EDITORIAL LATE STATE AUDITOR

In the passing of Dr. Benjamin F. Dixon the State of North Carolina loses one of its noble patriots. He honored the Confederacy, he honored his state as an educator, as a physician and as a public official.

He was serving his third term as Auditor of the State when the summons came for him to go up higher. He was loved and extolled by his associates who wore the gray. He was a man of big brain, sweet spirit, large heart, magnanimous soul and he was a patriot.

THE NEXT AUDITOR

The name of the next Auditor of the State is a matter of some interest to the people of this State. The name of the Auditor is a matter of some importance to the State.

SCHOOL TEACHERS

The Lincoln Times, one of the State's brightest weeklies, says: "Teaching school is a responsible work. Teachers are born, not moulded by schools and colleges."

they should be taught. Then too change every year, teacher and pupils are, nearly all the time learning each other instead of books. As near as possible, give the school to a teacher who lives in the community, one who has local interests, one who knows and is known by pupils and patrons.

MEN WANTED

(From Christian Register.) The most serious question now before the educated and civilized world relates to the evidence and pressing need for the raising up of master minds capable of controlling and directing the mighty energies which have been set free in the natural world, and who, at the same time, have a sense of justice to match their power and the gift of sympathy to temper justice with mercy.

Already men who are by no means full-rounded and complete in their mental and moral development are drawing salaries ranging from a hundred thousand to a million dollars, and others who are not giants in intellect and morals are scrapping together fortunes from a quarter of a billion dollars upward.

THE G. A. R. ACTION

The action of the Grand Army of the Republic at Atlantic City in regard to the Lee statue marks the difference between the real soldiers and the Hayburns who are doing all their fighting now.

The G. A. R. action has stilled the voice of protest, and the Lee statue agitation will subside never to be revived at the bidding of fanatics. The Washington Post says: "The last stand made against the Southern chieftain disclosed the unsubstantial character of the movement to have his statue outlawed."

"It is a matter of special felicity to know that the more magnanimous man who had fought against Lee in the civil war won out at Atlantic City on the argument that sectional hatred ought not to be revived as perpetuated, and that Virginia, by virtue of an act of Congress, had the privilege to honor whom she pleased by placing his statue in the State of Virginia."

IT SAVED HIS LEG.

"All though I've lost my leg," writes E. A. Swanson of Watertown, Wis. "Ten years of excruciating pain could not cure me, and at last you came up. Then your medicine saved me from a painful and expensive operation. It is a great relief to me, and I feel that I owe you a great debt of gratitude."

A GOOD POSITION.

Can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Radio, by the "Riggs House" of Washington, D. C. The Riggs House is a well-known and successful business concern, and is now seeking for qualified persons to fill the position of "Wireless" operator.

THE LASH OF A FRIEND.

It would have been about as welcome to a Cooper of Oswego, N. Y., as a porcupine long-earring, a dog that defiled all remedies for years. "It was most troublesome at first," he writes, "but I got it cured by using Dr. Hardy's Electric Bitters. It is the best medicine ever sold over a druggist's counter."
