Compromise Candidate

Progressive leaders canvassing the field for an available man to break the convention deadlock in the event of failure to nominate Governor Wilson, seriously considered Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, of Pennsylvania.

After the thirtieth ballot showed Wilson in the lead, the Wilson forces were hopeful of success. It was reported that Illinois soon would go to Wilson, but many believed that he would have difficulty getting the necessary two-thirds to nominate.

Mr. Palmer has been active in the progressive campaign and has voted throughout for Governor Wilson. He is a member of the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives and the father of the economy resolution which was passed by the Democrats when they gained control of that body.

Bryan Center of a Riotous Scene.

Bryan was the center of a riotous scene. Missouri delegation attempted to carry Clark banner in front of Bryan. He indignantly resented the move and twice tried to reach the platform.

A howling crowd surrounded him pushing and demonstrating. Once he reached the platform, then returned and engaged in angry demonstration with members of the Missouri delegation then again mounted the platform escorted by a policeman.

He stood there, pale and deeply moved, while pandemonium reigned and the convention was in a frenzy of disorder. The Missouri banner was pushed forward to the platform and then thrown back by an opposing throng. Every delegate in the convention was on his chair shouting madly.

A fist fight occurred immediately in front of the delegates while the tumult was at its height, policemen separating the combatants.

He said he had asked for the removal of the Missouri banner from in front of the Nebraska delegation. Chairman James ruled that Bryan had not presented a question of personal privilege and refused to permit the speech to proceed.

Bryan left the platform amid great disorder and returned to his seat. He was arrested by the first man who came on the floor with any banner for any man.
