FADS AND FASHIONS

There is a new embroidery of beads in metal, pearl and colors, very decorative for new fall blouses.

Many of the marabout neck pieces are made up with satin of contrasting or harmonizing color. Sometimes the satin is shirred and fashioned into simple rosettes.

The golden and enormous popularity of sombre satin hats "faint" sooner or later result in their downfall. Too many are wearing them for the Vogue to continue long.

Beige colors have increased in popularity this summer. The style is becoming to most women. Much of its smartness depends on its fit, which gives it its finish.

The coat of bright cerise is popular for evening wear, and is often made in tulle or mousseline, with self-tone embroideries and a touch of black somewhere by way of relief.

SHE SAYS.

The people who meet trouble half way are the ones who insist upon taking it home with them.

Tell a man that you think him awfully wicked and he will be so flattered you can make him as good as you wish him.

Why is it that when a married man flirts he condemns another man who does it more successfully?

The erstwhile summer girl finds that it is much easier to be a success in summertime when ice cream and carriages are in vogue, than in the cooler winter, when theatre tickets and orchids are needed for a good stage setting.

A man can be awfully good about confessing things what he is sure will be found out.

Mr. Robert Winthrop Channor spent $937 on clothes during his brief courtship, and it is understood that she's going to let him keep them. Ohio State Journal.

A man meets with no more respect than he expects.—Haslitt.

What is youth?—a dancing billow, Winds behind and rocks before.—Moore.

What does T. R. stand for? The Waterston dictionary would interpret it as meaning Teddy Rex.—The Virginia Pilot.

Stage Snow in Spring.

In a play called "SNOW" in which Napoleon's crossing of a frozen river is shown with such falling, the first act shows an old soldier's return home. It is springtime, there are roses climbing up the cottage walls, the fruit trees are in bloom, and the old hero sits in a chair in a cozy room with all the windows open. But, much to the spectators' amusement, snow continued to fall not only outside the room, but inside it. Those for who played the old soldier must be the audience's amusement and the snow he saw he saw no attention to the snow falling inside the room. "It's a beautiful snow in Russia,"—London.

Yachts.

The yacht "HARD" added in 1910. Owing to the shallow waters of the Chesapeake Bay, small vessels out of the bay are attended with much trouble and expense of the early part of the season. The yachtsmen here at the beginning of the first century were either on the lines of revenue cutters or smugglers. The first of them were built by Charles White, who would. It is said, often lay down a couple of clippers together, one for the government and the other as a smuggler. He would thus be able to obtain a premium from the government for making the revenue cutter the faster vessel of the two.

He Understood.

In all policies of insurance these, among a host of other questions, occur: "Age of father, if living?" "Age of mother, if living?" A man in the country who filled up an application made his father's age, "if living," 112 years and his mother's 102. The agent was amazed at this and fancied he had secured an excellent customer; but, feeling somewhat dubious, he remarked that the applicant came of a very long lived family.
"Oh, you see, sir," replied the applicant, "my parents died many years ago, but if living would be aged as there put down."
"Exactly, I understand," said the agent.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

A man tries to be moral—a woman tries to seem so.

When a man says he won't be does not want to; when a woman says she won't she wants an argument.

Time and tide wait for no man, which is borne in on a man most when he is waiting for a woman to dress.

It is never polite to contradict a girl except when she says she does not want to be kissed, and then it can be done silently.

Amended It.

When King George was Prince of Wales one of his body servants was once trying to explain to Sir Arthur Biggs some incident that had taken place.

"Me and the prince"—he began, when Sir Arthur pulled him up.

"You should say 'the prince and I,'" he observed. The man looked at him for a moment and then said:

"I beg pardon, sir, but I did not know you were there at all. However, you and me and the prince."

Sir Arthur was compelled to laugh at this and, after another attempt to explain to the man how the story should be told, was content to let him tell it in his own fashion.—Pearson's Weekly.

Making It Clear to Him.

"It is very difficult to understand London English," said an American.

"I know a man who had lodgings in Dismalbury, near the British museum. On his return from the museum one afternoon my friend said to his landlady:

"Can I have a cup of tea, if you please?"

"Certainly, sir; at once," the landlady replied. "The kettle 'as been blizzed for you."

"But—er—I prefer freshly boiled water, if you don't mind," stammered my friend.

"The landlady reflected with regret.

"Look 'ere," she said, "if I 'ad meant what you mean I'd 'ave said 'b-um."
