

TOMORROW END OF DOUBLE VOTES AND OPPORTUNITY PERIOD

CANDIDATES SUMMONING RESERVE STRENGTH FOR BUSH OF BIG SUBSCRIPTIONS...

Tomorrow it ends! Not the contest, but the double vote offer. After this week those who have withheld their support...

Opportunity period and the period of opportunism is the name that has been applied to this period as a result of the big double vote offer...

The new ruling under which this special offer was made was not made for advantage of any candidate or set of candidates...

tion this week—while they will count for the greatest number of votes.

It is to be remembered by those new subscribers who have already paid a subscription during the contest that any further payment on their paper will also count as new in votes.

Real Race is now On. Up until the present the race has been only a preliminary one. But with the beginning of the big double vote this period, the contest makes its grand entrance into the limelight for honors as the hardest fought and most eagerly contested contest ever known.

From now on it will be a battle between all work-to-win candidates—candidates who will never say die, in whose makeup there is no "streak of yellow," but that courage and determination that is ever predominant in this great race of American people.

The courage and fighting spirit that our forefathers manifested when they left the mother country to immigrate into the wilderness; the fighting spirit that made them the conquerors over the British, over the Mexicans, over the Spanish, in fact victors in every contest since America became a nation, will be in evidence until the contest is ended.

The coming of Dr. Minor C. Baldwin here next Monday evening for the purpose of giving an organ recital at the first Methodist church is being looked forward to with much pleasure by the lovers of music.

An exchange is giving an account of Dr. Baldwin and his skill as an organist says: "The special feature of the evening was 'The Storm in the Mountains' composed by Dr. Baldwin. It opened with the Shepherd's evening song, a delicate bit of composition in which the yodel song of the Tyrolean peasant is heard, chanted from an hundred hills, the beautiful harmony being interrupted by the menacing of distant thunder. Gradually nearing the storm breaks in all its fury on the shepherds and their flocks. The rumbling of thunder, the echoes from mountain to mountain, the rattle of the rain and whistling of the wind are clearly depicted."

Dr. Baldwin has performed in all the leading cathedrals and churches of this country and Europe. To hear him is a privilege not often afforded and no doubt he will be greeted by a large audience.

A collection will be taken during the evening towards defraying the expenses of the recital.

There will be no admission at the door.

Everybody is cordially invited to hear this great artist.

THREE MEN ARE SUSPECTED

San Francisco, Oct. 20.—Governor Gillett at Sacramento, received a telegram from Secretary of State Knox that he had learned through the American ambassador at the city of Mexico that three men suspected of complicity in the dismantling of the Los Angeles Times building were on board the Pacific mail steamer Acapulco, which would soon land at San Benito, a port on the Mexican coast on the Gulf of Tehuantepec.

Secretary Knox asked Governor Gillett in the message for directions as to whether the men should be kept under surveillance or whether they should be arrested.

Governor Gillett notified District Attorney Fredericks and Chief of Police Galloway, of Los Angeles, who wired Governor Gillett to request that the suspects be kept under surveillance.

The Acapulco left San Francisco October 5.

THE HURRICANE NOW ABATING

ALL EVIDENCE OF A HURRICANE ALONG THE SOUTHERN COAST HAS DISAPPEARED—THE VELOCITY OF THE WIND DECREASES RAPIDLY—HEAVY RAINS.

Key West, Fla., Oct. 20.—The boat bound from Arve French trans-Atlantic liner Louisiana, bound from Havre to New Orleans, has been wrecked on Sombro Reef in the Southern hurricane. Two hundred of her passengers have been rescued but there are still 247 others and a crew of 92 on board.

The rescued passengers arrived here today on board the revenue cutter Forward with thrilling stories of the disaster. The vessel was driven ashore at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon during the hurricane, all control of the ship being lost in the storm.

Reaches New York. New York, Oct. 20.—The whole Atlantic coast as far north as New England, is being whipped today by the storm that originated on South America and has steadily swept north, taking a heavy toll of life and doing in incalculable damage in Cuba and Florida.

Though not so intense as the hurricane that struck the southern coast it was so severe that shipping took cover and ran into the nearest port.

The heavy wind, blowing at some points fifty miles an hour, was accompanied by a steady downpour of rain.

Rain began to fall in this city shortly after midnight and the weather bureau reported that within a few hours the water fall amounted to over two inches.

The velocity of the wind at one time reached thirty-five miles an hour and continued to blow in a gale.

The thermometer took a sudden drop in temperature and fell 10 degrees.

Reports received by the local bureau from stations along the Atlantic coast said the hurricane was sweeping northward with great rapidity.

GOV. DIX WAS IN ROOSEVELT'S MIND

Col. Roosevelt was invited to make an address at the celebration by William Frederick Dix, governor of the New Jersey Society of Colonial Wars.

Col. Roosevelt addressed his letter of regret to "William Dix, governor of New Jersey."

The letter was read by Governor Fort of New Jersey, who when the audience had checked its laughter, said:

"Perhaps Col. Roosevelt was anticipating a governor of the name of Dix when he addressed the letter."

