The "Con" in Economy.

You can save car fare by walking, but you will have to waste time and shoe leather. You can save gasoline and tire costs by making strom delivery by wheelbarrow instead of by motor truck, but you won't improve the quality or lessen the payroll of your delivery service. Both of which illustrations naturally lead up to the reflection that the merchant who economizes by trying to dispense with newspaper advertising in getting new business is identical with "the guy who put the 'con' in economy."

In the price of every article you sell there is a certain number of dollars or cents of a certain fraction of a cent representing the cost of making the sale. Unless you use the cheapest and most expeditious method of inducing the consumer to exchange his money for your wares—to wit, good newspaper advertising—the sales cost is too high.

The steady newspaper advertiser can sell cheaper and make more profit than the non-advertiser; he can share the advantage of advertising with the buyer. Our advertisers and readers both gain through the reduction of selling costs brought about by the publication of news about merchandise in this newspaper.

A Telling Advertisement.

First Night Critic.

In an article in the American Magazine, Walter Richard Eaton writes: "The theater door man is an important person on first nights, because he passes out return checks between acts he hears the comments of the audience. His ears are wide open on such occasions, and mingling with the crowd in the lobby, are other attaches of the theater, all seeking to overhear the comments, and all rushing to report to the manager. Not long ago the last act of a play in New York was entirely changed after the opening night solely because the women in the audience, as they left the house, were nearly all complaining of the tragic finish. When a piece hangs in the balance between success and failure, when 'thinking' can perhaps turn the scale, these frank comments overheard in the lobby are of great importance to author and manager. In other cases they are a barometer of success or failure, though the ultimate test, of course, is the subtle attitude of the audience in the auditorium, its spontaneous enthusiasm or its coldness and signs of boredom."

A Household Mansever.

"And what," asked the caller after he had been shown all over Mr. Bobbs' new house, "is that pretty little article hanging over the piano?" "Don't you know?" answered Mr. Bobbs enthusiastically. "Why, that is a handy match receiver, made by Mrs. Bobbs. I scratch a match and use it! It must not be thrown on the floor. There is the receiver. Holding the burned match carefully in my fingers, I move the piano away from the wall to the center of the room. Then I go down in the basement and get the step-ladder. I place the step-ladder against the wall, mount it, deposit the match in the receiver, climb down again. I then return the step-ladder to the basement, come back and move the piano into its former position. There's nothing like having these things about the house. It makes neatness and discourages smoking."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Recipes For Long Life.

The late John Bigelow, the patriarch of diplomats and authors, and the no less distinguished physician and author Dr. S. Weir Mitchell were together several years ago at West Point. Dr. Bigelow was then ninety-two and Dr. Mitchell eighty.

The conversation turned to the subject of age. "I attribute my many years," said Dr. Bigelow, "to the fact that I have been most abstemious. I have eaten sparingly and have not used tobacco and have taken little exercise."

"It is just the reverse in my case," explained Dr. Mitchell. "I have eaten just as much as I wished, if I could get it; I have always used tobacco, immediately at times, and I have always taken a great deal of exercise."

With that ninety-two years shook his head at eighty years and said, "Well, you will never live to be an old man."—Lippincott's.

A Free Hotel.

At Miramar, on the island of Mallorca, in the Mediterranean, is a free hotel, where accommodations may be had for three days upon application to the agents of the Archduke Luis Salva-tor of Austria. It is a beautiful spot, and the entire neighborhood is full of attractions to the traveler. Attendants in charge look after the welfare of guests, who must, however, provide for their own food. Beds, linen and table appointments they receive gratis, and bread and wine can be obtained very reasonably. It is said that this provision is due to the gratification the Austrian owners felt years ago when they first came to live at Miramar. Such "goodness and such goodwill," they felt, should be shared by all lovers of nature who passed that way.—Argonaut.

LARGE ONLY IN THE CHEST

Physically Small Man, With Shrewd Head, Had the Laugh on the Big Fellow.

Being a large man—broadly, that is—Singleton generally gives on the pipe, he has a habit of puffing his two-yard chest and glaring pitifully at the smaller fry. The steel held a whistle drive last week, and there was hardly anything else in it but Singleton for quite a while.

Then Mydleton came in. Mydleton's air quiet man; little chap; generally comes in late everywhere, but comes in just the same. The conversation got to brown and musky. It generally goes where Singleton is. At last Mydleton chipped in.

"Look here, Singleton, I'll wager you an even half-quid I measure more round the waist than you do."

We all stared, and Singleton nearly choked.

"I'll take you," he grinned, "and give you five to one, if you like."

"Done!" said Mydleton.

Then, in the dressing-room Singleton ran the tape round Mydleton, and cried contemptuously:

"Thirty-four inches! As broad across the shoulders as a herring across the forehead."

Mydleton's face fell, but he picked it up again, and, placing the tape round Singleton he called loudly:

"Fifty-nine inches!" Then, to the stakeholder, "I'll take that three pounds, please."

"But how?" Singleton said.

"Well," said Mydleton, "the big chest was yours, but I measured round it!"

There's been an awful shrinkage in Singleton.—London Tit-Bits.

A certain tract or parcel of land lying and being in Ockraoke Township, it being on the island of Ockraoke and all of the land allotted to Malsey Williams in the division of Thomas Walsh Sept. 9th, 1897. See a deed to the said Malsey Williams in Book X, page 397. Beginning at a point on Pamlico Sound bearing N. 64 W. from the Northwest corner of the light house lot, then S. 64 E. 23 6-5 poles to the Northwest corner of the light house lot, then N. 8 E. 31 1-2 poles, then N. 47 W. to Pamlico Sound and with the sound to the beginning. Saving and excepting the pieces of said lot heretofore conveyed by said Malsey or her heirs—which said piece of land was conveyed unto Edinsham Tutill by Walter Williams and others by deed dated 28 July 1897, and recorded in Book —, page —, of Hyde County which said deeds are referred to and made a part hereof for the purposes of a description, excepting the piece of land the said Edinsham Tutill has sold unto L. M. Broome, L. B. Tutill and Louis Thomas.

This 17th day of January, 1913.
