

Probably Fair Tonight and Tomorrow

REV. NATHANIEL HARDING, THE RECTOR OF ST. PETERS TO CELEBRATE

Has Been Rector of That Church For Thirty Nine Years. Many Will Greet Him Tomorrow.

A most auspicious event is to take place in Washington tomorrow and the place will be St. Peter's Episcopal church. Tomorrow marks the thirty-ninth anniversary of the rectorship of Rev. Nathaniel Harding at St. Peter's and no doubt the beloved and popular rector will be greeted by a large congregation, not only members of his congregation, but citizens generally who hold him in the very highest esteem.

The anniversary on tomorrow will be fittingly observed. There will be a mid-day celebration of the Holy Communion. The rector asks that all members of his church be present and assist him in celebrating the Holy Eucharist. The preacher will be Rev. Fred Skinner, rector of St. Paul's parish, Beaufort, N. C. Rev. Mr. Skinner is secretary of the diocese of East Carolina. He is a speaker of magnetism and those who hear him will be amply repaid. Rev. Mr. Harding is one of Washington's most popular citizens and the Daily News joins in extending congratulations to him for his long life of service as a shepherd to his flock and in wishing him many happy and joyous returns.

EVIDENCE OF WOOLEN TRUST MAGNATES

By Clyde H. Tavener. Special to This Newspaper.

Washington, Sept. 14.—Further evidence of how the multi-millionaire woolen trust magnates "protect" their employees in return for sufficient protection to allow them to overcharge 90,000,000 American consumers on every article of clothing they buy, is revealed in the arrest at Lawrence, Mass., of William M. Wood, head of the Woolen Trust.

Mr. Wood is charged with placing dynamite in the homes of $7, 25 and $7 a week foreign mill workers in an attempt to discredit their cause while they were on a strike last winter as a protest against a reduction of wages.

Mr. Wood's arrest is worthy of the attention of every man, woman and child in the country who wears woollens. Because of the fact that Mr. Wood and his fellow woolen trust magnates contribute heavily to Republican campaign funds, Congress has been in the habit of placing the tariff on woollens high enough to keep out all competitors, so that the woolen trust could be free to charge any price they desired, up to the limit of the ability of the people to pay. The result is that Americans are paying from thirty to one hundred per cent. more for woolen clothing and blankets than the residents of Great Britain pay.

The story of the career of Mr. Wood provides a curious paradox. He is the oppressor of 150,000 miserable New England textile workers; a few years ago he was one of them. In his youth he felt the sting of hunger himself, but now he is pitiless in his thoughts of his employees. He has grown enormously rich, but declares that from 4 to 9 a week is enough for those who labor in his mills.

It is said of many captains of industry that they are ignorant of the conditions of the workers who earn their fortunes for them; that if they knew the distress of their employees they would seek to remedy it. Not so with Wood. He knows. Their distress he sees. Their cries he hears.

Wood's father was a Portuguese Jew emigrant. He labored in a cotton mill and died of tuberculosis, a disease common to cotton and wool spinners. The father's name is believed to have been Alphonso Le-Hair, or Le-Vair.

When the woolen mill employees, which are composed of 42 different nationalities, most of whom cannot speak in English, went on a strike the fathers and mothers decided to send their babes and little children away to friends in other cities in order that they might not suffer from hunger during the strike. Mr. Wood's agents beat the women, and tore the little ones from their mothers' arms when the children were about to be placed on trains. Thus did Mr. Wood "protect" his employees.

Are the American people willing to continue to contribute to Mr. Wood's woolen trust? There is only one day every two years when the consumers have an opportunity to express themselves on this subject. That day comes on November 5th.

Republicans for Wilson. Thousands of progressive Republicans will vote for the Democratic nominee for the Presidency, in the opinion of Rudolph Spreckels of San Francisco, close friend of Senator LaFollette and long prominent in the Republican party of California.

"I have given many years of my time and support to the progressive Republican cause and to honest effort to eliminate political bosses and bring about the establishment of a just and truly representative government, and shall continue to make that fight within my party; but I feel it my duty to support Governor Wilson at the coming election, believing it to be the only proper course left open for one who is sincerely interested in the establishment of progressive legislation in our nation at the earliest moment."

Today I held a conference with Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, who stands out as the foremost figure in this nation as a protector of the lives and health of our children, and he informs me that he is opposed to the election of either President Taft or Theodore Roosevelt, because both failed during their administrations to properly support the fight against

ILLINOIS TOWN TO CELEBRATE.

Mr. Harry Suesman and Mr. P. Orleans are back from Norfolk, where they went to help celebrate the Jewish New Year Festival.

the rich manufacturers of harmful foods and drugs."

Roosevelt Overlooks Himself. Mr. Roosevelt declares that Barnes, Penrose and Guggenheim work hand in hand with the big interests. This is all true. How about Mr. Roosevelt himself?

It was not at the solicitation of Barnes and Penrose and Guggenheim that Edward H. Harriman raised a political corruption fund of $200,000. It was at the solicitation of Theodore Roosevelt.

It was not Barnes and Penrose and Guggenheim who, according to Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, bucked the Pure Food Law. That was done by Theodore Roosevelt.

It was not Barnes and Penrose and Guggenheim who failed to bring the machinery of the law into play to send George W. Perkins to the penitentiary for violating the Sherman Law in organizing the illegal harvest trust, and who then accepted Perkins' millions to run for a third term for President. That was Theodore Roosevelt.

Speaking of Remark. After all, the real significance of the vote in Vermont recently was not the size of the Bull Moose vote or the heavy inroads it made into the regular Republican vote, but the splendid showing made by the Democrats their strength from 16,000 in 1905 to 30,350 in 1912. This means that the party not only stood solid as a rock, absolutely united, but it drew to itself a large Republican vote.

GREAT BATTLE 50 YEARS AGO IS RECALLED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14.—Fifty years ago today the national capital was anxiously awaiting news of the outcome of the great battle that was being fought by the Union and Confederate armies at South Mountain, less than fifty miles distant from Washington. This battle was really the decisive one of the Maryland campaign and led to the great fight at Antietam three days later.

South Mountain is spur of the Blue Ridge range, extending north of the Potomac from Harper's Ferry. There are two passes through the mountains, one known as Turner's gap and the other as Crampton's gap. The first-named affords a passage from Frederick to Williamsport, while Crampton's gap, a few miles to the South, gives a similar opening to Harper's Ferry.

General Lee, after the victory at Bull Run on August 30, had crossed the Potomac and invaded Maryland. A few days later he divided his forces, sending "Stonewall" Jackson to capture Harper's Ferry. To relieve Harper's Ferry, Gen. McClellan ordered Gen. Franklin to force Crampton's gap. The battles of the 14th were fought to wrest these positions from the Confederates.

As Gen. Lee's object in occupying and holding these positions to delay the Federal advance until the capture of Harper's Ferry and the concentration of his forces, they were held tenaciously. Gen. Hill, reinforced by Longstreet's corps, succeeded in holding Turner's gap until the day was ended. Gen. Franklin forced Crampton's gap late in the afternoon, but not soon enough to relieve Harper's Ferry. This important point fell into the hands of the Confederates and Gen. Lee was enabled to unite his forces for the battle of Antietam.

Robert Houston Broom, one of the leading ministers of the North Carolina Conference and pastor of the First Methodist church in the thriving town of Washington, is a Monroe boy and is a son of Mr. G.
