& man was fined in the Recorder's court for being drunk on the streets, recently, because it was against the city ordinances.

When predilection is shown in the execution of the law; when the classes are protected against the masse in a common law, we are going to call attention to the fact. It is our plan duty, and we may refresh the memory at times when officials would wish it had been forgotten. We refer to "violation of city ordin ances relative to obstructing side would be a calamity to have one of our police officials fall over the obstructions daily placed on the sidewalks between the Singer office and private citizen has them removed, such will happen. Plows, road scrapers, &c., were conspicuously scrapers, &c., were conspicuously displayed yesterday, on that part of the parement that the ordinance says belongs to the public, and not to individuals, nor firms. -

More than a month ago the obstructions on Main street was called to the attention of the Mayor. Daily we have called the police officials at-- to it - But if a man fails tointe enough salt on his meat on - had to pay for that a few days. ago, and the Recorder said because it was a violation of the city

(2) It is very important to have good house for them. Let it be wind-proof on the west, north and east sides, with a two-foot space the sides, with a two-foot space the ath poultry netting to keep chickens in liave a curtain of good thick which for the open space. Keep it lown at night and roll it up in the from all over the floor of the house for them to scratch in or their grain. Keep them in all rainy days and out whole, the drily averrge is not expected to exceed fourteen to lifteen nifes. This is the practical limit of for they will cat it and it will stop them from laying.

Give them early in the morning tour quarts wheat scattered in the litter in their house. At noon give them a mash made of two kallons bran and one quart of mealed clover. Use one quart of mealed clover. Use buttermilk, or any kind of milk, to make it up with if you have it. Give hem about all they will eat up clean. About three of four times a week put a little blood meal in their mash. Just before sundown I give them about all the corn and cats they will eat. I do not require them to scratch at this late hour. Give them the best quality of feed you can buy, for the heat is the chespest. They will pay for it with a good profit Keep crushed oyster shells by them all the

The next thing in order is te around with a good-sized basket and get up the eggs, for you will need it. At least that is the way my Leghorn treat me .- Mrs. J. R. Pace, in The Progressive Farmer.
