CLARK LEADER ON THE FIRST BALLOT CONVENTION IN SESSION ALL NIGHT. MEETS THIS AFTERNOON 4 O'CLOCK

BALTIMORE, MD., June 28. By United Press.—After an all night session of the Democratic National Convention at 6:44 o'clock this morning the first ballot for the Presidential nomination was taken. The result of the ballot was; Clark 440 1-2; Wilson 334; Underwood 117 1-2; Harmon 148; Marshal 31; Baldwin 22; Bryan 2. Not voting 2. After this ballot the convention adjourned to meet again this afternoon at four o'clock, when the balloting will be resumed.

LAST NIGHT'S SESSION WAS REMARKABLE

Indications Are That Several Ballots Will Be Taken Before Any Nomination is Made.

BRYAN FEARED BY BOSSES

(By United Press)

The sub-committee of eleven delegates who are engaged in writing the 6000 word platform resumed their session this afternoon. Mr. Bryan was the last member to arrive. Most of the delegates were sleeping at noon. Mr. Bryan is much pleased over the adoption of his resolution. He said "The effect of the resolution cannot now be estimated. Any delegate aligned with Bryan, Morgan and the Belmont group won't dare now to go home and face their constituents if they reside on the other side of the Alleghenies. The delegates must now be on one side or the other. There can be no compromise, no half way maneuvering. The resolution will show the people where their representatives stand."

Clark Men Express Victory

The sub-committee of eleven delegates who are engaged in writing the 6000 word platform resumed their session this afternoon. Mr. Bryan was the last member to arrive. Most of the delegates were sleeping at noon. Mr. Bryan is much pleased over the adoption of his resolution. He said "The effect of the resolution cannot now be estimated. The delegates must now be on one side or the other. There can be no compromise, no half way maneuvering. The resolution will show the people where their representatives stand."

Harvey Garber, the Harmon leader, says that he has a list of 80 who voted for Clark on the first ballot who will switch to Harmon if New York votes its stony for Clark. The Underwood men are confident that he will hold the vote he received on the first ballot and gain steadily. Two hundred members of the Bryan League of Allegheny county, Penn. arrived today. They had a band and several thousand Bryan buttons and said that they intended to turn loose a Bryan stampede.

BALTIMORE June 28.—The result of the first ballot indicates that many ballots must be taken before the two-thirds vote is received by any of the candidates. The "dark horse" chances are better now than ever before. The Clark leaders as soon as the convention adjourned early this morning went into executive session and they will make a desperate effort today to rally the delegates to put the nomination of Clark through on the second or third ballot.

Wilsonites Encouraged

The Wilson forces are greatly encouraged because he received his claimed votes on the first ballot. They think that the second ballot may show a radical change in the result as many delegates pledged and instructed for certain candidates do not feel any obligation after the first ballot and that on the second ballot they will throw their strength to the man of their individual choice.

Remarkable Scene

When the morning sun replaced the electric lights the convention hall presented a remarkable scene. Practically all the delegates were covered, many heads were seen nodding. Only a scant few were discovered in the galleries. In the private boxes were many women who have followed the convention from the very start and their fresh, clean appearance was in contrast to the bedraggled looking delegates. The session was perhaps the most remarkable in the history of the Democratic party.

At the opening of the session only fights of oratory by the nominating speakers was anticipated, but Mr. Bryan's resolution denouncing the money trust, J. P. Morgan, August Belmont, Thomas F. Walsh, calling them by name, caused wild scenes in the hall. When Mr. Bryan withdrew part of his resolution taking the ousting of Belmont and Ryan from the convention as delegates he paved the way for the victory of his resolution. The conservative leaders were posted around the hall giving orders to vote for the adoption of the resolution. They wanted to placate Mr. Bryan and stop him from bolting, which was feared by the "bosses" and they were willing to concede him everything but the nomination. They desire him to go on the stump this fall for the candidate named.

Ovation for Candidates

When the nominating speech for Underwood was made the demonstration lasted twenty-five minutes; the demonstration for Clark occupied fifteen minutes and the demonstration for Woodrow Wilson one hour and fifteen minutes. This was the wildest of the night. The galleries took up the cheering. Parades were formed around the armory, there were college yells and pictures of Wilson hoisted on fish poles, umbrellas and cases.

Vice Presidency

There has been little gossip thus far on the subject of the Vice Presidency. Probably no serious attention will be given to a running mate for the standardbearer until the latter has been selected. Developments are expected to clear the atmosphere materially. Some of those here predict that the convention will ballot for several days on the presidency, while others believe it not improbable only one session will be necessary for a choice.

Meanwhile, Baltimore is doing the best it can to entertain the visiting delegates so well that they will want to prolong their stay. The weather here has been hot, however, and the delegates have shown a disposition to spend as little time in the crowded convention hall as possible. On Wednesday night when the speaker's star was in the ascendancy, the Clark "hoon dawg" song was heard everywhere, drowning the war cries of all other candidates. Last night news of the minute demonstration for Wilson, reached Baltimore Street and the downtown hotel district and set off the Wilson fireworks there. Followers of the former Princetonian marched up and down the street, led by a band and burning torches.

MISS HARRISON WEDDED TO MR CECIL R. HARDY

Yesterday afternoon at three thirty o'clock at the residence of Mr. Clyde Harrison on East Main Street, took place a beautiful home wedding when his sister, Miss Leona Myrtle Harrison, became the bride of Mr. Cecil Roy Hardy, of LaGrange, N. C.

