(Special News' Correspondence)

We had a very nice rain here Monday afternoon (June 19) which was very much needed. The farmers are beginning to smile again, since the shower. Hope they will continue to do so.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Tuten of Bonerton spent Saturday and Sunday visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Yeates.

Mr. William Yeates who has been spending some time with his parents, left Monday for Richmond, Va.

Messrs. R. E. and J. G. Wall of Washington visited relatives and friends here Sunday.

PROGRESS IS BEING MADE

Raleigh, June 24.—The North Carolina Campaign against hookworm disease is making steady progress. The number of cases of the disease reported as treated by physicians has grown during the past twelve months from 2,250 to 21,000; the number of doctors treating the disease from 183 to 597; and the number of people microscopically examined for it in the state laboratory of Hygiene from 500 to 23,312. Seven thousand two hundred and seventy six of the later number were found to have hookworm infection, and 2,543 showed others of the eight intestinal parasites. Though some of these were found quite frequently the hookworm infections were found three times as frequently as all the others combined. Thirty-one per cent of the 23,312 examined showed hookworm infection. Of the number examined 1,000 were state troops, 1,000 were orphans, 1,000 children in the state schools for the blind, deaf and dumb, and the reformatory. Nearly 1,000 insanes have been examined. The other 19,000 were taken at random.

many attractions for our people these days, as nearly every Sunday a number of them are to be seen out beat riding, strolling along the shore, bathing, etc. Last Sunday morning Mr. W. G. Yeates gave a delightful call to a number of his friends and in the afternoon Captain J. N. Yeates took a party out on his gas boat. Both occasions were enjoyed very much.

Sorry to note Mrs. C. K. Cutler continues to be very ill.

Messrs. J. G. Dixon and J. L. Latham visited friends at Chocowinity Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Allgood and Mr. A. C. Cutler spent Saturday night at Bunyan.

Has Returned Home.

The many friends of Miss Ethel Faux, who was recently operated on at the Fowle Memorial Hospital for appendicitis has so far recovered as to be able to return to her home.

THIRD WEEK OF TRAINING SCHOOL

It of the highest and best type indicated.

In addition to the work done in the regular courses named above there is a special course given in school administration and supervision for city and county superintendents and high school principals. This course is given by Dr. Strayer, professor of educational administration, Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City. These are today no man connected with educational work in the United States more thoroughly qualified and equipped both by nature, training and information to give such a course than is Dr. Strayer. He is thoroughly conversant with every theory and phase of education both in the past and present, having given close and thorough research and profound thought to this phase of the work he is enabled with ease and force to direct his entire class to an intelligent conception of what real administration and supervision of schools is, and to the best methods to get the best and most lasting results from their supervision. The value of such a course as he is now giving here can never be estimated in dollars and cents. It can only be partially appreciated as we see coming from it better and more intelligent supervision resulting in our courses and study and proper direction and helpfulness in leading teachers to get the most out of the courses by the use of better and more natural methods.

Friday, June 30th, has been set apart by the authorities of the school as a day for the celebration of the anniversary of the breaking of ground for the erection of the buildings of the school. This is to be made a history making day in the career of this institution. Gov. W. W. Kitchen, Dr. Strayer, of Columbia University and other distinguished educators will be present and deliver addresses. A cordial invitation is extended to everybody and a great crowd is expected to come and hear these able and distinguished speakers.

We cannot close these brief notes of the great work that is being done at this term of this splendid institution without reference to this week's talk by Dr. Strayer, last Monday night on "Teaching as a Profession." He said in part: Teaching is only beginning to be recognized as a profession. Formerly teaching was used merely as a stepping stone to some other calling. With the increased provision for free public education there is coming to be a better recognition of the importance of the teachers work and an increased demand for special training in preparation for teaching.

The professional teacher, as the members of the other learned professions, must have received a liberal education as a basis for the later technical training. It is especially necessary for the teacher to have that breadth of training which characterizes the man or woman of culture, for it is her special office to transmit to children the spiritual possessions of the race whether scientific, literary, aesthetic, institutional or religious.

While there is no perfect safety for life or property in this world, the measures adopted by the Bank of England to protect against the deceptions of robbers exhibit almost the limit of human ingenuity.

Its outer doors are now so finely balanced that a clerk can close them knob under his desk, can close them instantly, and they cannot be opened again except by a special mechanism.

Manila's Large Birth Rate.

Race suicide as an addition to other problems in the Philippines lies far off in the distant future according to the birth statistics compiled in the last quarterly report of the Bureau of Health.

Manila takes a position in birth rate far in advance of other countries of the world with an average of 42.21 births a 1,000 of population. In international statistics of birth rate the country with an average of 68.5 leads the other world. America with 37.46 is next, with 36 are next—Manila.

The teacher is no less important than the other professions. A trained teacher must be equipped with psychology, sociology and biology—the sciences which are fundamental in education. In addition, she must master the technique of teaching for each of the subjects of the curriculum. It is not enough to know the subject. She must know the arithmetic, geography or history as a possible method of normal mental growth for children. In the training of teachers it is necessary that practice be given in teaching subjects to children so that the student be conversant with the subject. A training school for teachers without a practice school is as much an anomaly as a medical school without a hospital.

The teacher who belongs to the profession is actuated by ideals of service both to the individual children entrusted to her care and to the community as a whole. Social progress depends upon the work done in the school room and the teacher must by virtue of her calling be interested in everything that makes for the uplifting of the community in which she labors. The teacher who succeeds is the one who is proud of her profession and who gets more joy out of her work than from any other experience in life.

All guesses as to the possible date of adjournment, it is now admitted are worse than useless. Some Senators believe the extra session ultimately will dovetail into the regular session next December.

Senators McCumber, Gallinger and Smoot were among the republicans who concluded deliberations in the committee and expressed opposition to the plan of Messrs. Penrose, Cullom, Lodge and Clark to report the wool bill today. Senator McCumber alone suggested that short hearings be held. When the committee doors closed Senator LaFollette had not arrived.

The only democrats present were Messrs. Bailey, Simmons and Kern.

The action of the committee was awaited with great interest.

"The insurgents are ready for the fight," said Senator Bristow, who stood outside the finance committee room while the committee was in session.
