Great Football Game Here on Tomorrow Afternoon at Fleming Park 3 o'Clock

Opposing Teams Are Local High School Team and the Donaldson's Military Academy.

Perhaps for the first time in the history of the town, the people of Washington will have an opportunity to see a genuine game of football on Thanksgiving afternoon, at this time the local High will line up against the eleven representing Donaldson's Military Academy of Lafayette, N. C. The game has been arranged with an eye to giving the people of Washington, who do not go to Richmond or Norfolk an opportunity to see a really good game of football, for this game promises to be the hardest fought battle of the year. Donaldson would rejoice to win the Thanksgiving game and to capture the first contest between the two schools. But over against this the local High are determined to put their best into the game for they are anxious to win the closing game of a very successful season, and to show the people of Washington whom they expect to be present that they have a team of which they are proud. Word has come to us from the camp of the enemy that they have some exceedingly good material and it is useless to say they will put their best into the game.

As has just been said, the local High have had a very successful season. Out of six games played they have won five, scoring an aggregate of 93 points; and if they should win the Thanksgiving game, the percentage of games won will be upwards of 70. The team, however, can't win victories in itself. They need your hearty support and this support you will have an opportunity to give by being at Fleming Park Thanksgiving afternoon at 3 o'clock. Heretofore it has been customary to ask the citizens of Washington to make contributions to the High School athletic fund. This year, although we have a much more expensive schedule than we have previously had, we are trying to avoid this if possible. You can aid us by being present Thanksgiving afternoon, but if you should be kept away we would suggest that you send along by a friend the price of your ticket. Much depends upon the Thanksgiving game. Besides aiding the team, you will be repaid, for the game promises to be an interesting, as well as a close one from the moment the referee blows his whistle. The admission will only be fifteen and twenty-five cents and it is hoped that you will go out and help your team win.

A word about the personnel of the team and the positions they play. At fullback, Sam Fowle (capt.) may be seen. "Boggs" as he is called, is certainly one of the best High School backs in the State. In line plunging, he is a wonder; but his is not all for often times he may be seen tearing off 10' to 15' yards around the end. He is probably the very best man for the place in the team which he holds as every member of the team has great confidence in him. At right halfback Elbert Weston, has won the appellation of "Rabbit" on account of the fact that perhaps no High School team in the State has a faster man. At left halfback his "big" brother, Jim Weston, may be seen in action. His playing has well been summed up by Capt. Fowle as follows: "When Weston stands behind the line, everything is still; for the people know the mighty Jim is about to show his playing skill. He waves one foot and gets in place. All ready for the ball; and when it hits him in the chest he dives without a fall."

David Smith at quarter is playing this year for the first time, but judging from the way he runs the team it is easy to see that he is one of its strong assets. On the ends, Fred Moore may be counted upon to handle forward passes and to break up the interference of the opposing team, while Charles Meekins may be seen playing in his old form, being especially strong in blocking. This is his second year in the game and it is not an unusual thing to see them tear through the line and down their men. A center rush through Washington's line is practically impossible on account of the strength of Washington's Guards, John C. Taylor and James Howard. This is Taylor's second year in the game. He plays a constant game and invariably gets his man, James Howard, although a new man, is playing a good game at left guard. Joe Wilkinson will handle the ball at center. For a man new in the game he is playing unusually good ball. The following new boys, all of whom play a good game, may be substituted: James Fowle, B. Hodges, Walter Morgan, E. Harris, H. Hudnell. At this time, with one exception, the team is in very good condition and a treat is in store for those who avail themselves of the opportunity of witnessing our first Thanksgiving game.

AGRICULTURAL FAIR AT AURORA NEXT WEEK

The Agricultural Fair at Aurora next week promises to be one of the most attractive events in the history of that section and unless something unforeseen happens it will be one of the greatest gatherings of farmers and others interested in agriculture. The attractions offered will be unique and interesting from start to finish. The citizens of Aurora are always up to date and the Daily News feels confident that all who attend this fair will be more than repaid.

RUGH PAUL P. M.

SEN. RAYNER OF MARYLAND PASSES AWAY

Washington, Nov. 27.—Isidor Rayner, of Maryland, one of the leading Democratic members of the United States senate, and a man whose name was offered to the Baltimore convention by William J. Bryan as a suitable candidate for the presidential nomination, died here early yesterday at the end of a long illness resulting from continued attacks of neuritis.

Senator Rayner had been in a comatose state since last Wednesday, with only one or two slight rallies. His severe illness covered a period of about six weeks, dating from the efforts made in the joint political debates with Bourke Cochran at Baltimore last September. Physicians compelled him to retire from the campaign immediately after that, and he returned to his Washington home where he died at 6:20 o'clock yesterday morning.

For over five years Senator Rayner had been a sufferer from neuritis. His death creates a vacancy in the senate that probably will be filled by a Republican, through appointment of Governor Goldsborough, of Maryland. While the legislature of that state is Democratic it does not meet this winter, and the Republican governor's appointment will hold through the opening sessions of the next congress.