"It is possible, though, that he may have forgotten he knows me as well as he does, or that I was a good friend of his as I am."

"Anyway, I know that I am the only Governor of New Jersey."

HANDS CHANGE A LEMON

Chicago, Oct. 20.—There was no battle with the Athletics for the Cubs yesterday, but Manager Chance had one on his hands. It was over almost as quickly as it started. The scene of action was on Canal street, just outside of the Union Station.

Chance had just got off the special train from Philadelphia and had entered an automobile with his wife when a "loyal" Cub roofer came forward and offered to shake hands with him.

When Chance extended his hand the man dropped a lemon in it, at the same time remarking that it was an appropriate gift for a yellow something or other unit to print.

Of course the Cub's manager would not have liked this at any time, and he was more angered than he ordinarily would have been because the language was used in the presence of his wife.

Chance bounded out of the machine and landed a knock-out on the "roofer's" jaw. The man hit the sidewalk.

Chance then got into the machine and drove away.

The new bishops will have charge of the dioceses of Wyku, China, Eastern Oklahoma, Northern Texas, San Joaquin, Calif., and Arizona.

A world conference to discuss differences and agreements in the various beliefs of a fall Christian church, is the object of a commission provided in a session resolution passed by the house of deputies.

The commission is to consist of seven bishops and seven deputies, and will have power to call the conference and invite other Christian bodies to take part.

Resolutions were adopted placing Episcopal chaplains of the army and navy under the jurisdiction of the bishop of Washington.

After a long debate, the deputies rejected the amended resolution for Good Friday, passed by the bishops last week.

The amendment would substitute the words "those outside true faith" "Jews, Turks, infidels and heretics."

The matter will come before the New York conference in 1913 on the report of a committee appointed to revise collect.

always been a factor.

As a lawyer Mr. Hill was considered one of the best in New York state and from 1886 to 1888 was president of the state bar association.

A peculiar trait of Mr. Hill was confirmed hatred of women. He never married.

His ultimate ambition was to be the president of the United States. He failed in this, although he tried hard, but his failure brought forth no bitterness.

He said philosophically that he was the only man in the United States who had had the presidential box and got over it.

Statesman Dead

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 20.—After an illness of several weeks, David Bennett Hill, the famous Democratic leader, ex-governor of New York and ex-United States senator, died at his home, Wolferts Rost in the suburbs of Albany, at 3:45 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Hill was 67 years old and the illness, from which he has been suffering for some time, was too great a drag on the strength to permit him to rally when the final hour came late last night.

Mr. Hill had been suffering for some time from a bilious attack, which was followed by a severe cold. It was thought that he would recover but the combined attack seemed to sap all his strength.

Up until the relapse came last night, Mr. Hill's condition was not considered alarming.

The attending physicians held out hope to his friends that he would ultimately shake off the disease and get well.

When the statesman began to sink his strength left him rapidly and despite all the efforts of doctors at his bedside he passed away. He was conscious almost to the end.

David Bennett Hill, who coined the famous phrase "I am a Democrat" was born at Havana, N. Y., on August 29, 1843. He was the son of Caleb and Eunice Durfee Hill. He was educated in the common school of Havana and later graduated at the Havana Academy. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1864.

Immediately he took an active interest in politics and became famous as a speaker. He was elected a delegate to the Democratic state conventions from 1868 to 1880. In the conventions of 1877 and 1881 he was chosen chairman.

Mr. Hill was chosen delegate to the Democratic national conventions of 1876, 1884, 1896, 1900 and 1904. In the Democratic national convention in 1900 he made a brilliant speech securing the nomination of William Jennings Bryan for the presidency.

In 1871 and 1873 Mr. Hill was a member of the New York assembly. From 1882 to 1885 he was lieutenant governor of New York state. Immediately following the expiration of his term he was elected governor and held that office until 1893, when he was elected to the United States senate, which office he held one term.

At the national Democratic convention in 1892, Mr. Hill was prominent candidate for the presidential nomination.

He had a strong following in the convention and for a long time it looked as though his aspirations would be fulfilled.

Mr. Hill was again a candidate for governor of New York in 1904. He was defeated and since then he has not taken a leading part in Democratic politics, although he has

GHOST MESSAGES

When the famous William James quit this world and all its games, for the country where in time we must fit, he assured us that he'd send word of some kind to a friend, if the rules and regulations would permit. People said that he has tried to converse from 'other side, but the wires in bad condition seem to be; he no sooner makes a start than connections fall part, and the only thing we've heard is "HullyGhee!"

Another Tender.

The Daily News is reliably informed that when the Buoy Tender Violet is sold at the Portsmouth Navy Yard on November 10, either the tender Holly or Jessamine will be ordered to take her place as the custodian of buoys and the light-houses in the waters of Eastern North Carolina.

The Violet has been coming to this port for a number of years and now that the government thinks she is unfit for further duty she is to be stripped and then sold at public auction. It is to be hoped that Captain Outen will again be in command. He is one of the most capable seamen ever in the employ of the government.

This paper is glad to know that another steamer will be placed in this district for duty.
