BILL NYE DAY IN THE STATE

Salisbury, Nov. 2.—At a meeting of the Bill Nye memorial committee of the North Carolina Press Association held here Mr. J. P. Cook of Concord, editor of the Uplift, was elected treasurer of the committee to succeed Editor John M. Julian, deceased, of the Salisbury Post.

To the committee was added Col. A. Fairbrother, editor of the Everything of Greensboro.

A resolution was adopted that the committee would ask the State Superintendent of Public Instruction to set apart a day in the public school of North Carolina to be known as "Bill Nye Day."

At this time it is intended to request each student in the schools of the state to contribute a penny or more toward the fund that the committee has in charge; namely to erect a building in connection with the Stonewall Jackson Manual Training School at Concord to be known as the "Bill Nye Memorial Cottage."

Reports from various sections of the state which were given to the committee at the meeting give every assurance of a perfect co-operation in the movement and the erection of the Bill Nye Memorial Cottage is an assured fact.

Letters of encouragement in the cause have been received from parties both in and out of the state in the matter of the committee is very much encouraged at the outlook.

The secretary was empowered to employ a corresponding secretary on a salary who will devote much time to the affairs of the committee and every attention will be given to the cause.

The press outside of North Carolina, as well as the State Press Association, has become interested in the cause.

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON HEARD BY A LARGE NUMBER OF PEOPLE

An audience of about one thousand people, one third of whom were white, heard Booker T. Washington, the most famous negro the race has produced, delivered strong, vigorous and forcible address in the opera-house last night.

The local arrangements were in charge of a committee headed by Prof. W. G. Saunders, and the various members of the party were entertained in local homes, although a goodly number preferred to remain in the special car during the night.

On the rostrum sat Rev. Mr. Nathaniel Harding, rector Episcopal church, Rev. Mr. M. T. Pyle, pastor of the Methodist church; Rev. Mr. W. A. Cleveland of Charlotte, Presbyterian minister; Attorney N. L. Simmons and Prof. N. C. Newbold, superintendent of public schools, besides various members of the party accompanying Dr. Washington.

From Wilson to Washington, Booker T. Washington and his party of prominent negroes touring the state received a continuous ovation from the members of their race during the day. At Rocky Mount the party was tendered a big reception and Booker Washington addressed an audience of about 4,000 people in Crew's warehouse.

At Rocky Mount the speaker was introduced in a rather cordial manner by Mr. Thomas Battle, president of the Bank of Rocky Mount, who paid him a high tribute. He likewise stated that the teachings of Booker Washington were exemplified in the relations existing between the white people and the black people and that during the past ten years, the negroes were to be found on the right side of all public questions in their suffrage.

By the courtesy of the Atlantic Coast Line officials the accommodation train bearing the special car of the Washington party was held ten minutes at Tarboro and twenty at Parmele, in order to give the large crowds of white and colored people who had gathered an opportunity to see and hear Dr. Washington.

At these places he made brief but vigorous addresses dealing particularly with questions affecting rural people. That it was the duty of the negro in these rural communities to get the most out of his labor for the benefit of himself and his landlord and that it was much to his interest to remain on the farms, making the attempt more and more to become skilled in his work were some of the points stressed in these short addresses.

Bishop George W. Clinton, of the A. M. E. Zion church, Charlotte, N. C., presented the individual members of Washington's party, and afterwards presented Rev. C. E. Askew who introduced Rev. Mr. Nathaniel Harding, of this city. Dr. Harding introduced Booker Washington in complimentary language, and among other things said:

"I have been asked by the local committee of arrangements to introduce to you this evening a man, who under God, has made his own place and fills it in our American civilization. It is a powerful thing for any man, amid difficulties, perplexities and obstacles to fill well the place which Almighty God has put him. Dr. Washington, by what he has already accomplished has not only made himself respected in his own commonwealth, but has won for himself national fame, if not world wide reputation.

"He comes to us, not as a politician, not as a demagogue, seeking self aggrandizement, but as the recognized leader of his race. He has sought to lead his people in the paths of moral and intellectual uplift and development, and I bespeak for him a cordial and respectful hearing."

Dr. Washington was greeted with hearty applause and spoke for about an hour and a half. In the course of his remarks, he said: "In accepting the invitation of Bishop Clinton and other prominent citizens of North Carolina, I have but one object in view, and that is to see for myself some of the progress of which I have heard so much."

Let me say right here from what I have been able to see, I feel that the people of North Carolina of both races have good reason to congratulate themselves upon the success which the negroes of North Carolina are making. The negro has done well in North Carolina, I repeat, he has done well, but he can make himself still more useful in the future than he has in the past, and the object in coming here, as I have stated, is to say something, as far as I am able to suggest something to make the negro more useful to himself, more useful to the state and to the nation, than he has been in the past.

"As I have said, I have sought to keep in close touch with the progress of your state, but one who lives outside of North Carolina is at a certain disadvantage in learning about what the actual progress has been.

