GATHERING NEWS.

In our issue of yesterday we referred to a reply given us by Mr. Searight in regard to information sought as to whether or not he was going to fill his appointment at Belhaven tomorrow, also as to who would fill his pulpit here.

We thought the parson was somewhat volent in his reply, and that the skin was unnecessarily thin that it should have evoked the reply. 'I am not working under cover. I am simply attending to my own business.' From the best information obtainable, Mr. Searight has promised for them on two previous occasions this year, and has not fulfilled those appointments. Mr. W. W. Morton of Richmond, Va., is quite a favorite with the people of Belhaven and they like to hear him preach. He has had two appointments to preach there this year, and just about the time he was in the act of starting to journey to Belhaven he would receive a telegram from Mr. Searight saying to come. Mr. Morton is of the opinion that Mr. Searight was not attending to his own business when he sent those telegrams telling him not to come, and the significance of his reply yesterday was something like Dave Hill's 'I'm a Democrat' speech. However, the Presbyterians of Belhaven have now called Mr. W. W. Morton to the pastorate of their church, and should be accented he will begin the work in May.

We congratulate them. They might have done a whole lot worse.

Tut, Tut.

A man in Charlotte was kicked to death a few days ago by a mule. All the kidding in New Bern is not done by mules.—New Bern Sun.

Look again, neighbor. The mule that kicked a man to death was a dead one, and there are no dead ones in Charlotte. Some drop out who cannot keep the electrical pace and move over to Greensboro, but die in Charlotte, never.

With Woodrow Wilson figures in one column and its subscription contest figures in another we are watching to see the 'devil' play a trick on the News and Observer and switch the figures one of these mornings.

Negro Murderer to Die.

New York, March 9.—Condemned to die for one of the most heinous murders committed in this city in recent years, Joseph Roberts, a West Indian negro, will pay the extreme penalty of the law in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison next Monday. Roberts was convicted of the murder of Usaac S. Vogel, an aged and wealthy dealer in diamonds and jewelry, whose body was discovered in a loft building in Canal street last December. Roberts was the elevator conductor in the building. The negro is supposed to have committed the murder for the purpose of robbery, as Mr. Vogel carried much jewelry about his person. After beating the aged man to death the negro made an ineffectual attempt to burn the body of his victim in the furnace. The crime was fixed upon Roberts when the police discovered on the negro's bloody finger prints upon a silver cigarette case which belonged to the murdered man.

'One Instance in His Mind. She—And you say that you have always avoided blaming me, I'd like to have you mention one instance. With pleasure. Remember, right after we were married, I ate a pie you baked, and when the doctor came I told him it was clams.

MINCE PIE FOR BREAKFAST

It Might Pay Those Who Declare It is Wrong to Try it for Awhile.

When our Puritan ancestors wished to throw the last touch of cerulean gloom into the blue laws they enacted to wit: 'That no one shall make mince pies, or play any instrument, except the trumpet, mortifying the flesh and throwing a damper on the joys of the world this prohibition of mince pies was ever regarded as more effective than placing the aforementioned musical instruments in unskilled hands. It afforded almost as much quiet pleasure to the early New England conscience as refusing food and lodging to Quakers and other heretics.'

When the reaction set in it followed the pendulous law of reforms and swung just as far the other way. The skill in the making of mince pies became the very touchstone of good citizenship. The recipes always incorporated the brandy and the currants and the raisins first, and then, as a sort of afterthought, made casual mention that a little 'finely cut meat' might improve the mince. But the ungenial environment under which the mince pie was born left upon it a superstitious tradition that it was not altogether wholesome. In spite of the increasing number of people who survive a second helping this prejudice obtains here and there unto the present time.

HOW ONE WOMAN WON

Her Health and Strength Back Again by The Use of Cardui. Tampa, Fla.—In a letter from this city, Mrs. E. C. Corum writes: 'I was all weakened and worn out with womanly troubles. My husband brought me some Cardui as a tonic, and, from the first day, it seemed to help. I had almost lost my reason, but thanks to Cardui, I did not. Soon, I felt and looked like a new woman. I think the remedy is wonderful. I recommend it to my friends, for I have received great benefit from it.' Cardui acts specifically on the weakened womanly organs, strengthening the muscles and nerves, and building them up to health. It helps to refresh the worn-out nervous system and relieves the effects of overwork, both mental and physical. Fifty years' successful use fully prove the merit of this purely vegetable tonic remedy for women. In every community, there are some who have been benefited by Cardui. The beneficial effects of this time tested woman's remedy, soon show themselves in many different ways. Try it.
