COUNTY CORRESPONDENCE

who reports some improvement.

The first Sunday morning, Mr. Earnest Rose, of Pungo, and Miss Marietta Hodges, of West Lake, armed themselves with some legal documents and had them served on one H. S. Davenport, a sick preacher, at his home, commanding him to repair to the main road in front of his house and see that their marriage was legally solemnized. After the old gentleman had attended to his part of the business they released him and let him go. If this matter should get in the courts, Mrs. Katie White, of Belhaven, Mr. Thomas Williams and Mr. James Allen, of Pungo, will testify to the facts as herein set forth.

Mrs. Katie White, of Belhaven, who has been visiting her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Hodges, has returned to her home in Belhaven.

Mr. Earnest Rose and bride have gone to Roper, where they will make their future home. Mr. Rose is a popular bookkeeper for the Roper Co. The Roper Lumber Co. has bought out the Alleghana Co. and is surveying out the land.

NEWS FROM SMALL.

Well, we have had our primaries and some of our candidates are looking very much weather-beaten, but cheer up brethren. Rowe, Hooker and Ross we hope you will never be in such a scrape again. The way you look some of you must be very lucky.

The weather continues very hot, but our candidates are cooling off nicely.

Elder Harris filled his regular appointment Saturday night and Sunday at White Hill.

Mr. George Barnes, the famous comedian of Small, and also member of the Small cornet band, has a fever blister on his lip and not a red-headed negro in the place that he can kiss. What must be do?

Misses Ruth and Lillian Rowe are visiting in Pamlico county this week.

Elder Jesse Bennett is still confined to his room on account of a broken hip.

Misses Jesse and Eugena Hill, of Garter county, are visiting their aunt, Mrs. G. M. Hardy, this week.

Mrs. Mary Rowe spent Sunday night at the home of Mr. B. D. Rowe.

Mr. L. W. Spruill is having a large stock house built.

Mr. A. A. Holidia went to Greenville last week on business.

Mrs. Nancy Lee, a very old and highly respected lady, is suffering very much with cancer. She is at the home of her son, G. W. Lee, where she is shown every attention possible. She has our sympathy.

Now, I have heard that Mr. C. W. Holidia has been sporting some, and I expect that he can agree with the poet when he sang: Grace 'tis a charming sound, harmonious to the ear.

Prof. J. Gurganus owns a little dog named Poodle.

Well, I hate to tell it, but our baseball boys feel almost as bad this week as our candidates. They lost two games in Pamlico last week, and tied on the third, when they expected to win three. Wish you better luck next time, boys.

CARD OF THANKS.

I desire to express my deep appreciation to my many friends for their kindness to me during the recent sickness of my little daughter, Dorothy, who unfortunately was bitten by a rattlesnake while visiting in Pamlico county. I desire also to express publicly my appreciation of the service of Dr. P. A. Nicholson, my family physician, who so skillfully handled the intricate case. My little girl is now getting on nicely and no doubt will recover. Again I thank each and everyone.
J. SAMUEL HODGES.

Colon bacilli in C. C., 0.
Colon bacilli in 1 C. C., 0.

For the information of the public the following explanations printed on the back of the reports from the State Laboratory are appended:
Explanations.

Results are expressed as parts per million.

Alkalinity—Nearly all the waters of the State (all of the public water supplies) are naturally alkaline. An acid water, whether natural or due to an improper dosage of aluminum sulphate, will be found injurious to metal pipes and unsuitable for use in boilers.

Alum is found only acid water. A precipitate of aluminum hydrate may occasionally be found, having passed through an improperly working filter.

Chlorine—The normal amount varies greatly. In some localities near the coast it is as high as sixty or seventy parts per million, while in many regions it is below five parts.

A marked increase for the locality points toward pollution.

Nitrogen—Nitrogenous organic matter may exist in water as albuminoid nitrogen, ammonia, nitrites or nitrates. The first is due to the presence of vegetable or animal tissues. By decomposition this is changed to ammonia, and this in turn to nitrites usually indicates recent pollution by sewage or other organic matter. An excessive amount of nitrates points to a continued or past pollution.

Hardness is due to mineral matter in solution. The temporary hardness is removed by boiling. The permanent hardness may only be removed by the addition of some softening agent, such as soda.

The incrustants include all the scale-forming ingredients of water. Typhoid bacteria do not originate in water. They get into water only from contact with human beings or from human excreta. Their isolation from water is a rare occurrence, though unfortunately their presence is not so rare. The purity of water must be estimated by other means, chief of which is the presence or absence of colon bacillus.

Colon bacillus is an inhabitant of the intestines of man and other animals. Its presence in so small a quantity a stea cubic centimeter is undesirable, and if found in one cubic centimeter it is still more significant of pollution.

The acid-producing bacteria are in most cases colon bacilli, or other bacteria which indicate pollution.

Total Bacterial Count—All unsterilized water contains bacteria, most of them harmless. No absolute standard for all waters can be fixed. Bacteria usually increase after the sample is bottled.

Yours truly,
COLLIN H. HARDING,
Mayor.

BETTER SCHOOLS AND BETTER FARMING GO HAND IN HAND.
Salem Township, in Granville Co., N. C., voted a special tax for schools two years ago. This gives them double the number of teachers at much better salaries and also increases considerably the length of term.

A patron of one of the schools in this township, came into my office a short time after the beginning of the term, and in talking about the school made this statement:

"I had always been in the habit of stopping my boys from school whenever I needed them to dig potatoes or gather corn, or plow. This year, however, I found trouble in carrying out this custom for the boys began to kick when I suggested that they stay at home to work on the farm, even if it was for only one day at a time. They complained that the other members of the class would get ahead of them and that the teachers made do extra work when they missed time from school. To my surprise I found out that they were interested in their lessons and making greater progress than I had thought possible, so I went to town, bought a two-horse plow and let them go on to school."

—J. F. Webb, in The Progressive Farmer.
