1912.

If Mr. Roosevelt were not a candidate for President in 1912 he could explode the issue in five minutes. He need only reaffirm the statement that he issued from the White House on the night of his election in 1904: "On the 14th of March next I shall have served three and a half years, and this three and a half years constitutes my first term."

But Mr. Roosevelt is not repeating in 1912 the pledge he made in 1904. He refuses to re-affirm it, and he admitted to Mayor Maddox of Atlanta during his recent visit there that "if I thought I could carry a single Southern State I would willingly run for the Presidency."

While his followers in New York are shrieking that 1912 is not an issue, Mr. Roosevelt goes ahead with his plans, preaching the New Nationalism in the insurgent states, adopting a reactionary platform in "my own corrupt state," helping Beveridge fight the Aldrich-Payne tariff in Indiana, helping Lodge defend the Aldrich-Payne tariff in Massachusetts, keeping silent about Aldrich and Cannon, evading the cost-of-living issue, refusing to open his 1904 campaign cashbooks, dodging the question of Harriman's Panama Canal profits, urging the people of New York to make "Our Harry" governor, trying to conciliate the petty bosses that he pretends to war against, and denouncing everybody who refuses to support him as a crook or the son of a crook.

Theodore Roosevelt is the first ex-president of the United States since Martin Van Buren to drag the prestige of his great office down into the mire of practical politics and become a common political boss for the sole sake of political power. Is there anybody innocent enough to believe that Mr. Roosevelt is doing this for any purpose except to become president again?

How ridiculous for Mr. Stimson to tell the voters of New York that he can say "by the authority of Mr. Taft" that the president does not regard 1912 as an issue in the New York campaign! It is an issue, Mr. Taft knows it is an issue. Mr. Roosevelt knows that it is an issue. If Mr. Taft's speech is a bar to the election of Mr. Roosevelt, then the presidency of the United States is not private property to be disposed of by "a gen."

The people have a right to say about the selection of a president, and the time to stop Theodore Roosevelt's insatiable ambition is 1910. The place is New York. The opportunity is at the polls on November 5.—New York World.

IS MARRIAGE A FAILURE?

If the bride gets a fortune, and the groom $200, and a divorce, can that marriage be called a failure? The ministers say denounce the marriage of Miss Eugenie Adams, a German girl and Harvey Oliver Brown, which collapsed a few days ago in Washington, D. C.

The circumstances as we gather from an exchange are these: "The girl had been bequeathed a considerable legacy, conditioned upon her marriage before a specified date. Desiring to claim the fortune and yet being unwilling to bind herself permanently in a hastily arranged marriage, the young woman advised for a man to marry her, offering him $200 and the promise of an immediate divorce if he would join her in contracting a lawful marriage.

Brown, who seems to have had nothing but the most brutally sordid motive, consented to go through the ceremony for the sum offered and agreed to disappear and never bother the strangely secured wife nor claim marital rights thereafter. The freak marriage service was solemnized and the subsequent program was carried out, just as agreed upon. Parting at the marriage altar, the bride sailed for Germany to claim her dearly won estate and the groom pocketed his bank-notes and disappeared, contented, not to say delighted, with his bargain.

The foolish conditions of the will of her uncle were of course responsible for the still more ridiculous performance of the girl, but what was the poor thing to do? That she found anybody willing to perform such a marriage is astonishing even though it is said that 193 men applied for the distinguished office of groom—and the $200. The groom will no doubt soon sue for divorce and alimony if the estate pans out to be worth while. —Ledger Dispatch.

THE SAFE PLAN

When things go wrong and I get mad, and all the world seems grim and sad, I do not let my breath bring gloom into my neighborhood. I do not snarl and snap at folks who don't deserve malicious pokes. I have a scheme that's really slick, and it relieves me pretty quick. You have heard of Gessler, that old soul who hung his lid upon a pole? When I feel mean I climb his frame; that way I roast him is a shame. "That blamed old Gessler," I remark, "he was a pirate and a shark; he'd rob a widow of her shawl, or steal the whiskers from a goat, or burn a church or kill a cop, or burglarize a blacksmith shop. Such men as Gessler should be drowned, or locked up in the village pound, or boiled in tar and kerosene, or drawn and quartered on the green. I have no use for any chump who hangs his hat upon a stump, expecting gents like William Tell to get down on their knees and yell." When I've old Gessler thus, and raised a nice and harmless fuss, I feel as genuine relief as though I'd brought a lot of grief to those around me; so my lad, abuse old Gessler when you're mad.—Walt Mason, in News and Observer.

WITH THE SHARP-SHOOTERS

If Dr. Wilson can really teach New Jersey how to manage its corporations, he will advance several more degrees in the public estimation. The next thing in order will be to teach the rest of the country how to keep the New Jersey corporations from managing them. —Washington Herald.

Perhaps President McCrea, of the Pennsylvania, might find that well managed railroads are earning even more than 7 per cent minimum he proposes if the earnings were not scattered about among so many expensive companies, fast freight lines, car repairing companies and other ingenious enterprises.—Indianapolis News.

Still the tariff plank in the Saratoga platform is in strict conformance with the Colonel's attitude on that question during his seven years.

Try This for Catarrh

Get a HYOMEI (pronounce High-o-mei) outfit to-day. Pour a few drops from the bottle into the inhaler that comes with each outfit, and breathe it in four or five times a day.

Immediately you will know that HYOMEI soothes and heals the inflamed and irritated membrane. But HYOMEI does more than soothe and heal; it kills the germs, those persevering pests that are at the root of all catarrhal conditions. "Last year I suffered terribly with catarrh. I used one bottle of HYOMEI, and my catarrh was better." —Miss Helen McNeil, Loyalton, Ca. A complete HYOMEI outfit, including a bottle of HYOMEI, a hard rubber pocket inhaler and simple instructions for use, costs only $1.00. If you now own a Hyomei Inhaler, you can get an extra bottle of HYOMEI for only 50 cents at Brown's Drugstore, and druggists everywhere. Guaranteed to cure catarrh, croup, asthma and sore throat, or money back.
