SOUTHERN CORN.

Cotton may be king but corn is the heir apparent in the South at present, and the crop of this year is summed up by the Washington Post as follows:

Carroting to the reports supplied the Cincinnati Enquirer, the increase of the yield of corn in thirteen Southern States, exclusive of Oklahoma, a cotton State the present year amounts to 124,000,000 bushels. In Oklahoma the increase in 22,000,000, which would swell the total to 142,000,000 bushels.

Thus it would appear that the increased yield of the corn crop of the South in a single season is greater than the total product of Indiana, and a great corn State, for 1910. This is a marvelous showing, and presages what the corn crop of the South will be when the Southern farmer learns how to select seed and acquires the art of intensive farming.

The table furnished by the Enquirer discloses that the average yield per acre for the entire country is less than 27 bushels. When it is a well established fact that Farmer Batts, of North Carolina, had a yield of corn on his farm the season of 1909 of 145 bushels per acre, the grand average of only 27 bushels for the entire Union is simply disgraceful for it means that millions of acres produced less than 10 bushels, and many of them possibly not more than a barrel per acre.

But the improvement in farming in the United States the past double decade is marvelous, and much of the credit is due to the admirable administration of the Agricultural Department by the present secretary, James Wilson. Agricultural weeklies, too in every section have been a great help as have rural free delivery of mails and telephones.

It need surprise none that "back to the farm" will be a popular slogan ere the second decade of the new century expires.

The average yield per acre of corn ought to be more than double what it is.—Charlotte News.

The President.

(From the Daily News.)

The President of the United States has more and greater power than any other man in the world. He is a commander-in-chief of the army and navy. He has the appointment of the Federal officials at home and abroad. Through the treasury department he may control the rise and fall of prices. Through the department he may coerce the corporations; through the interstate commission the railways. He is master of the civil service. It is his to forbid an act of congress to become a law.

In the hands of a strong, ambitious and unscrupulous man nothing short of armed resistance could stand against such an array of forces, and armed resistance could nowhere organize itself against a president having the foresight to provide against it; able by a word to concentrate troops at any given point; by the touch of a button to order the arrest of the resistant at the farthest ends of the republic.

It must be awfully hard for a candidate to feel surprised when he is nominated.—Chicago News.

A Yard of Park.

From the Youngstown Telegram. Rev. Robert Humphreys tells the following story which is related of Rev. Griffith Jones, a noted Welsh humorist: Rev. Mr. Jones was standing in the door of a store which he conducted in his home town when he was approached by a resident, who, knowing his fondness for a joke, asked: "Can you sell me a yard of pork today?" "Yes, sir," promptly answered Mr. Jones. "How much is it?" "Just six shillings."

Bent on carrying the joke to its end, the man paid over his six shillings. The pastor-storekeeper went to the inside of the store and soon returned with three pigs' feet. "There's one foot, and there's two feet, and there's three feet," he counted, "and anybody knows that three feet make a yard."

The customer got more than his six pence worth telling the joke to his friends. Kills a Murderer. A merciless murderer is Appendicitis with many victims. Lost Her Hair

Woman Almost Baldheaded Grew Four Inches of Hair. Here is a piece of live news from Brownstown, Minn., that ought to interest skeptical men or women readers of the Daily News who are losing their hair or have dandruff or itching scalp.

Remember that Brown's Drug Store sells Parisian Sage under a positive guarantee to stop falling hair and itching scalp and eradicate dandruff in two weeks. Parisian Sage is a most refreshing and daintily perfumed hair dressing, free from grease or stickiness. It makes dull, lifeless hair radiant and lustrous.

"Parisian Sage is the best hair grower and beautifier and dandruff cure. I lost all my hair through typhoid fever; I was almost baldheaded and my scalp was as sore as could be. I tried everything but in vain. Finally I tried Parisian Sage, and after using one bottle my hair started to grow, and has grown three or four inches inside of two months. I advise every lady who wants beautiful hair to use Parisian Sage." Miss Meta M. Kruger, Brownstown, Minn., June 8, 1910.

Parisian Sage is only 50 cents a large bottle at Brown's Drug Store and druggists everywhere. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package.
