WILLIAM J. BRYAN'S TRIBUTE TO WOMAN

Last at the Cross and First at the Sepulchre—North and South United.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—At the laying of the corner-stone of the Confederate monument by the Daughters in Arlington cemetery yesterday, William J. Bryan was the orator of the day. He was presented by Mrs. Frank G. Odenheimer, first vice-president general.

Mr. Bryan said in part: "It is appropriate that the erection of this monument should be entrusted to the United Daughters of the Confederacy—that splendid organization which has called for the energies of the women of the South and brought them into co-operation in the doing of so much for the welfare of their sections and the country.

"Women—last at the cross and first at the sepulchre—holds undisputed sway on occasions like this. Her ministrations invoke the sweet and sacred memories that link us to a brilliant past, while she points us to the brighter visions of the future.

"The North and South jointly contributed to the causes that produced the war between the States. Enormous as was the cost and bitter as were the animosities that were aroused, charity and forgiveness have sprung up like flowers from the battlefields and their fragrance will endure.

"The capital city is the place for such a monument and we must confess that it is not complimentary to us that its building has been so long delayed. In this throbbing heart of the nation's political life the monument whose corner-stone we lay today will stand as a visible proof of the harmony and concord that make our nation one. History furnishes no parallel; there is nothing with which to compare the remarkable experience through which our nation passed. Behold a nation—an indissoluble union of inextinguishable States—settling the world an example in the solution of problems as weighty as ever pressed for consideration—a nation in which the sections, with affection unabated for those who wore the colors of the respective armies, now mingle their sorrow for those who fell and their regard for those who survive.

"No lot this monument be emblematic of our nation's unity of aim and purpose. Standing on the line that once separated two unfriendly sections, it becomes a bond of unity and, breathing the spirit of Him who laid the foundations of a universal brotherhood, it will be to the country a promise of never ending good will."

At a meeting of the Arlington Confederate Monument Association of the U. D. C., this morning announcement was made that about $39,000 had already been raised for the monument to be erected in Arlington cemetery in the section set apart for the Confederate dead. This leaves $50,000 still to be obtained.

The largest sum credited to any one State is that of Virginia. Mrs. Thos. S. Bobeck, director for the State of Virginia, reported a total of $1,259.54 subscribed by Daughters of the Confederacy in the Old Dominion.

THE BOSTONIA SEXTETTE CLUB HERE TUESDAY

Will be the Second Attraction of the Lyceum Course for the Present Season.

The Bostonia Sextette Club will be the next attraction in the Lyceum Course for Washington this season. The date for the appearance of the Sextette is Tuesday evening next November 19 in the Public School Auditorium.

The Bostonia Sextette Club was organized in September, 1898, and is today the most noted organization of its kind in the country. It has toured the United States repeatedly from ocean to ocean, and from Texas in the South to Prince Edward Island in the North, appearing in almost every State in the Union, and in all parts of the Province in Canada. It is still under the direction of Mr. C. L. Staats, the celebrated clarinet virtuoso, who was its founder, and under whose direction it has been each season ever since. Its success has been honestly earned on its own merits, and it does not rely on the prestige of any parent organization as a guarantee of its worth. It has established its reputation by ten years of successful concert-giving before the American public. Mr. Staats is an artist of international reputation and experience, having played in the leading musical organizations in Europe and America. He has filled the position of first clarinet in the Royal Italian Opera, Her Majesty's Theatre, London, at the Jardin d'Acclimatation in Paris, and at the Grand Casino in Ostend, Belgium. Here in the United States he is the most noted clarinetist on the concert stage, having played solo clarinet in Sousa's Band, and for years been a prominent member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. As a soloist he is today without a rival, and is the only clarinetist devoting his time to solo playing and high-class concert.

The playing of the club under the direction of Mr. Staats has never failed to please both the press and public, each selection being rendered with the utmost delicacy and perfection of ensemble.

Housebreaking and Bobbery Pinetown Saturday Night

Unknown parties broke into and robbed the Norfolk Southern depot express office, Messrs. F. L. Morris & Co.'s store and S. Parker's office Saturday night sometime during the night after 11 p. m.

Whiskey selling by reckless people is probably the cause and the lightness with which such crimes are dealt with lately in our courts.

We had a robbery about four months ago here and all parties got off with no punishment or very little.

From the express office they got two or three suits of clothing and the only package of walrus left in the office Saturday night.

They got among other things a counterfeit silver dollar from F. L. Morris Co. and some mutilated coins that have lately in the money drawer for years. Anyone being offered this bad dollar will please phone Pinetown, or Sheriff Ricks immediately and confer a favor.

