Swimmers the Prey of Bats. A remarkable story of the return of swimmers by sea comes from New Zealand. A swimmer in New Zealand was a favorite bathing place because the swimmers were never lost.

RELINFORCED CONCRETE OF OLD ROME.

Although concrete has been used for many centuries, it is generally supposed that reinforced concrete is a modern invention. This, however, has been disproved, according to Popular Mechanics by the finding of bronze reinforcing rods in the concrete roof of an ancient Roman tomb.

The reinforced concrete in the latter dates back only 200 or 400 years, but created much commotion because the walls were thought to consist entirely of ashlar and quarry stone.

The discovery that the stone casing concealed a core composed in part of reinforced concrete was made while workmen were repairing the wall for an elevator installation.

Good morals are nobler than good manners but not so popular.

FLY SEASON

These days mark the dawn of another fly season. In fact, recent advice indicates that an occasional fly has been sighted here and there. Swat him, and do it now.

Remember, so far as the fly question is concerned, a swat in time saves nine. Some enthusiastic mathematician has figured out for us, that laboring under perfect conditions, a Mrs. Fly will lay 120 eggs, which mature into flies in from twelve to fifteen days.

Swat her. These in turn produce 7,200 grandchildren twelve to fifteen days later. Swat them. The next generation, we are told, reaches the enormous number of 432,000 to be swatted. And so on, until by fall or late summer our mathematician estimates that the grand total number of descendants of this one original Mrs. Fly amount some 1,096,181,249,310,720,000,000,000,000, or a mass having a cubical content greater than the earth itself.

TOO MANY TO SWAT. A few ciphers more or less mean nothing to us. Such figures are mathematical nonsense. It simply emphasizes the fact that a swat in time saves nine—if not more.

As a matter of fact, comparatively few descendants from each successive generation of flies ever live to reach maturity or old age. A very few withstand the rigor of winter, and batten lines our nose. If we can successfully combat these few now, and abolish their breeding places, our lot for the summer will be easier.

It has been well said that "A man's flies are they of his household." We are fast learning that the number of flies in a house or community is an excellent index to the sanitary conditions or cleanliness of that house or community.

Someday, soon, we will consider the fly as much a disgrace in our home as we consider the bedbug. In fact, it is already, but we don't know it yet.

Wm. J. Floyd Was Arrested in Va. Yesterday

Escaped From County Chain Gang February Last. Convicted of Retailing in October 1911. Sentenced to County Roads for 2 Years.

W. J. Floyd who escaped from the County Chain Gang in the month of February while the convicts were working the roads about three miles from this city, has been located at Lynchburg, Virginia and arrested by authorities there yesterday.

Sheriff Ricks leaves this afternoon for Raleigh to secure requisition papers from Governor Kitchin. From Raleigh he goes to Richmond to have Governor William Mann of Virginia honor the requisition and when this is accomplished the sheriff will then proceed to Lynchburg for his man.

Floyd was tried at the October term of the Beaufort Superior Court upon the charge of retailing and was convicted and sentenced to the roads for two years. He began his sentence on the roads October 16, 1911 last.

How he was located in Lynchburg is not known to the authorities here. When Floyd left the fact was wired to the different adjacent towns but no effort beyond that was made to apprehend him.

A second telegram was received by the sheriff to the effect that Floyd had been arrested and for him to wire charges. In answer to the second request the sheriff stated that he was wanted here for escaping from the county chain gang.

HONOR WOMEN OF THE CONFEDERACY

Special to the Daily News. Columbia, S. C., April 11.—South Carolina's everlasting memorial to the Women of the Confederacy, said to be the first monument to women ever erected independently by a State was unveiled here today with splendid ceremonies.

The Governor and other officials, the State military, the United Daughters of the Confederacy, the United Confederate Veterans and delegations of college students and other visitors from all parts of the state participated in the ceremonies.

The monument was designed by F. Wellington Rueckstuhl, of New York. The central figure depicts a Southern woman, dignified and beautiful, waiting to be crowned with laurels by the figure in the rear.

On either side are other figures representing the South, bearing laurels to lay at the heroine's feet. The most important inscription on the monument says: "In this monument generations unborn shall hear the voice of a great people testify to the sublime devotion of the women of South Carolina in their country's need."

That Wooling Ham. Ham, it has always seemed to us, varied more than any other articles over which blessings are mumbled in degree to palatableness, fragrance and invitation. The variation is due to the manner of approach. If a person is off his appetite, ham does the best when served as an Arizona breakfast—something else for the man and the ham for the dog.

But supposing you have been hunting, rising early and staying late. You have lost your lunch. You have to trudge home over a hard road. You pass a farmhouse, and from its open door there comes the sound of sizzling ham and the heaven's breath of its perfumes. It matters not if that ham sprang from a razorback hog in the wilds of Arkansas, you recognize that that ham is the most glorious flower that grows, the world's desire, the inner fountain of Eden, the pillar of fire by night, the sweet influence of the Pleiades and the deliverance from envy, hatred and malice and all uncharitableness. For the next three miles you can't say a word to your companion because of a watering mouth.
