COLONEL ROOSEVELT SHOT BY A SOCIALIST WHO CLAIMS INSPIRATION

Attempted Assassination of ex-President Made in Milwaukee by an Unidentified Man. Is Weak From Loss of Blood

HE STOPPED LYNCHING

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 15.—Theodore Roosevelt was shot in the breast here last night by an unidentified man. The extent of the injury is unknown. With a bullet in his body, Col. Roosevelt went to the auditorium to make his speech. He refused to permit physicians to examine the wound until he had finished his speech. At 9:10 o'clock he was still speaking although weak from loss of blood.

Colonel Roosevelt's physician refused to express an opinion whether the colonel's injury was serious until he had examined the wound.

It is believed Roosevelt's injury is not serious. The colonel felt no pain at the time the shot was fired and was not aware he was shot until he was on the way to the auditorium. His attention was then called to a hole in his overcoat and he found his shirt was soaked with blood. He insisted he was not badly hurt. A superficial examination was made when he reached the auditorium and three physicians agreed he was in no immediate danger.

Colonel Roosevelt saw his assailant arrested and taken to the police station.

Henry F. Cochems seized the man and held him until policemen came up. A mob surged around the prisoner, who apparently is mentally upset on the subject of Roosevelt's running for another term as President.

The man, who is small of stature, admitted firing the shot, and said that "any man looking for a third term ought to be shot."

In notes found in the man's pockets at his police station was a statement that the assailant had been visited in a dream by the spirit of William McKinley, who had said, indicating Colonel Roosevelt, "This is my murderer; avenge my death."

Colonel Roosevelt's life probably was saved by a manuscript of the speech which he delivered last night. The bullet struck the manuscript which retarded its force as it passed through into the flesh. His assailant was prevented from firing a second shot by Albert H. Martin, one of Col. Roosevelt's two secretaries. Colonel Roosevelt had just stepped into an automobile when the would-be assassin pushed his way through the crowd. Martin, who was standing in the car with the colonel, leaped onto the man's shoulders and bore him to the ground. Captain A. O. Girard, of Milwaukee, who was in front seat jumped almost at the same time, and in an instant the man was overpowered and disarmed. A wild cry of "lynch him," went up. Col. Roosevelt spoke to the people and told them to spare the man who then was taken into the hotel and held there until he was removed to the police station.

In spite of the entreaties of physicians, Colonel Roosevelt insisted upon delivering his address.

"I will make this speech or die, one or the other," he said.

Henry F. Cochems, one of the Wisconsin Progressive leaders, told the great crowd assembled in the auditorium that Colonel Roosevelt had been shot and asked the people to be calm. The crowd was thrown almost into a panic by the announcement. Colonel Roosevelt himself calmed the people by rising and assuring them he was not badly hurt. Then he began his address. Several times he seemed to be growing weak and members of his party rose to help him. He motioned them to sit down.

"Let me alone; I'm all right," he said.

A written proclamation found in the clothing of the man who did the shooting reads:

"September 15, 1912. "September 15, 1901, 1.30 a. m., in a dream I saw President McKinley sit up in a monk's attire, in whom I recognized Theodore Roosevelt. The President said, 'This is my murderer. Avenge my death.'"

"September 12, 1912, 1.30 a. m., while writing a poem, some one tapped me on the shoulder and said, 'Let not a murderer take the presidential chair. Avenge my death.' "I could plainly see Mr. McKinley's features.

"Before the Almighty God I swear this above writing is nothing but the truth."

Another note found in the man's pocket read:

"So long as Japan could rise to the greatest power of the world despite her surviving tradition more than 2,000 years old as General Nogi so nobly demonstrated, it is the duty of the United States of America to uphold the third term tradition. Let every third term be regarded as a traitor to the American cause. Let it be the right and duty of every citizen to forcibly remove a third term. Never let a third term party emblem appear on the official ballot.

"I am willing to die for my country. God has called me to be his instrument, so help me God. (Signed) "INNOCENT GUILTY."

(Written in German) "A strong tower is our God."

ALL ABOARD FOR THE FAIR

GREATEST REVIEW OF WAR SHIPS IS SEEN BY PRESIDENT

New York, Oct. 15.—Never before has such an armada been brought together for review in American waters as that represented by the 15-mile-long string of war vessels that sailed past President Taft and Secretary of the Navy Meyer on this, the crowning day of the great mobilization of the Atlantic fleet. The aggregate tonnage of the craft exceeded 700,000 as compared with 576,534 tons represented in the naval mobilization here last year.

As the ships filed past he Mayflower they kept up a constant roar of salutes. The bugles sounded "four rifles," the signal for the bluejackets to man the rails, while the quarter-decks were black with officers and marine guards. Red-coated bands on the five flagships of the fleet played the National Anthem, while "bo'suns' whistles" piped out the order of the day.

After passing in review of the President at 12 knots an hour and reaching for the open sea, the fleet was to be disbanded, some of the ships returning to Southern waters, while others are to depart for their several home stations to prepare for the winter maneuvers in the South.

Several hours were consumed in the exchange of official visits and in the final arrangements for the great parade of the gray armada that for nearly a week had swung at anchor in the Hudson. Finally the booming of a gun announced to the thousands of waiting spectators that the great naval spectacle was about to begin.

The fleet reviewed by the President was not only the most powerful ever gathered in one American command, but was also equally remarkable as a homogeneous fighting force. In comparison with the similar event of last year today's mobilization demonstrated, to all appearances, a considerably greater readiness of vessels in the Atlantic than at any previous time, and indicated the manner in which vessels of the reserve fleet might be called into active service in case of need.

Naval officials express the belief that the great gathering of war craft will prove a very valuable form of training to all branches of the navy in coordinating the many details of preparation for the mobilization of such an impressive force.

B. H. THOMPSON WISHES TO HAVE A JOINT DEBATE

Aurora, N. C., Sept. 30. Major W. C. Rodman, Washington, N. C. My Dear Sir: You have no doubt seen my announcement in the papers and therefore know that I am an independent candidate for the office of legislator. I have decided to canvass the county in the interest of such reform measure as I am advocating in order that the public may hear both sides of the discussion and from the discussion ascertain as to who their choice would be in the next General Assembly, I hereby invite you to make the canvas with me, and offer an equal division of time at each point, and suggest that if this arrangement meets your approval, you indicate the same by return mail and suggest a convenient day in the very near future when we or our representatives can meet in Washington and arrange a joint canvas between us, and properly advertise same.

RUNAWAY ON MAIN ST. INJURES THREE PERSONS

There came near being a serious runaway on West Main street Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock Mr. W. E. Moore, of Chocowinity, with his two daughters in the buggy, while on his way home in passing the automobile of Mr. J. Havens, which was standing in front of the residence of Mrs. Satchwell, the horse took fright. Mr. G. A. Phillips, with a party of friends in his auto, was on his way down Main street. In attempting to run and when opposite the machine of Mr. Phillips, the animal succeeded in turning the buggy over, throwing out the occupants. The horse then relieved himself of the buggy and in a dead run made his way across the bridge. Mr. Moore and both daughters were injured, but not seriously. They were carried to the Washington Hospital for treatment.