The control of the United States senate after March 4 may hinge on the death of Senator Rayner.

The Republican whom it is expected Governor Goldsborough will appoint in his place will hold office at least until the Maryland legislature meets in February, 1914.

Senator Rayner's death removes one of the Democrats on whom the control of the senate depended in the new congress. With his vote the Democratic leaders counted on numbering 49, or one more than a majority of a total membership of 96. In any event, 48 votes, with the vote of the Vice-President in case of a tie, was looked upon as sufficient strength to insure control.

While the Democrats still have an apparent strength of 48, the death of the Maryland senator reduces the supposed majority to a point very near the dividing line of party control.

Senator Rayner was one of the striking figures of the senate. He had been a member of that body for almost eight years, and was one of its strongest debaters and a recognized authority on constitutional law. Before he entered the senate he had attained a national reputation because of his vigorous conduct of the naval court of inquiry, that investigated the action of American officers in the battle with Admiral Cervera's Spanish fleet.

Senator Rayner was a native of Baltimore and was 63 years old. He was a member of the Maryland legislature when 28 years old and served three terms in the national house of representatives in the period from 1886 to 1892. He was elected to the United States senate in 1904, after having served a four year term as attorney general of Maryland.

As a member of the committee on foreign relations and the judiciary, Senator Rayner devoted special attention during the last few years to America's foreign problems and constitutional and legal questions. He was a strong advocate of the abrogation of the treaty with Russia because of that country's discrimination against passports presented by American Jews exercised a marked influence in getting the senate to endorse such action.

PRAYER MEETING.

There will be prayer meeting services in all the different churches of the city this evening at the usual hour, in which the general public has a cordial invitation to be present.

HER ENGAGEMENT IS RUMORED

Miss Dorothy Williams, a most attractive young woman of Washington, is rumored, is engaged to be married to Major Archibald Butt, the president's personal aid. Similar reports concerning Major Butt have been circulated in the past, but it is believed this one is true.

Associated Charities Doing Great Work in the City

The Associated Charities, which was organized here last winter in a very small way, but since that time they have done some very good work, but not as much as they would like to do, because they have not had the funds to do with. The superintendent, Miss Rachel Rumley, as soon as she has an application for help, she at once investigates the case herself, or through a committee who has been appointed to look after this work. If the case proves to be a deserving one, the association at once contributes to the applicant as far as they are able. If the case proves to be an unworthy one, they are refused. We know that there are some persons in our town who made it their business to beg from door to door, before this organization was organized, who were not worthy, but through the efforts of the Associated Charities this kind of begging has been eliminated, and only those helped who really need it. The people of Washington have no idea what destitute cases are sometimes found—some of them are heart-rending.

Now, what the Association wants to do is to increase their income so they will be in a position to do more for the worthy poor in our city who really are in need.

They would be very glad to have you become a member of the Associated Charities, and if you will telephone or call on Miss Rachel Rumley, Mayor Harding or E. Mixon, stating the amount which you are willing to contribute, they will very much appreciate it. The money will not be given to any others than those whom they believe to be really in need of it.

Elks Lodge Memorial Services to be Held Next Sunday Afternoon

On next Sunday afternoon at the Public School Auditorium the Washington Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks will hold its annual lodge of sorrow. The exercises will take place at three o'clock. The orator of the occasion will be Hon. John W. Cherry, of Norfolk, Va. One member has passed away during the past twelve months being W. M. Williams. An address on the life and character of the deceased will be delivered by Angus D. McLean, Esq. The committee on music and the other committees are making elaborate preparations for the event which for the past several years has proven of great interest. The lodge has lost eleven members during its eleven years of existence. The speaker of the day will be presented by Hon. H. S. Ward.

MANY WILL ATTEND THE GAME IN NORFOLK

Quite a number are leaving today and tonight for Norfolk, via the Norfolk Southern, for Norfolk for the purpose of witnessing the football game between the A. & M. College of Raleigh and Washington and Lee University at Norfolk tomorrow. The Norfolk Southern is selling reduced tickets for the occasion.

Mr. J. L. Hartfield, of New Bern, is a guest at Hotel Louise.

McNAMARA TELLS STORY OF BLOWING UP OF LOCKS

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 27.—The contentions of the defense that the McNamaras and Orrie E. McManigal alone were responsible for explosions and that the Iron Workers' Union executive board and President Frank M. Ryan knew nothing of any $1,000 expended from the union funds for destroying non-union property, were pursued in the cross-examination of McManigal at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial yesterday.

Before being turned over by the government, McManigal had told stories of how he and the McNamaras had talked of blowing up the locks of the Panama canal and how James B. McNamara was to return to Los Angeles "and wipe that city off the map" by firing the city and dynamiting the water works, and how they were prevented from carrying out these plots by their arrests in April, 1911. He also had related that after his and James B's arrest in Detroit and on the train of Chicago, James B. offered Guy Biddinger, a detective $20,000 to allow them to escape, telling Biddinger "if you don't get it, Clarence Darrow will."

