A CONFERENCE.

Yesterday there was a conference of representative men, heretofore on opposing sides from each ward of the city for the purpose of reaching an agreement on the question of who shall be suggested to the citizens for mayor and city aldermen during the next ensuing two years. The Daily News is not sufficiently informed to state what was done but it seems to be the general consensus of opinion that an arrangement will be made which will be satisfactory to the entire city.

STAND BY YOUR HOME TOWN.

The following from an exchange is true to the point:
 There is no place in this world which has a right to demand more of a man than the one where he gets his living. The city in which a man lives and earns his daily bread, or achieves a fortune, is the one to which he owes the best that is in him. Ingratitude as between individuals is the basest trait a man can display.

Failure to stand by the city where one lives and works and makes a living is a species of ingratitude just as disgusting as that displayed by the man who fails to demonstrate his appreciation of kindness done by a friend.

The citizen who can stand and listen to another knocking the town in which he is making a living possesses a goodness of nature which is above the comprehension of the less spiritual minded. If you feel you can't live in a town without knocking it, move to some other. And if you are too poor to move, quit knocking and soon you will be in such good financial condition you won't want to move.

We admire the man who fight for what he believes even if he has to fight alone.

The North Carolina progressives will take courage from the result in New York.

Better be natural—sometimes when you try to look your best you do your worst.

A man who has the reputation of being a small potato is always easily mashed.

Old man Diaz seems to be depending on his own constitution rather than that of his country.

If China had been prepared for war some of the demands made by Russia would have been omitted.

There is generally a decoy back of the trouble with lame ducks.

ARBOR DAY IN THE NORTH CAROLINA SCHOOLS.

Education consists in preparing the child for life, so that the greatest good to the man himself, his neighbor, and the state will result from all his later experiences.

Perhaps the most common as well as the most vital experience from the business point of view as well as from that recreation, comes to the average North Carolinian from his association with trees, the forests or their products. Yet few children or grown people for that matter, can distinguish a longleaf from a shortleaf pine seedling, know the conditions most favorable for the best growth of even our commonest forest trees or can tell one oak or one pine from another by the bark, the buds, the leaves or the fruit.

In order to foster a love of trees among children and to teach them elementary facts about them, as well as to encourage the planting of trees and the intelligent care of forests by their elders, the practice of observing Arbor Day has been introduced into nearly every state in the Union, and in many states it is a legal school festival. In North Carolina the day was observed as far back as 1882, but unfortunately it has never received general recognition. Only a school here and there has observed the day with appropriate exercises, when some of the teachers or patrons have been especially interested in the subject.

Recently the Forester of the North Carolina Geological Economic Survey was invited to make an address at an Arbor Day Celebration at Southern Pines, in which the whole town took a gratifying interest. The Civic Club, an organization of the women of the place, was the prime mover, while the teachers and the school children united with the club to make the occasion a great success. Trees and shrubs were planted on the school grounds in the morning and in the afternoon drills, songs, and recitations, illustrating the child's relation to the trees and the flowers around them, were very well given by the children in the large auditorium.

Such a celebration might be held annually by every school in the state with great profit to the children and with increasing interest on the part of the parents. There is unfortunately a tendency among the men to leave the education of the children more and more to the women, and the next generation will have special cause to bless their mothers for opening their eyes to the beauty and usefulness of the trees of the women, who through their clubs are doing such good work for civic improvement and the betterment of education, would take this matter all over the state and work for a general Arbor Day observance.

In most states some special day is selected as Arbor Day by the governor or superintendent of education or some other authority, and all schools are expected to observe that particular day. In North Carolina, where the school year varies so in the different counties and where the time for planting trees varies with the different regions of the state, it would probably be better for each county superintendent, or even each school principal, to set the day which would be most convenient to him and most appropriate to the season and locality. Where only a summer and fall school session is given, October in the mountains, November in the Piedmont section, and December in the eastern part of the state would be suitable times, while where a nine or ten months school is the rule March or April would be more suitable, as children, and older citizens for that matter, naturally turn to the woods and fields in the springtime. Some Friday would usually be selected as interfering less with the routine of school work, though such interference really often turns out to be rather a help than hindrance to the work.

Suggestions for the observance of Arbor Day are contained in the following publications of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, which may be secured by writing to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.: "Arbor Day, Its History and Observance"; Arbor Day (Forest Service Circular 25); Forest Nurseries for Schools (Farmer's Bulletin 423); "Forestry in the Public Schools" (Forest Service Circular 120); "Tree Planting in Rural School Grounds" (Farmer's Bulletin 114).

The North Carolina Geological and Economic Survey has prepared an Arbor Day program which it expects to publish shortly. This will give suggestions for the observance of Arbor Day and appropriate short extracts for school recitations, such as the following:

ways, and break the path must be.
 Of him who, having open eyes, has never learned to see,
 And so has never learned to love the beauty of a tree.

Who loves a tree, he loves the life that springs in star and cloud,
 He loves the life that glides the clouds and greens the April sod;
 He loves the Wide Beneficence; his soul takes hold on God."

Announcement

To the Democratic Voters of the City of Washington:
 Having been requested by many of the best Democrats of this city to become a candidate for the office of mayor, I hereby make my announcement for this office.

I call upon all Democrats to attend the primaries and give me their support. If nominated and elected I will serve all the people to the best of my ability.

3125c DE. E. M. BROWN

For Alderman, Fourth Ward

Feeling that I cannot resist the request of my friends I announce my candidacy for one of the forthcoming Board of Aldermen to be selected by the primary soon to be called, for Fourth Ward. This step is not taken of my own volition; for I do so against my will, yet, when the time comes that I cannot respond to the people's call—I mean by this not only the citizens of the Fourth Ward but the entire city of Washington, I cease from that time to be a law-abiding citizen. If nominated and elected I shall enter office to represent the people of the city and shall not ally myself to any faction or factions so long as I am honored with the office. I shall always strive to represent the best interests of Washington. With this as my slogan, I ask the support of all voters in the Fourth Ward for Alderman.

Respectfully
 3-22 ttc W. J. HARDISON.
