NO CURFEW LAW

The vote of a majority of the Board of Aldermen at last night's session sounded the death knell to the hope of many a mother. A curfew law has been agitated for Washington and last night it was brought to the attention of the Board by Mrs. H. W. Carter, representing the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. The Board have said by their action that they have no regard for the future welfare of the boys and girls of Washington.

How long is such a condition of affairs to exist? The citizens of the town should rise up in righteous indignation and demand the regulating of the evils of the town if the present officials are not inclined to do it, there are others who will and there are men who will have some regard for the morals of the community and respect the wishes of its citizens.

FULTON'S FIRST FARE.

There is one little incident in Robert Fulton's life which Fulton never forgot. It took place shortly before the return trip of his famous boat's voyage by steam up the Hudson river. At that time all the citizens of Albany flocked to the wharf to see the strange craft, but so timorous were they that few, cared to board her. One gentleman, however, not only boarded her, but sought out Fulton, whom he found in the cabin and the following conversation took place:

This is Mr. Fulton, I presume?
Yes, sir.

Do you return to New York with this boat?
We shall try to get back, sir.

Have you any objections to my returning with you?
If you wish to take your chances with us, sir, I have no objection.

What is the fare?
After a moment's hesitation Fulton replied, six dollars, when that amount was laid in his hand, he gazed at it for some time; then, turning to the passenger with tears in his eyes, he said: Excuse me, sir, but this is the first pecuniary reward I have received for all my exertions in adapting steam to navigation. I would gladly commemorate the occasion with a little dinner, but I am too poor now even for that, if we meet again, I trust it will not be the case then.

As history relates the voyage terminated successfully. Four years later Fulton was sitting in the Cabin of the Clermont, then the North River, when a gentleman entered. Fulton glanced at him and then sprang up and gladly shook his hand. It was his first passenger, and over a pleasant little dinner Fulton entertained his guest with the history of his success, and ended with saying that the first actual recognition of his usefulness to his fellowmen was the six dollars paid to him by his first passenger.—The Moravian.

The Song "Hit of a Great Show"
"On the Old See Saw" is the name of the song that goes free with every copy of next Sunday's New York World. It is the song that has helped so materially to bring fame to "One Edward's Sing Revue," now playing in New York City. One Edward wrote the music while Ed Gardner contributed the words. If you haven't been saving New York Sunday World songs—one every week—start now. The song is worth its weight in gold. The newspaper will send you one and you will want them all. Order from your newsdealer today.

Old Soldier Tortured
"For years I suffered unspeakable torture from indigestion, constipation and liver trouble," wrote A. K. Smith, a war veteran at Erie, Pa. "But Dr. King's New Life Pills fixed me all right. They're simply great." Try them for any stomach, liver or kidney trouble. Only 25c at Dr. Hardy's Drug Store. 1-31

From Bonheur's Horrors
When asked why she had never married, Rosa Bonheur always answered, "Nobody ever fell in love with me. I've never been truly loved. Most men are too busy to love, really, and I am too busy to be loved. But the thought of such a deep regard that he man seems to have dared to reveal his feelings to her. There is a curious example of this fact, taken from the humble walks of life. On several occasions Rosa Bonheur had done service for workmen who throughout his life spent his savings in buying engravings of her principal pictures and photographs of herself. His simple dwelling was a temple to her kindness. He described himself as "the earthworm in love with a star." The person here referred to is E. A. Dastry of Clermont-Ferrand, who tells that Rosa Bonheur once asked him why he was not married, and he replied by asking her the same question. Here was her answer: "Well, sir, it is not because I am an enemy of marriage, but I assure you that I have never had time to consider the subject."—Reminiscences of Rosa Bonheur.

Paternalism in Groceries.
Paternalism with a vengeance is practiced in certain New York groceries. It is benevolent paternalism, though. "Ma wants two pounds of sugar," said a child to a patriarch in the trade. He consulted a calendar on the wall. "I guess you'd better take only a pound today," he said, "and go kind of slow on that. The week is only half gone, but you have already eaten up three-fourths of your allowance. Tell your mother so."

The child promised to deliver the report on financial depression. "That is the only way on earth to keep those people from coming into debt," said the grocer. "The system is common in this neighborhood. I do it at the customer's request. Every pay day women with spendthrift husbands and an extravagant disposition of their own deposit enough money with the grocer and butcher to see the family through the week. They instruct us to let no one overdraw the amount, and except in cases where extra food is actually needed we stick to the end of the bargain."—New York Times.

