HOW WILL YOU VOTE

CAST BALLOT IN INTEREST OF PEOPLE

The Democrats of Beaufort County have two sets of candidates from which to make a choice at the primary to be held Saturday, September 7th. One set of these candidates represents the spirit and letter of the convention two years ago. They are asking for the office for two terms only, and will not be candidates for a longer time. The other set, or old officers, is in direct opposition to the expressed principles of the Democratic party in the County; they disregard the party and its future; they claim a life-long position in the offices which they now hold.

It's for the voters of Beaufort County to say whether or not they will tolerate the stand taken by the old office holders.

Here's the ticket, consider the matter and vote in the interest of the people and the Democratic party.

LIFE'S DISAPPOINTMENTS

A NOTED BOSTON ATTORNEY OUT STRONG FOR WILSON

L. D. Brandeis, a Life-Long Republican to Cast His Vote for Democratic Presidential Nominee.

New York, Sept. 4.—Louis D. Brandeis, the noted Boston attorney and reformer and who has long been a Republican, is out for Wilson in the following statement:

Progressives—irrespective of party affiliations—should, in my opinion, support Woodrow Wilson for the Presidency, should support him fully, actively and enthusiastically; for he possesses in a high degree the qualities of an effective Progressive leader.

Governor Wilson is thoroughly democratic in spirit. He recognizes that all of the people are entitled to equal opportunities and appreciates that the development of all of the people is essential to the attainment of American ideals. He understands the dangers incident to the control by a few of our industries and finance. He sees that true democracy and social justice are unattainable unless the power of the few be curbed, and our democracy become industrial as well as political. He can meet the demands properly made upon a present day executive, to be able to lead in constructive statesmanship as well as to administer efficiently; for Wilson's character, intellectual power, and previous training fit him peculiarly to take an important part in progressive legislation. He is courageous and frank; able and firm and always open-minded—qualities indispensable to safe leadership.

Progressives should support Wilson, not only in order to secure his election, but in order to enable him after election to carry out those Progressive policies which he has so much at heart. His nomination ranks among the most encouraging events in American history. Under the masterful and masterly leadership of Col. Bryan—the ideals of American Democracy triumphed over the reactionaries of their money bags; the will of the people prevailed over the devices of the machine.

The Democratic party has purified itself and has been purged of its associations, so far as it is possible to accomplish this end by the action of a National Convention. But the struggle of privilege for privilege is unending and omnipresent. That struggle is as subtle as it is determined. The struggle will not close when Wilson is elected. We may be sure that every effort he may make as President to carry out the Progressive policies will meet with stubborn resistance from the possessors and apostles of privilege. Without loyal support from the Progressives of the country Wilson's war upon unjust privilege must be futile. The Progressive cause can succeed only if it has loyal support from the Progressives. It can fail only if the Progressives fail in their duty of giving Wilson that full support.

WHY DOES NOT GOVERNOR KITCHIN ANSWER THESE SIXTEEN QUESTIONS?

Governor Kitchin in his speech at Murfreesboro on the 22nd inst., severely criticised Sen. Simmons, and tried to prove that Senator Simmons is a Republican because he had discovered, as he contends, that in a period of service of eleven years, Senator Simmons had 19 times voted wrong.

BUT—
Did he tell the voters that although Senator Simmons had behind him a service of eleven years as Senator, that according to his own contention, the Senator had voted wrong on an average of less than twice each year.

Did he tell the voters that 17 of those 19 votes were cast on reciprocity bill and its amendments?
Did he tell the voters that the reciprocity bill was begotten, fostered and nurtured by Wm. Howard Taft, Republican President of the United States, and that this reciprocity bill became the idol of his administration?

Did he tell the voters that the people of Canada, when this issue was presented to them, sat down on it hard and made its passage in the Dominion of Canada a thing impossible and out of the question?

Did he tell the voters that although 17 of the 19 votes which he criticises were on different features of the reciprocity act, that when the bill came up as a whole, that Senator Simmons voted against the bill?

Did he tell the voters that Senator Simmons agreed to support the bill on conditions that the free list of farmers articles were added to it?
Did he tell the voters that in 17 of the 19 votes he criticises, a majority of the Democrats were lined up with the stand-pat or high protection Republicans, and that Senator Simmons was not?

Did he tell the voters that the committee that prepared the 1903 Democratic National Handbook (of which committee the Governor was a member), inserted in it vigorous language denouncing reciprocity as a sham and delusion?

Did he tell the voters that every Democrat except three, voted for some duty on lumber, and that if Senator Simmons' vote against putting lumber on the free list violated the Democratic platform, that every Democrat, except three, had violated the same platform?

Did he tell the voters that if Senator Simmons was in error in his interpretation of the lumber plank in the platform, that Senator Simmons had used that plank as a chart or guide as to the quantum of revenue it should produce?

Did he tell the voters that Woodrow Wilson, Democratic nominee for President, in his letter of acceptance, stated that a platform was not intended to bind any one in ALL THAT IT CONTAINED, but was intended as a chart or guide?

Did he tell the voters in his criticism upon Senator Simmons' attitude in the Lorimer matter that he had ever read the word of the evidence from the files in the case?

Did he tell the voters that Senator Simmons had before him the evidence that had been given in and acted on the matter in the capacity of a juror?

Did he tell the voters that Senator Simmons has the nerve to do what he considers to be right without regard to criticism of approval or disapproval?

Did he tell the voters that in the dark days of '96 and '98 that Marion Butler and his ilk, detested and despised Senator Simmons as they did no other man in North Carolina? Did he tell the voters why? For such men in public service as F. M. Simmons, let us again borrow words of Woodrow Wilson: "I thank God, and courage."

WELL KNOWN OFFICER RETIRES FROM ARMY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—Col. James N. Allison, chief commissary of the Eastern Division and one of the best known officers of the United States Army, was retired today on account of age. At the age of 14 Col. Allison enlisted as a private in the Thirty-ninth Kentucky Infantry, and served in the ranks of that command until the end of the civil war. In 1867 he received an appointment to West Point and graduated in 1871, among his classmates being the late Gen. Frederick D. Grant, Maj.-Gen. George W. Davis, Lieut. Frederick Schwatka, the Arctic explorer, and Lieut. John McKinney, who was killed by the Cheyennes in Wyoming. From 1871 until 1890 Colonel Allison was on duty in the West and in those years he became noted as an Indian fighter. In the war with Spain he was the chief commissary of the corps. After that he went to the Philippines, where he was in several of the hard campaigns that followed the war with Spain. Col. Allison's retirement leaves in the active ranks of the army only two officers who fought for the preservation of the Union a half century ago. They are Daniel W. Arnold, of the quartermaster's department, who will retire one week from today, and Col. John L. Clem, "the drummer boy of Chickamauga," who will reach the age limit next summer.