"Both races in the South suffer at the hands of public opinion in one respect, and that is by reason of the fact that the outside world hears of our difficulties, hears of crime, hears of mobs and lynchings, but the outside world does not hear of, neither does it know about the evidences of racial friendship and good will which exist in the majority of the communities of Mississippi and other Southern States. When we consider all that has taken place during the past forty years, I believe that we have every reason to congratulate ourselves that things have gone as well as they have, that they are no worse than they are.

"I am perfectly aware of the fact that there is an element of our white friends who often refrain from helping the negro to the extent they otherwise would, on account of the bugbear of what is sometimes referred to as social equality. I am constantly mingling among members of my own race, North and South, and of all the subjects discussed that is very rarely referred to. Let me say as emphatically as I can, that judging by my experience and observation with my race, nowhere in this country is it seeking to obtrude itself on the white race, and especially here in the South. I think you will find that the more sensible the negro is, the more he is educated, the more he finds satisfaction in the company of his own race.

"To a very large extent the problem of the negro in the Southern States is a labor problem? In order to secure effective and satisfactory labor from any race, two things have got to be borne in mind. First, people must be taught a love for labor, must be taught the dignity of labor and at the same time given proper methods in the direction of skill. Secondly, they must have their minds and their ambitions awakened so that their wants will be increased. No individual labors except as he has a motive for doing so.

"The Southern negro wants land, wants a house with two or three rooms in it, wants some furniture, newspapers, education for his children, wants to support the minister and the Sunday school, and in proportion as those wants are increased, he is led to work an increasing number of days in order to satisfy them.

"If we would make the negro more useful as a laborer, we must increase his wants, we must arouse his ambition, we must give him something to live for, to hope for, and just in proportion as his wants are multiplied, are increased in many directions, so that he will want better homes, better furniture, better churches, better schools, more books, more newspapers. In the same degree will he be led to work with more regularity and a longer number of days in order that his increased wants may be satisfied. The mere matter of paying a high wage to an individual, unless his wants have been increased along sensible and rational lines, does not solve the problem.

"In all that concerns the welfare of the negro in the South, there is no person in the world who can be so helpful to him as his white neighbor. For instance, our white friends will agree with me, I am sure, that they can help the negro race in preventing migration to large numbers to the cities. Our white friends can help in this way. First, by not... that life in the country is made just as... (Continued on page three)

MR. N. L. SIMMONS WHO WILL WIN? EVERYBODY WONDERS AND CONTEST BOOMS!

Mr. Norwood L. Simmons has been appointed by Chairman A. H. Eller of the State Democratic Executive Committee leader of the Young Men's movement in Beaufort county. The following precinct leaders have been appointed by the leader and the letter below sent to them.

This paper hopes that each of the leaders named will respond and that their committees will aid them now when their state calls the motto duty.

- Appointments. Mr. F. Davis, Pungo precinct. John G. Tooley, Belhaven. P. H. Johnson, Pantego. Fenner Gaylord, North Creek. John M. Tankard, Yeatesville. J. F. Tyer, Bath. P. W. Whitley, Surry. Edgar Tankard, Woodards. J. G. Mixon, Beaver Dam. L. T. Harris, Pinetown. J. W. Mitchell, Pineville. W. L. Holden, Old Ford. Hodges Williams, Transfers Creek. Will Patrick Chocowinity. W. H. Whitley, Jr. Core Point. W. T. Warner, Edwards. Gilbert Bonner, Bonneton. J. W. Mayo, Aurora. Paul Sparrow, Idalla. Clarence Mayo, South Creek. L. A. Oden, Hunters Bridge.

The Letter. Washington, N. C., Nov. 1, 1910.

Dear Sir: A. H. Eller, state chairman, of the State Democratic Executive Committee, has appointed me as leader of the Democratic young men of this county for the purpose of interesting the young men in the campaign, and getting them to work at the polls on election day.

As I have just been appointed, it is too late to organize clubs. Therefore, I am going to appoint a leader, in each voting precinct, who will appoint a committee of three young men under him.

I appoint you and respectfully request that you act as leader of the young men of your precinct. I ask you to appoint a committee of three young men to aid you in this work. I send you under separate cover in today's mail, Democratic literature, which I will thank you and your committee to distribute to all young men in your precinct at once. Have each member of committee, appoint in a different section of your precinct, and have him to make a thorough canvass of his section, and get the young men enthused, and their promises to come out and vote, if registered. Lastly, I wish you and your committee, on the election day to get out every young Democrat that you can to the polls.

The election is only one week from today. Every good citizen can well afford to devote part of a few days' time, prior to election, to help to secure good government. Each man owes it to himself, as well as to his state. Do have not time to spare. The Republicans are making a hard fight, and it is our duty to fight them just as hard, and if we do not, we know not what tomorrow may bring forth. I appeal to you to grand my request.