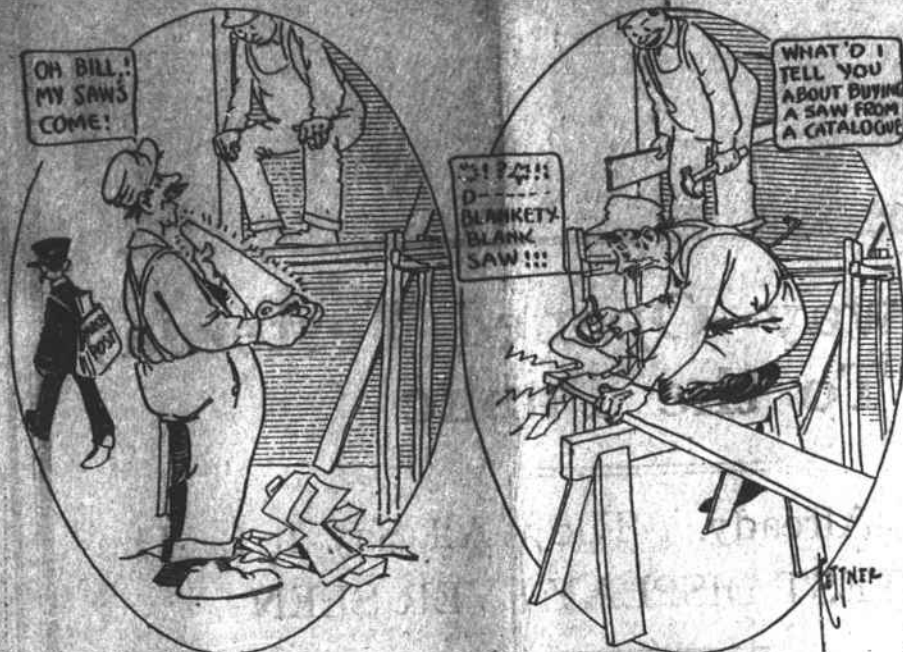

Rockless disregard for the law brought on by moonshining in this section is at the bottom of this crime and unless we have some improvement in the control of the whiskey business we are likely to have all sorts of troubles in the smaller towns and villages.

There is strong evidence pointing to some of the young white men around Pinetown and it is reported that the Southern Express Co. and Norfolk Southern Railway Co. have detectives working on the case and some arrest may be made any day.

ANOTHER BITTER DISAPPOINTMENT

ANTICIPATION REALIZATION

Dr. Carter Entertains the Beaufort County Society

The Beaufort County Medical Association held its regular meeting here last evening and the host of the association was Dr. H. W. Carter.

The doctor entertained his brothers of the profession at his attractive home on East Main street from 8 to 12 o'clock. Sometime since the members of the association resolved that each member should entertain the society at their residences. The function last evening was in keeping with the rule established. Dr. Carter assisted by his charming wife proved to be a model host and at no meeting of the society was the occasion more enjoyed. The regular business meeting of the association was held in the front parlor at Dr. Carter's residence. Dr. S. T. Nicholson, the president of the society, was indisposed and due to his absence Dr. John G. Blount, the vice-president, presided. At the business meeting Dr. H. W. Carter read a very interesting paper entitled "Etymology-Symptoms and treatment of Nasal Polypus."

After Dr. Carter had read his very interesting and profitable paper he demonstrated the anatomy of the parts with sections and cross sections of the human head. His paper was ably discussed by the members.

Clinical cases were reported by Drs. J. L. Nicholson, J. T. Nicholson, John G. Blount and V. T. Taylor. The business session was altogether one of the most interesting and profitable sessions ever held by the society.

After the business meeting all the members present were invited into the dining-room, where a sumptuous luncheon was served and a merry good time was had until the hour for departure. Dr. and Mrs. Carter proved model hosts.

The next meeting of the society will be entertained by Drs. D. T. and Joshua Taylor. No social function of the season was more enjoyed and the doctors are today loud in their praise of Dr. and Mrs. Carter as entertainers.

CORNERSTONE OF MONUMENT LAID TUESDAY

Fifteen Hundred Women of the South Present in Arlington Cemetery Washington City.

Washington, Nov. 13.—To the patriotic music of bands the fifteenth annual convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy was ushered in here yesterday. More than 1,500 women of Southern birth or lineage are present as delegates and already they are facing a formidable social program prepared for their entertainment. This actually began last night with a reception in the library of Congress at which more than 4,000 women were in attendance.

The feature of the day was the laying of the corner-stone of the Confederate monument in Arlington Cemetery. The ceremony was conducted by Colonel Hilary A. Herbert, former Secretary of the Navy, and William Jennings Bryan delivered the oration.

The convention will be formally opened tonight, when the delegates gather in Continental Hall and are formally welcomed to the national capital by President Taft. A group of Confederate flags then will be presented to the convention by Mrs. Fannie Ransom Williams, of North Carolina, setting for the donor, Orrin Randolph Smith, of that State. The convention then will settle down to business.

Almost innumerable receptions, teas and dinners are planned for the week, and the meeting of the Southern "Daughters" promises to establish a record for brilliancy in the annals of the capital.

Bishop Gibson There.

