3. In order to make more effective the general Drainage Law, authorizing the creation of drainage districts, and to encourage the movement for the drainage of wet lands throughout the State, we favor a law creating a Drainage Department, to exist either independently or as a branch of the Geologic & Economic Survey, and which among other provisions, shall authorize the employment of one or more skilled drainage engineers to furnish preliminary advice and assistance wherever required.

CROWDS VISIT HUB TO SEE MILLINERY

Once again, the Hub demonstrated its attractiveness in the millinery department. Their annual fall and winter opening occurred yesterday and today and was a crowning success so much so that the outlook for the coming season is the very brightest in their history. Their late creations in headgear, was the cynosure of all and much praised. The ladies have examined this well known emporium all day yesterday and today and the management is being highly complimented. The Hub is one of the city's popular stores and in no department are they more popular than their millinery. To visit this department this season is to be convinced that no town in North Carolina has a more attractive or more attractive millinery display.

BEAUFORT COUNTY BOY A MUSICAL GENIUS

"You was the Girl I Love," the product of a North Carolina boy and a Beaufort County one at that, in the person of Mr. Jesse B. Hardy of Aurora, N. C., has just been published and the Daily News acknowledges with a hearty copy.

The music is by Mr. C. H. Hartford. It is very attractively gotten up and those who have tried it pronounce it one of the successes of the season. Mr. Hardy is only 21 years of age. This late attraction for musical favor has already been rendered on the stage with marked success by some of America's well-known artists and although of short life its success has been phenomenal. The young composer is credited to this young and energetic composer. It goes to show what push and energy can do. "You was the Girl I Love" is destined to occupy an attractive niche in the musical world and the Daily News is delighted to know that a Beaufort County boy is its author. Mr. Hardy has a bright and promising future. The music can be purchased from the W. K. Kirsch Dugdale Company, Inc., 123 and 124 You streets, Washington, D. C.

The Overseers International Union found three charters during the last month, and negotiated four working agreements providing for an increase in wages and a shorter work-day.

A resolution was then introduced to amend the constitution of two years ago.

Whereas, in a convention assembled two years ago a resolution was adopted committing the Democratic party to a two term policy for its county officers; and whereas, in the recent primary held the people did not ratify this policy.

Be it now resolved, That the action of the convention two years ago was not in accordance with the wishes of the people and it being the sense of the convention that the will of the people shall be supreme, the resolution adopted two years ago is hereby this convention rescinded.

A motion to table was adopted by the convention.

Mr. A. D. MacLean offered the following resolution:

Resolved by this convention, That the representatives from Beaufort county and the senators from this district be instructed to pass a law putting the recorders and clerks of the recorder's courts of the Washington, Aurora and Belhaven districts on salary, with a provision further that in all cases a defendant indicted in either of said courts shall upon demand be entitled a trial by jury and that a committee composed of three men from Aurora district, three from Pantogo district and nine from the Washington district, be appointed to formulate a bill in conformity with this resolution and with such further details as they may deem essential, including a reduction of costs and the chairman of the executive committee be requested to appoint the said committee and notify the appointees. That the committee from each district shall fix the salary for its district.

The chairman of this convention authorized to appoint a committee of three to re-draft the primary law for Beaufort county. Resolution adopted.

SPOILED CORN EXPOSURE IS URGED BY U. S. EXPERT

International Congress of Hygiene Has Been in Session in the Capitol City. Provincial Boards of Health Also Held Sessions.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—The International Congress of Hygiene has been in session several days here and last week the State and provincial boards of health held semi-annual papers were read by a number of the most prominent physicians and scientists, representing almost every civilized country. Although much routine work was carried out, there were a number of the most prominent physicians and scientists, representing almost every civilized country. Although much routine work was carried out, there were a number of unexpected ideas developed, as when Professor William T. Sedgwick, of the Massachusetts School of Technology declared that many people are too busy about milk and advised his hearers to use eggs, milk and meat for food even they were a little below the standard and not to reject a whole beef animal, merely because some of its parts were affected with tuberculosis.

On the other hand, Dr. Lloyd B. Magruder, of Washington, produced figures to show that the typhoid fever death rate has been on the decrease since 1907, in the District of Columbia, on account of proper inspection and care of the milk and water supply and asserted that with these necessities pure, the disease could be wiped out entirely. W. F. Wells, engineer of the Washington filtration plants, declared that while there is no such thing as absolutely pure water, water relatively pure decreased the danger of typhoid to a great extent and of other diseases five times as much as typhoid.

Sharp criticism of the theories advanced by Dr. Woods Hutchinson and others that tuberculosis and other diseases are largely hereditary was made by Dr. S. A. Knopf. He argued that these much dreaded diseases are acquired from direct contact with consumptives, also from infected milk. Dr. F. Shoemaker, special medical officer of the Indian service, started his hearers by declaring that out of every 1,000 Indians 508 die of consumption. With the negroes, the percentage, he said, is smaller, 80 out of every thousand losing their lives by consumption.