Hoping that Beaufort county, will, on Nov. 8th, place an everlasting stamp of disapproval upon Democracy and Republican misrule; that party conceived amidst the campfires of Sherman's march through Georgia born during the horrors of the scorching and carpetbag misrule of North Carolina, and tutored in the hell of Reconstruction amidst the groans and phantoms of a pauper Southland.

Yours for success, NORWOOD L. SIMMONS, Organizer Democratic Young Men's Movement, Beaufort county.

Race For District Honors And Chaperonship Grows More Heated—Subscriptions Getting Big Values—Campaigners Hard At Work And Anxious to Win After Many Weeks Of Real Effort—Up To The Public Now.

All candidates will be given until 4 o'clock this evening to report any supposed error in their vote count; otherwise the published vote standing will be considered as it appears. This is due to the necessity of disposing of the immense pile of clipped coupons that have been collected from time to time during the contest.

Already a number of the candidates have begun the active final campaign for contest subscriptions, and the set offer is proving a winner yesterday there were three sets turned in by two candidates who have started the period off with the proper determination.

Sets may be formed in many ways, provided the amounts are in new subscriptions of not less than $1.50. For instance: One five year subscription; two two-year subscriptions and one for one year; three one year subscriptions and one two-year; five one years; ten six-months subscriptions; five six-months subscriptions and three one-years will constitute a set and $1.50 on another set. In other words, there are any number of manners in which a set may be made up, and the money may be turned into this office in any amount at a time, provided only that no subscription for less than $1.50 will be applied on a set.

Naturally one would think "What am I to get for the $1.00 subscriptions?" The answer is, that on every $1.00 new subscription 100 extra votes are allowed.

As an example of the above offers: A ballot on a new five-year subscription is filled out for 7,500 votes. Then, when it is received at this office, certificates are issued for 1,500 extra votes—being 100 bonus votes on each dollar new. Then, when the judges go over the contest records 5,000 extra votes are accredited to the candidate on that particular subscription. The subscription has then counted for 14,300 VOTES! Think of it! Almost, but not quite, equal to the double vote offer! See the opportunity?

Manner of Closing There have been several inquiries as to the manner of closing the contest; why it would not be possible for the contest manager or some other person to give out important information at the last minute; how ballots will be deposited, etc. This will all be duly explained in ample time, but for the information of those who may wish to know immediately we may say that no person but the candidates themselves will know what they have deposited in either money or ballots on subscriptions until the judges begin their final count. At the exact hour set for closing the contest, the judges will be assembled and in the presence of these judges each candidate will be permitted to deposit all subscription books with the subscriptions and money to correspond with them, together will all unvoted ballots, in the ballot box. All is to be placed in one or two sealed envelopes by the candidates before reaching this office, and the envelopes are to have only the name of the candidate marked on the outside. When the judges come to these they will be arranged in order, properly entered on the contest and News office records, and the ballots counted by the judges. The judges conveyed for the final count on the first night following the closing of the contest. In the meantime the ballot box, locked and sealed, containing the final results, is kept in a place of safety, decided upon by the judges. In the issue of the News of the following day will be announced the results of the entire contest.

How They Stand One thing is certain, and evident to everyone interested, and that is that the race is exciting. The nearer the finish we get, the nearer we come to being unable to "place a safe bet" on the outcome of the struggle. Not only is this true of the district contests, but it is so as regards the chaperon. Affairs have reached a stage where it's nip-and-tuck between the first and second districts for the honors of the chaperonship.

But whatever the outcome, remember this: FINAL RESULTS ARE GOING TO DEPEND WHOLLY UPON THE PRESENT PERIOD! Rarely, if ever before, has there been such a closely contested struggle for contest prizes. That is the reason we can safely say that it all depends upon this last period. To date the race is apparently even between certain candidates in the contest. This isn't often the case, but it happens to be so in this instance. Also—THERE ARE CERTAIN APPARENTLY WEAK CANDIDATES WHO ARE GOING TO SHOW EVERYBODY A SURPRISE AT THE FINISH! Do we know who they are? Well, we have a pretty good idea, quite as has anyone else who has been watching the progress of the contestants individually as well as collectively. The voting indicates something, so look out for a surprise!

Resolutions

Whereas our heavenly Father in His all wise providence has seen fit to call our beloved sister, Miss Cattie Gabriel to His heavenly home;

Resolved 1. That the Aid Society of the M. E. Church, South, of Washington, N. C., has suffered a great loss in her death. That though she has gone from us we still cherish the memory of one who brought us a noble example of gentleness and patience in suffering and faithfulness to all her church duties.

2. That while we miss her sweet presence, still we bow in humble submission to God's will, knowing that our sister has exchanged the suffering and sorrows of this life for the joys of the redeemed.

4. That we extend our sympathy to the bereaved loved ones praying God's blessings upon them.

5. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this society, that they be published in the Raleigh Christian Advocate, the Washington Daily News and that a copy be sent the family.
