CONTENT SUCCESSFUL

The Daily News has just brought to a successful conclusion the biggest enterprise ever undertaken by an Eastern Carolina newspaper.

When the Daily News first announced this project, a little over eight weeks ago, grave doubt was expressed by many persons.

For the success of any project of this magnitude the public is the chief factor. This European tour contest has been a success because the public has helped to make it so.

But not only is the wonderful success of this contest due to the facts, not those conditions alone made for its success. There are other important facts entering into consideration.

DELIGHTED STILL

The Greensboro News appears to think that the cure for popular repudiation of standpatism is more standpatism; in other words, that the corrupt alliances between politics and special interests should and will go on.

The demand that exploiters through legislation "shall be made to take their hands out of the public pocket" evidently receives no countenance.

Standpatism at the North and mossbackism at South are to remain one and indissoluble. But suppose the anti-exploiter Republicans, besides conquering the distribution of Federal patronage for their own states, succeed in controlling it for the country at large.

There might come a change over the spirit of the News' dream then. Certain it is, in any event, that only an enlightened, progressive public will constructively equalize them, and expect increased demand from the people of North Carolina.

HEARING FRUIT

It is morally certain that when representatives of the Meat Trust "feel it in their bones" that food prices are to come down they will come down.

Simultaneously with this revelation the officers of the Sleeping Car Trust announce that they entertain a strong suspicion that their company is properly subject to regulation by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and it has just occurred to them that here should be a reduction in prices.

We have an abiding faith, therefore, that resistance to regulation will soon cease and that presently and upper berth at least can be had for less money.

In view of these disclosures it is not rash to expect that in some almost providential way it will be suggested to the Rubber Trust, the Cotton Goods Trust, the Woolen Goods Trust, the Sugar Trust, the Steel Trust and a few others that the necessity for extortions has passed.

The new Congress is to be controlled by Democrats and insurgent Republicans. Its out-and-out stand patrons will not be numerous enough to disturb a single tariff schedule or to attach a solitary lobster to a bill supposed to be in the interest of the public.

Those who occasionally doubt the efficiency of self-government should find in these signs and tokens a good deal of encouragement.

Crockett's coon is reported to have said that he would come down if the hunter would not shoot. The men who have taken refuge in extortionate laws or under cover of favoring public officers are doing well to follow his example.
