CONSUMPTION VS WAR

Simple Truths and Facts for Our Readers.
Consumption seems to be taking more people each year. It is a disease that is baffling the Medical Profession. It was discovered some years ago however, that it is a germ disease and is not inherited as was once thought. The people that are burdened with consumption are each day setting free a lot of these tubercular germs and as there are more people than ever before suffering with this horrible disease, of course more germs are freed each day and thereby causing more new cases. If our readers would pay more attention to the weak members of their family by keeping their system and lungs in a good healthy condition, the high ratio of Consumptive victims would be greatly decreased. If consumption is a germ and the germ only acts on weak lungs, why not keep your lungs in good condition? Never go through the winter with a hacking cough, nor from day to day with pains through your lungs and your system in a nervous run-down condition. Negligence on the above which is oftentimes not considered serious, many times turns out to be so.
A remedy by the name of Bear's Emulsion has recently been brought to our attention by numerous articles appearing in the papers written by prominent people that have used the remedy, who have been sufferers of lung trouble. If this remedy proves to act on every one as it has on those who have written testimonials, it will be a great thing for our country, as Consumption has killed more people in four years since the Civil War than were killed during the 4 years of the Civil War.

Insanity is to be the plea of Chicago's society burglar. Crazy for other people's jewelry, no doubt.
A woman left the Arctic circle to get married in Boston. Probably been up there to get acclimated.
Men accuse women of being slaves to fashion and still wear straw hats when it is cold enough for earmuffs.
Eating lunch every day in ten minutes is another form of speed mania that is responsible for many deaths.
What puzzles us is that any one should try to swim the English channel when it is so cheap to ride across.
Once more the last of the passenger pigeons has died. That bird will accomplish the feat once too often some day.
Lightning has come to the front as a cure for rheumatism. But it is hardly likely many will be struck with the remedy.
In abolishing child labor the reformers should be careful not to make mother wash all the dishes and wipe them, too.
Scientists have discovered how to make artificial daylight. They need not expect to see any of it in the lobster palaces.
People who love their fellow men will note with pleasure that some aviators are learning to fall without being injured.
The numerous diamond disappearances now reported indicate the presence of some clever thieves or clever press agents.
The average college yell may be a weird affair, but it is as dignified as a funeral in comparison with the average campaign yell.
One Harvard scientist has succeeded in making hot ice, which would be of no use at all on the morning after the night preceding.
A Brooklyn man who was bitten by a pickered wants to know if fish can have hydrophobia. Not unless it's a dogfish, we should say.
Side whiskers are to come into fashion again and the youth who cannot raise a mustache will thus find that life has its compensations.
Professor Metchnikoff says one may by eating carrots prolong one's life. Why is it that everything which prolongs life is so unpleasant?
A jeweler informs us that the average watch has 175 pieces. And in our particular watch each piece has a grudge against its neighbor.
Verily there is something worse than capital punishment. For instance, a Chicago judge has sentenced a man to 30 days in Pittsburg.
Nevada boasts of a spring whose water tastes like chicken soup, but restaurants have been serving the same stuff for 10, these many years.
Winning with Wilson means more than a mere Democratic victory, it means restoring 1901 prosperity.

INTERESTING NOTES FROM STATE UNIVERSITY
Chapel Hill, Nov. 11.—As to what occupations college men engage in after graduating has long since been a subject of speculative interest and thought to the people out in the State. The interest, perhaps, comes from the variety of occupations that college graduates pursue on leaving the schools of higher education. The statistics as recently compiled as to the pursuits engaged in by the 1912 graduating class of the University of North Carolina furnishes interesting reading matter. Of 82 members of the class a classification of their present occupations is as follows: 30 are teaching, 23 of the number teaching in the public schools of the state; 11 are studying law; four are studying medicine; ten are in business; three are in electrical work; two are engaged in public road engineering; four are pursuing graduate studies; two are farming; one engaged in Y. M. C. A. work; two are studying for the ministry, and two are engaged in national government service.
Prof. N. W. Walker, state inspector of public schools, and E. K. Graham, dean of the school of liberal arts of the University, will represent the University at the sessions of the Southern Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools, which convenes in Spartanburg, S. C., on November 14 and 15.
The Christian denomination is erecting a church in Chapel Hill. Dr. W. S. Long, former president of Elon College, is instrumental in having this edifice constructed for the Christian faith of the community. With the erection of this church, five religious denominations will have homes for worship in Chapel Hill.
There were no poles discovered in our early youth, but it gladdens us to reflect that the kids of today have more geography to study than we did.
Not all the violets on the street are real—not all the roses bloom in fair faces are genuine. Thus the work of improving on nature moves merrily on.
Now that kisses are being printed on post cards, the government probably will have to rescind its order barring the asbestos kind from the mails.
A female fly lays 120,000 eggs in a single season; but that's because she don't spend three-fourths of her time cackling over it.
Elbert Hubbard recommends baseball as a cure for "nerves." Evidently Elbert isn't really interested in any pleasant outcomes.
Now it appears that the English beauty who planned to see the United States in two days is an actress. Score another point for the alert press agent.
LEAVES FOR WESTERN MARKETS.
Mr. B. L. Susman, president Washington Horse Exchange Company, left this morning over the Norfolk Southern for St. Louis, where he will purchase for his firm a car load of young horses and a car load of young broke mules. This stock will arrive on Monday, November 18th. This is the sixth car load of stock that the well known concern has handled this season.

THE DIFFERENCE
Have you ever observed the difference between a dark murky day and a bright "sunshiny" one when all nature seems "a-shining." Have you noticed the difference between your disposition, capacity, etc., on a blue Monday and then on a beautiful sunny Thursday?
In one case, everything goes wrong—in the other, everything is "just right" and everybody feels fine.
That is exactly the difference between good light and poor light—the difference between Fostoria Mazda light and any other light. Your home, store or factory will be a different place if you have Fostoria Mazdas.
This life is short—too short to go without the good things that you can have at no greater expense than the poor ones you are getting. Let us help you figure out just what you can have in the lighting line for what you are now paying and what you can have for a lot less.