The Fifteenth Cavalry Band, Arthur S. Wilcomb, director, was on the program for the music for yesterday's ceremonies. Bishop Robert A. Gibson, of Virginia, was the chaplain of the occasion, pronouncing the invocation, and Dr. Randolph McKim, of Washington, was to close the ceremonies with benediction.

In the absence of Mrs. Alexander B. White, president-general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, Mrs. Frank G. Odenheimer, first vice-president, represented the order. She was accompanied by the other officers of the organization, and the committee in charge of the ceremonies headed by Mrs. Marlon Butler.

A Tribute to the South's Dead. The monument will stand in the center of the confederate section of the cemetery, among the graves of the Confederate soldiers brought there from the little out of the way grave yards and prison cemeteries throughout the country. The bodies were brought under an act of Con-

CONGRESSMAN SMALL WIRES THE NEW YORK AMERICAN AN INTERESTING MESSAGE

Some Congressional Problems. Reciprocity Treaties, Discriminating Duties and Tariff Revision.

Congressman John H. Small received the following wire of inquiry from the New York American this morning, which explains itself. In response to the wire Mr. Small dictated his reply, which is published below:

"Kindly telegraph the New York American—

"First. Whether you favor reciprocity treaties which would tend to decrease the cost of living.

"Second. Discrimination duties in favor of commodities carried in American ships which would tend to restore the American merchant marines as it flourished under Democratic administration for fifty years.

"Third. Do you favor immediate general tariff revision.

"Please telegraph; our expense."

"New York American," "New York."

"Replying your inquiry. First: I favor reciprocity treaties along broad lines and without undue discrimination against any section or group of products. Such impartial reciprocal trade agreements would assuredly promote interchange of products and reduce the cost of living upon many necessities. They should be framed primarily for the American people and not for the exclusive benefit of any class or section. Second: Every patriotic citizen must regard with humiliation the absence of American ships in our foreign trade. Much American capital is already invested in ships sailing under foreign flags, but such ships are still subject to the navigation laws of our trade competitors and manned by their officers and seamen. The Republican protective tariff is largely responsible for this condition and the restoration of reciprocal trade relations will tend gradually to restore American ships, but in the meantime some encouragement consistent with Democratic policies might be extended. Lower tariff duties upon commodities carried in American ships would have party justification. While such action might involve amendment to many of our treaties, we ought at least to make a beginning and thereby demonstrate to our commercial competitors that we intend to resume the national function of becoming our own carriers upon the ocean. Third: Most assuredly I favor tariff revision at the earliest opportunity. As a republic our governmental machinery is notoriously slow in responding to public sentiment in matters of legislation. In this respect the English people may enforce their will more quickly. The House of Representatives just chosen will not meet in regular session until December nineteen thirteen, more than a year after their election. This is now regarded as a political anomaly. The people have demanded tariff revision. If action should be postponed until the regular session the public conscience will have been chilled and the legislative duties of many members will be distracted by a campaign for re-election.

"President-elect Wilson should call Congress in extra session within 30 days after his inauguration and give expression to the public will by another historic tariff message. Such a revision can be accomplished without impairing any legitimate industry. The criterion should be the elimination of tariff favors, the restoration of industrial opportunity and the recognition of the consuming public.

gress passed some years ago, setting aside a plot in Arlington for the burial of Confederate soldiers.

When President Taft was secretary of War he granted to the District of Columbia branch of the United Daughters of the Confederacy permission to erect the monument to the Confederate dead. Later the aid of the entire organization throughout the South was enlisted. In a metal box placed in the corner-stone will rest a copy of the act of Congress authorizing the burial of the Confederate dead in Arlington, a copy of Secretary of War Taft's letter authorizing the raising of the monument, and tiny silk replicas of the state flags of the various Southern states, and one bearing the stars and stripes for the District of Columbia. The War Department cooperated with the Daughters in making arrangements for the laying of the corner-stone. The Fifteenth Cavalry Band furnished the music for the program.

80,000 RED-CROSS XMAS SEALS SHIPPED IN STATE

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 13.—Eight hundred thousand Red Cross Christmas Seals have been shipped into North Carolina through the State Red Cross Seal commission with headquarters in Charlotte. These are being sent out to the various cities of the State to be placed on sale during December.

Eighty thousand have been sent to Wilmington, where the sale of the seals is being promoted by a committee under the leadership of Mrs. Cuthbert Martin, president of the local chapter of the American National Red Cross Society.

Charlotte is planning to sell 100,000 seals. 50,000 have been sent to Asheville, and the same number to Winston-Salem. Raleigh gets 40,000 and other cities in proportion. The smaller cities are falling into line also. Troy gets 2,000 seals, Oxford 10,000 and Elkin 1,500. No community is too small and none too large to have its share. All the money received from the sale of these Christmas stamps goes to help fight tuberculosis. The seals are used as decorations on Christmas letters and packages sent by mail or express, and are much more decorative than much of the fancy paper and ribbons used. They are very decorative and deservedly popular. Every one who buys these Red Cross Seals is helping to stamp out the dread disease, tuberculosis.