A strict law prohibiting the exposure for sale of spoiled corn was urged by Doctor Claude H. Lavinder, of the United States Public Health Service, as the best means of eradicating pellagra. According to Dr. Lavinder, the disease, first appeared in this country in 1907, since which time 30,000 cases resulting in 10,000 deaths have come under the observation of physicians. This he ascribes largely to the fact that in many of the Southern states 90 per cent of the corn meal used for food is bad. In proof that spoiled corn is largely responsible for the disease, Dr. Lavinder said that since Italy has restricted the sale of the tainted grain, the number of cases has been reduced in one year from 150,000 to 20,000. The question of hermetically sealed coffins containing bodies of persons dying of infectious diseases, whose those bodies are to be shipped from one state, district or territory, to another, was discussed at great length at the conferences of state and provincial boards, which subsequently voted that these coffins should be abolished. Dr. W. J. Rankin, of North Carolina, led the fight for the abolition of the hermetically sealed casket.

Dr. Knopf prescribed the following rules for school children, for the prevention of consumption and other diseases: "Do not put your fingers into your mouth. Do not hold money or pins in your mouth. Keep your face, hands and nails clean. Keep yourself as clean at home as you do at school. Do not kiss anyone on the mouth, nor allow anyone to kiss you in that way. Breathe fresh air deeply and often."

A great hygienic exposition is in progress, under the auspices of the International Congress of Hygiene, where there are a great many interesting exhibits. An electric globe into which light flashed every ten seconds, with a notice that every time the light flashed a child died somewhere in the civilized world, furnished the magnet that drew scores. In the midst of the shining apparatus and orderly exhibits in the Red Cross building is a pile of dirty potatoes, a number of spotted pies, musty bread and bad meat, which made visitors to the exhibition amazed at the disorder of the display. The pie, bread and other eatables were lying on a wooden counter, and underneath were uncovered barrels, containing apples, sugar and other things to eat. In the midst of this heap was the figure of a fox terrier, with one foot on a potato. The explanation of the disorder was in a sign reading, "A bad store," and opposite another sign reading "A good store," placed above a clean counter, on which were arranged plates of pies, bread, cakes and other eatables neatly covered with glass. These two displays were placed in the building by the market committee of the Woman's Municipal League, to show the difference between bad and good groceries.

Men who have borne the brunt of the battle against disease arrived here from 33 foreign nations and practically every State and Territory and possession of the United States, during the early part of the week.

Attraction at School Building Is a Trip Around the World

Attention is again called to the Trip Around the World, which is to be given tonight at the Washington Public School building at 8:30 o'clock. This journey is to be given in the interest of the student Athletic Association of the High School.

In order to have a successful season the city must give the necessary financial support. The trip through the old country tonight will prove one of the most attractive and interesting journeys the people of Washington have taken in years. All four countries will be at your disposal. Some of the natives in each country will be present to greet you and also to serve all callers refreshments in keeping with the customs of the respective countries.

See America first, then Ireland, then visit Egypt and Japan and then back again to the land of the free and the home of the brave. The round trip will cost but 40c for one ticket and 75c for two. School children are given an opportunity to visit the countries for the small price of 25c. Each country visited will cost each 10c. Tickets are now on sale at Hardy's Drug Store and the Hoyt Drug Company.

The occasion tonight is anticipated by every one with great pleasure and it behooves every local citizen to aid the cause.

MISS HENRY'S OPENING CONSPICUOUS SUCCESS

Another successful millinery opening is being held at the store of Miss Henry today. Her opening began on yesterday and she has been visited by a large number of lady callers inspecting her elaborate display.

Miss Henry is a customer of ability and taste and her work for the coming season has been much admired. The outlook for her coming season is auspicious. Her display of hats both Parisian and domestic are all that could be desired.

HOYT MILLINERY OPENING A GREAT SUCCESS

The well-known store of Mr. J. K. Hoyt yesterday and today is being visited by ladies not only from Washington but the surrounding country. This display of millinery this season at this leading emporium has been much admired and Mr. Hoyt and his head milliner, Miss Rosa Stocks, have again demonstrated their ability to please the ladies judging by the large number of hats sold during the opening. The opening which started early yesterday morning has been the most successful in the history of this well known store. Mr. Hoyt gives much of his time to this department and that he is succeeding in his efforts is evidenced by his generous patronage. The display of hats this season both Parisian and domestic have never been surpassed in Washington. The opening is a conspicuous success so much so that Mr. Hoyt and Miss Stocks are the recipient of numerous congratulations which are justly merited.

The Hoyt millinery department is a mecca for the ladies and doubtless will be throughout the entire season. Seeing is believing, and the Daily News asks all to call and inspect.

Both members are young men of excellent business ability.
