside door and also one of the drawers in which the valuable papers of Mr. Phillips were kept. On Mr. Phillips' return to the office and seeing what had happened, he at once suspected Washington of the deed as he had been seen loitering around the office. Last December he was chased from the office as he was acting in a suspicious manner.

Mr. Phillips at once sought the father of the boy and told him that he was satisfied that his boy was the guilty party and that if he would return to him the papers that were in the safe he would not prosecute him.

Last night about supper time the father of the boy returned the box containing the papers. Mr. Phillips can't state whether the draw contained any money or not, but does not think it did.

Washington has a bad reputation for stealing. He has been charged with several crimes during the past year.

Mr. Fuller Has the Farmers' Welfare at Heart.

Mr. Chas. H. Fuller of Pawtucket, R. I., has for the past 15 years been spending his winters in Washington, where he has been bringing his handsome yacht Thetis. During this time a number of our farmers have extended to Mr. Fuller the privilege of gunning upon their place and while Mr. Fuller has not availed himself of all these invitations he fully appreciated the courtesy of having a desire to show his appreciation he thought it a good plan to donate or give to the farmers of this section several prizes which we consider very valuable. Last fall Mr. Fuller was present at the Norfolk and Southern Corn Judging Contest, at Washington, and feeling the great good this contest was doing, he proposed to the Washington Chamber of Commerce that he would give as prizes one-half dozen solid silver cups for a contest for this year. At that time Mr. I. H. Page (president of the J. Stevens Tool and Arms Company, of Chicopee Falls, Mass., was a guest of Mr. Fuller. Mr. Page also became interested and offered to give 10 fine Stevens guns.

The solid silver cups are in Washington. The Stevens guns have been shipped, therefore, our farmers may look for a great agricultural exhibition in Washington, and as there are to be some 60 or so valuable prizes donated by our merchants, you want to watch the list and see if there isn't some of the prizes you can win.

The following is a letter from Mr. Fuller stating that he will be down again this year. One of his reasons for giving these prizes will be noted as follows:

"The farmers' welfare I have at heart, as a number have extended the courtesy of hunting on their places. I do not know of a better way to get square with them than to offer the cups."

Mr. A. C. Hathaway, Dear Sir—Yours of August 20th, at hand and contents noted. Good plan perhaps for me to win three times to become owner. Whatever engraving you wish on the cups, at the proper time I'll attend to it. Date of yacht racing you can decide better than I. Say sometime last of November or first of December. I intend to be with you again this winter. Now as the guns have been sent I hope you will have received them ere this. I have written to you that a new member was wanted in the Tar Heel Motor Boat Club, and as I have a letter from C. R. Payne, secretary, I shall apply for entrance.

The farmers' welfare I have at heart, as a number have extended the courtesy of hunting on their places. I do not know of a better way to get square with them than to offer the cups. I expect to meet some of your townspeople next week at the Deep Waterway meet.

Now remember me to all the farmers, and success to you all in your undertaking.

Yours,
C. H. FULLER.

Pawtucket, R. I., Aug. 23, 1910.
Now, Dear Farmer, don't fail to show your appreciation for the cups Stevens' guns and other prizes to be given. Select your best products and have them on exhibition in November.

Mr. Henry Bonner, of Aurora, was a Washington visitor today.

SAVED FROM MOB

The Militia Saves the Lives of Two Murderers

SEVERAL WERE INJURED

MOB CLEANS FOR LIVES OF THE PRISONERS AT HUNTINGTON, W. VA., AND CLASHES WITH THE AUTHORITIES. MARTIAL LAW PREVAILS

Huntington, W. Va., Aug. 30.—Martial law was today declared here and three companies of troops ordered out to protect Thomas Waynard and Charles Clayburn, colored, from a mob determined to lynch them. In a clash between the troops and the mob of 4,000 a score of persons were injured, some seriously, and 50 persons were arrested.

The militiamen charged into the heart of the crowd, which fought back with clubs and missiles before being cowed for the time being. The calling out of the troops followed a desperate attempt on the part of the local authorities to restore order.

Sheriff Harshbarger, surrounded by a force of regular and special deputies mounted the steps of the jail in an attempt to reason with the mob.

He had spoken but a moment appealing to them to disperse, when the leaders rushed forward and dragged him from his position carrying him away.

All night long the throng remained about the jail, and the fire of a dozen bonfires made the spectacle more sinister. The arrival of the troops, brought here on special trains, brought matters to a climax.

With bayonets fixed, the soldiers tramped through the town to the jail while jeering crowds lined the streets, at times showering them with missiles.