The home was attractively decorated in palms, ferns, evergreens and cut flowers. The bride wore a handsome going away gown of grey cloth with hat and gloves to match. The ceremony uniting them as one was performed by Rev. Robert V. Hope, pastor of the Christian Church, in the presence of quite a number of friends and well wishers of the couple and the wedding march was played by Miss Addie Freeman. Immediately after the consummation of the nuptials and amid a shower of rice and old shoes the bride and groom entered a carriage and drove to the Norfolk Southern depot where they boarded the four o'clock train for their future home in LaGrange. The bride is one of Washington's attractive and charming young women. She has been a resident here for a number of years and she has always occupied an enviable place among her friends. She is indeed a prize well worth striving for. The groom is a prosperous farmer of LaGrange and a young man of promise and held in the highest esteem in his home town. The couple received many hand some and useful wedding gifts. The out-of-town guests were: Miss Corrina Ward, of Greenville; Miss Nettie and Bessie Garner, of Wilson; Mrs. J. R. Jenkins and sister of Bethel; Mr. Mack Hardy, of LaGrange, brother of the groom.

LaFOLLETTE PAYS RESPECTS TO ROOSEVELT

Fortunately the Colonel Did Not Secure Nomination He Declares

SIGNED EDITORIAL IN WEEKLY PAPER

Roosevelt and His Followers are Responsible for Division of Progressives

(By United Press)

MADISON, Wis., June 28.—Senator LaFollette in a signed editorial today in his weekly paper says in part: "Until Roosevelt came into the open as a candidate there was a strong rapidly growing progressive movement within the Republican party which was fast assuming national proportions. Into this movement Roosevelt projected his third term ambition. He spent weeks planning 'spontaneous call' for himself and then responded with the announcement that he was a receptive candidate. His candidacy began to drag and he and his friends in despair became desperate and the most enormous campaign fund in the history of American politics was raised. There never has been a primary campaign for any president approaching this in extravagance. Men notoriously identified with the steel and harvester trust became Roosevelt's most active supporters. Fortunately Roosevelt did not secure the nomination which would have compromised the progressive movement and defeated the real achievement for years. Upon Mr. Roosevelt and his followers rests the responsibility of having divided the progressives on the first national contest. Struck by an overwhelming desire to win they denounce loyalty to conviction and principle as stubborn selfishness and substitute vulgar personalities and charge epithets. The progressive movement does not consist of a few self constituted leaders but of millions of thoughtful citizens. They will permit more after awhile. No combinations of special interests and political expediency to secure control of the progressive cause which is ultimately to redeem democracy and restore the government to the people."

BANKERS IN SESSION AT MOREHEAD CITY

MOREHEAD CITY, June 28.—The second day's session of the North Carolina State Bankers' Association, which is holding its annual convention here, proved intensely interesting; the reports of standing committees being read and discussed. One of the features of the program was a brief review of the annual session of the American Bankers Association by Vice President J. F. Willy of the Fidelity Bank, of Durham, and an address by B. F. Harrie, of the Illinois Bankers' Association, and William Reed, assistant cashier of the National City Bank, of New York. The program for today's session follows: Address—Lee McClung, Treasurer United States, Washington, D. C. State Banking Law—Consideration. Report of Committees. Election of Officers. Installation of Officers.

The Daily News extends congratulations. On Wednesday evening from 9 to 12 at the home of Mr. Clyde Harrison a reception was tendered the couple and a few invited friends.

INTERCOLLEGIATE ROWING RACE AT POUGHKEEPSIE

Thousands of Enthusiastic Followers of the Sport on the Scene. Greatest Aquatic Event of Year.

Special to the Daily News. POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 28.—With the expectation of witnessing the greatest aquatic event of the year, thousands of enthusiastic followers of the sport came pouring into Poughkeepsie today to attend the seventeenth annual regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association, which is to be held tomorrow on the Hudson River course. The day's program will consist of three contests, the varsity four-oared race, at two miles; the freshman eight-oared race, at four miles. In the big event of the day—the race of the varsity eights—six crews will participate. They are Cornell, Pennsylvania, Syracuse, Columbia, Wisconsin, and a newcomer on the Hudson, Leland Stanford of California. With weeks of grueling practice at an end, the six crews are awaiting the start of the big race in confidence. Although open pool is not permitted, there is keen interest among the backers of the various crews and many individual wagers are being placed. Cornell rules the favorite in the betting, although many backers are to be found for several of the other crews. Wisconsin's crew this year is believed to be the best that has ever been sent to Poughkeepsie from Madison, and followers of the eight expect to see it figure prominently in the race. In view of the strong showing made by Columbia last year and the good work of the men this year, there is a feeling that the crew from Morningside Heights has an unusually strong chance of winning. Syracuse again has an ambitious collection of oarsmen, but a win for either Syracuse or Pennsylvania in the big race would prove a surprise to the critics. Stanford has never before taken part in a four-mile contest and is not expected to figure prominently in tomorrow's race. Charles A. Courtney, the veteran coach of Cornell, says his men are trained to the top notch of condition. He makes no prediction about the result, but his optimism has served to strengthen the general expectation that Ithacans will be in front at the finish. It has become a habit of the Cornell crews to sweep the river at the intercollegiate regattas. During the past twelve years Cornell has won the varsity eight-oared nine times. The Ithacans also hold the record for the course, the crew of 1901 establishing a mark of 18 minutes 53 1-3 seconds. Pennsylvania won in 1900, but has not won since. In 1904 Syracuse won the race and also won in 1908. In the other years since Coach Courtney's crews have led the other shells home. Last year Columbia was in the lead until near the finish, when one of her oarsmen collapsed and Cornell shot ahead, winning by a slight margin in one of the closest and most exciting struggles ever waged between college oarsmen.