Senator John W. Kern, for the defense, cross-examined McManigal.

"Was the pay you received from the McNamaras your motive in causing so many explosions?" asked Senator Kern.

"No it was not money. Herbert S. Hockin, when he first started me into the dynamiting business, terrorized me, saying if I did not do it he would prevent me from getting work.

Then I was prompted by a foolish notion that it was for the good of the Iron Workers' Union. My mind was inflamed with the idea it would build up the union."

McManigal admitted he had been arrested three times, twice for larceny and once for disorderly conduct.

"After the Los Angeles Times building was blown up, when you and James B., were hunting in the woods in Wisconsin, you say he admitted to you that he deliberately killed the 21 persons, that he was a printer and he knew he would kill someone when he put the bomb in the Times building and yet you continued to associate with him?"

"Yes I did."

McManigal had said that when J. J. McNamara, secretary of the union, planned "wholesale explosions" including the blowing up of Los Angeles city, he was afraid the "executive board would cut off his allowance."

"Now, you say McNamara, in order to get more money proposed to steal $150,000 by killing the treasurer of the automobile races at the speedway in Indianapolis, and yet you still kept company with these men who planned the murder."

"Yes, I did."

McManigal told in detail how much he was paid for each "job."

"When you caused the explosion in the Llewellyn Iron plant in Los Angeles on December 25, 1910, how much did you charge for it?"

"I got $525 which included my expenses."

The War Situation is More Acute Through Russia

London, Nov. 27.—The extreme anxiety manifested by all the European governments to deny reports of warlike preparations and to represent the political situation as peaceful and satisfactory in itself indicates on how slender a thread the issues of peace and war in Europe now hang.

The danger arises not alone from the conflicting interests of Austria, Serbia and other powers, but from the possibility that Turkey, following the traditional policy of profiting by the embroilment of the great powers, may adopt an irrevocable attitude in the peace negotiations.

Beyond the fact that the plenipotentiaries met today, nothing is known yet—not even whether an armistice has been arranged. There appears to be a suspension of operations at the Thessalonja lines, apparently by tacit consent rather than by formal agreement.

The semi-official Bulgarian newspaper Mir editorially voices the governmental irritation at Turkey's dilatory methods of negotiation and accuses the ports of deliberately dominating delegates from remote points in order to gain time. This probably refers to Osman Niammi who only arrived at Constantinople from Berlin yesterday.

In the diplomatic field the most important reports are that Serbia declines to reply to the Austrian demands until the war is concluded, and that Germany has not undertaken to mediate between Austria and Russia. The news that Serbia is throwing further obstacles in the way of the Austrian representative in search of Prochaska, the Austrian consul at Prizren, is another disturbing feature.

Fighting continues around Adrianople, where the besieging forces are reported to have drawn their investing circles to within two-thirds of a mile of the town.

ISSUES OF PEACE AND WAR NOW IN EUROPE

Berlin, Nov. 26.—Relations between Austria-Hungary and Serbia are now so strained that political circles in Vienna have abandoned hope of the preservation of peace, according to the Neue Gesellschaftliche Correspondenz, which says it has its information from a diplomatic source.

Despite official Austrian denials of the reported mobilization of the Austro-Hungarian army the Correspondenz declares that five army corps have been already mobilized and the reserves continue to be called up in large numbers.

The Austro-Hungarian government, it continues, is resolved not to await the return of the Serbian troops operating against the Turks, and an ultimatum to Serbia is expected within a few days.

The situation has become more acute through the haughty attitude of Russia. Sergius Sazonoff, the Russian foreign minister, after having declared suitable as a basis for further negotiations the Austrian proposal guaranteeing Serbia a free port on the Adriatic Sea and a Serbian railway through Albania, but without territorial rights has now abandoned this standpoint.

Austria is now disposed to push the matter to a decision because if war is inevitable she wants to take advantage of her mobilization being more advanced than that of Russia.

IMPROVEMENT TO THE BANK OF WASHINGTON

The Bank of Washington will move tomorrow in the Call building pending the completion of their improvements and alterations in their present bank building. The new vault has been finished and the doors are now being placed in position today. The work of installing the fixtures is now under way. This banking institution when completed will compare favorably with any similar institution in North Carolina. The heating and ventilating apparatus is now being also installed.

HOBBLE SKIRT IS 3,000 YEARS OLD.

Philadelphia, Nov. 25.—The hobble skirt is more than five thousand years old, according to Dr. Edith M. Hall, who has charge of the excavations in Crete for the University of Pennsylvania, and is here to deliver a course of lectures. In her opening lecture Dr. Hall declared that the excavations so far made show that the women of those days, 3,000 years before Christ, wore hobble skirts, tight corsets and mannish collars.

"Excavations on the island," said Dr. Hall, "will be materially assisted by the Balkan war, since, under the Turkish regime the excavating is hampered by a great deal of red tape."

Dr. J. T. Nicholson and Miss L. Whitney, of Bath, N. C., are at the Hotel Louise.
