take his father's place; and when they gave him business worries to bring home, he would often hide them in his pocket and meet his fa-ther with a smiling face. His father should not be worried.

One day he came home in pain and laid down his work. When they were about to take him away to the operation. I am only afraid you will worry and it will make you worse. Don't worry, papa,"

And day after day there came sage of love from the hospital with its admonition not to worry.

When at last he began to realize that he must go, he sent for me. "God has been good to us," I said to him, "and we can trust Him."

"I am trusting Him," he said. "We've had lots of good times to gether, my boy, and we are going to have many more; for I am com ing to you, and we shall live together forever." And he gave my hand a squeeze that broke my heart.

At the last moment, while talk-ing to his mother, his brilliant mind, as clear as it had ever been in all his life, he looked up suddenly and "They are coming." exclaimed: "Who are coming, my child?" ask ed the mother.

"Oh, the angels, the angels! see them!" "And won't you come for me, my boy?" asked the mother. "Yes, yes. Good-bye, good-bye, good-bye,"

-And he passed within the veil as peacefully as a babe drops to_sleep on its mother's breast.

This is what I found in the heart of my boy. Perhaps you will find it in the heart of your boy, toowhen it has been cracked.