This morning after the clash in which the troops charged, an appeal for reinforcement was taken under consideration. Wayne is charged with the murder of Mrs. John Ailiff, near Quinnimont and Clayburn is alleged to have murdered her husband near here last Saturday.

Mr. Ailiff was killed while she and her husband who had been married but a few hours, were going to their home.

The bridegroom was beaten unconscious and the bride's body was recovered from a brook by the road, where the attack occurred, near Quinnimont.

Wayne is charged with the murder of Mrs. John Ailiff, near Quinnimont and Clayburn is alleged to have murdered her husband near here last Saturday.

Mr. Ailiff was killed while she and her husband who had been married but a few hours, were going to their home.

The bridegroom was beaten unconscious and the bride's body was recovered from a brook by the road, where the attack occurred, near Quinnimont.

CANDIDATES IN SIXTH MUST SIGN PLEDGE

Raleigh, Aug. 29.—Chairman J. R. Young of the special state committee to umpire the primary ordered by the state democratic executive committee to clear the contest in the Sixth congressional district as to whether H. L. Godwin or O. L. Clark has the nomination in that district. sent to candidates today the pledges they must sign to abide by the result of the voting primary to be held September 15.

Only Godwin and Clark are now avowed candidates. If there are to be others they must register with the committee and sign the pledge on or before September 1.

It is not expected that there will be any other candidates.

ROOSEVELT GOES TO DENVER

Chevyenne, Aug. 29.—Colonel T. R. Roosevelt left here early today for Denver his next place to speak. He expressed himself as having had a great time in Chevyenne.

ED. SMITH WAS KILLED

Wilson, N. C., Aug. 30.—Yesterday on the outskirts of Bailey, about 12 miles from Wilson, a homicide occurred when a young negro named Williams, shot and instantly killed Ed Smith, his brother-in-law, after a quarrel. It is reported that Smith and Williams

Russ Bros. The Picture Framers

EDICT IS A SHOCK

Portugal Follows Spain in Move Against the Church

DISORDERS IS THE RESULT

TENSION BETWEEN PORTUGAL AND THE VATICAN REACHES CLIMAX. PREMIER ORDERS INTO THE RE-STATE LAWS

Lisbon, Aug. 30.—The long continued tension between Portugal and the vatican came to a climax today when Premier Souza, following the plan adopted by Premier Canalejas in Spain, ordered rigorous inquiry into the religious orders. Particular attention is to be given according to the Premier's orders, to orders of foreign priests and friars which are not established according to the laws of the country. The members of these orders are to be expelled.

It is said that Portugal like Spain was the refuge of thousands of monks and nuns when the religious organizations were driven from France and when the United States acquired the Philippines. The Premier took this move after a long conference with King Manuel and the government leaders.

The edict came as a shock to Lisbon, no such drastic step having been anticipated.

When the news spread crowds gathered. Extra troops were detailed to police duty or ordered in readiness for action. In several sections of the city, especially those of the working classes, disorders became imminent and there were many minor fights.

In one quarter a mob paraded, shouting "down with Souza." The first clash between Portugal, and Rome, came when the government censured the action of the archbishop of Braga in suppressing a Franciscan newspaper without submitting his order to the government for approval.

TO ADDRESS Y. M. C. L.

Mr. G. C. Huntington of Charlotte, interstad secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association is expected here sometime during the month of September for the purpose of addressing the Young Men's Christian League.

The executive committee of the League are hoping to secure Mr. Huntington for the opening Sunday service. The exact time of his coming will be announced later.

AERONAUT BREAKS WOODEN LEG.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 29.—At Tullahoma Tenn., Friday afternoon C. W. Andrews, an aeronaut in attempting to make an ascension at the fair grounds, fell to the ground with his parachute.

Both legs were broken—one of them was a wooden leg—his skull fractured and his body badly bruised. He is believed to be fatally hurt.

LION OF THE HOUR

Hon. John H. Small proved to be the central attraction among the southern delegates to the Atlantic Deeper Waterway convention while in Norfolk Monday. He held a regular levee on board the Merchant and Miness ship, Howard, prior to his departure for Providence.

lived in the same house and that Smith had badly used some of young Williams' cooking utensils. The two negroes quarreled and Smith's wife (Williams' sister) got him out of the room, but Smith wanted to follow him and whip him.

To this Williams' sister objected, and on Smith insisting on following, the boy picked up his single barrel shot gun and fired the load taking effect in Smith's neck, killing him instantly.