plete Democratic success in November are becoming brighter each day, is is observable that business, which always keeps the eyes on the politi-cal situation is not in the least alarmed. More and more it is beome the sober opinion of onlookers nothing is to be feared from the overthrown of both Republican facions. For the first time in more than a score of years, the so called "Business Interests" are not raising the old, pre-election cry of "Democratio success means business ruin." The stock market "bulls" never were more optimistic than they are now.

Upward Goes the Price Along with about everything else that the people use, the price of writing paper has now hit the up grade. The reason, of course, is the fact that the mills have all been organized into a trust, and tiss trust is over capitalized to an extent probably greater than any monoply yet or-ganized in this country. When the American Writing Paper Company was formed, common stock was piled on bonds, and preferred on the comon bonds, and preferred on the common, until a mighty pile was erect-ed. On this great mass of water, dividends must be paid, and these dividends can be paid only by the im-position, on the public, of increased prices. Competition having been suppressed, the trust is now free to charge what it pleases.