Horrors of Bokhara.
The terrible deeds that once made Bokhara a byword are now prohibited by the Russian government. Prisoners are not permitted, for instance, to be dragged through the streets by galloping horses. Nor are they thrown from the top of the high tower called the Minar Katun. This was the usual punishment meted out to evildoers in the old days. Watched by thousands of spectators, the poor wretches were flung from that giddy height on to the flagstones beneath.

Bokhara has many chambers of horrors, unwholesome for western eyes to see and the description of which would certainly be unfit for publication. Perhaps the most horrible of these is a pit where prisoners were tortured by vermin, which were so numerous and ravenous that in the absence of human prey they were fed on chunks of raw meat.—Wide World Magazine.

Dissail and Goldwin Smith.
It may have been partly by suspicion of my possession of an unpleasant secret that Dissail was moved to follow me across the Atlantic and try, as he did in "Lothair," to brand me as "a social scyphonaut." His knowledge of my social character was not great, for I had only once met him in society. His allusion to the "Oxford professor" who was going to the United States was as transparent as if he had used my name. Had I been in England, where my character was known, I should have let the attack pass, but I was in a strange country, where, made by a man of note, the attack was likely to tell. I therefore gave Dissail the lie, and neither he nor any of his organs ever ventured to repeat the calumny.—Goldwin Smith in McClure's.

The Thimble.
About 200 years ago a London goldsmith called Trotting made and presented to the lady of his heart on her birthday an anticlerical thimble of gold. Beautifully ornamented and chased, accompanied by a note which introduced the little contraption as a "token of my humble esteem which shall protect those delicate, fair and industrious fingers from prick and scar of needle head." That was the origin of the thimble.

Fate of a Duchess.
We have had excellent morals drawn from the substantial waist of the Venus of Milo for the admonition of the fashionable woman. But what can we say about the Duchesse de Mazarin, who (G. Duval tells us in "Shadows of Old Paris") "died in 1775 from tight lacing, although she had posed for a statue of Venus?"

A Matter of Looks.
First Boarding House Keeper—I always keep my boarders longer than you do. Second Boarding House Keeper—Oh, I don't know? You keep them so thin that they look longer than they really are.—Boston Record.

He Got His.
Geraldine—You haven't been to see me since you asked father for my hand. Gerald—No, this is the first time I've been able to get about.—Human Life.

All Alike.
The following entry appears in the "visitors' book" of a hotel in Germany: The living here is good, plain and substantial. So is the waitress.

Death in Hoisting Fire
may not result from the work of a broom, but often severe burns are caused that make a quick need for Becken's Arnica Balm, the quickest sweet cure for burns, wounds, bruises, boils, sores. DEARIES
In people of sixty and over results are quite uniform, especially with those recovering. While at all ages a large majority of all cases yield to the treatment, below fifty and approaching forty the percentage is not high—probably not much over half yielding.

Under thirty the percentage is high and in children recoveries have been very few and most of these were obtained with the aid of skilled physicians, forcing rest and alkaline treatment to prevent formation of acetone.

The new emollient treatment known as Bloodless Blood and Kidney Tablets. They can be had in Washington at Dr. Ira M. Hardy's.

We desire every patient to write to who is not acting the usual improvement by the third week. Always state age, literature mailed free, and stamp to pay postage. Dr. Ira M. Hardy, Special Agent.

WHAT CURES ECZEMA?
We have so many inquiries lately regarding Eczema and other skin diseases, that we are glad to make our answer public. After careful investigation we have found that a simple wash of Oil of Watergreen, as compounded in D. D. D., can be relied upon. We would not make this statement to our patrons, friends and neighbors unless we were sure of it—and although there are so-called Eczema remedies sold, we ourselves unhesitatingly recommend D. D. D. Prescription.

Because—We know that it gives instant relief to that torturing itch.

Because—D. D. D. starts the cure at the foundation of the trouble.

Because—It cleans, soothes and heals the skin.

Because—It enables Nature to repair the ravages of disease.

Because—The records of ten years of complete cures of thousands of cases show that D. D. D. is today recognized as the absolutely reliable Eczema Cure.

Drop into our store today, just to talk over your case with us. Hardy Drug Company.
